Studied Nonchalance — Not a New Tactic

Johnson Is 'Keeping His Cool'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — There are elements of studied nonchalance in President Johnson's prolonged stay at his Texas ranch and his brief informal visit today to Mexico.

In the lingo of the hipster, the president is "keeping his cool" amid a sea of troubles. He has been doing so all spring, exuding bland amiability despite threatened political disaster in South Viet Nam, France quitting NATO and domestic prices soaring.

The tactic is not a new one for the big Texan who likes to keep his options secret and who in his third year as president remains head and shoulders the dominant figure here or in the political hinterlands.

He may yet stub his toe disastrously as the late president Kennedy did in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. Opportunities certainly abound.

But President Johnson remains, by all the usual political omens, a man with a hefty edge in public support even if the initial gloss and fervor are worn. Widely loved he is not, but his political sagacity is respected.

On Viet Nam, that probably means staying on even if the regime in the south—due to current trouble or later—asks the United States to decamp.

But the president has got

Iraq's Arif Killed In Crash

LONDON (AP)—Cairo Radio, monitored here, reported today that Iraq's President Abdul Salam Mohammed Arif has been killed in an air crash.

Cairo said the source of its report was Baghdad radio.

It said the crash came as the president was leaving Al Qurnah for Basra, Iraq.

OIL PORT

Basra, further to the south, is an oil port on the Shatt el Arab River and once was the centre for a big British base.

Arif assumed power in 1963. An unsuccessful attempt to overthrow him came in September, 1965, and his then prime minister, Abdul Arif Razzak was expelled from the country.

Portland Blaze Fells Firemen

Yemeni Minister Bullet-Ridden, Assassin Dies

SAN'A, Yemen A(P) — An assassin killed Abdullah el Airiny, minister of local administration, with five shots in the head and chest Wednesday. The gunman then jumped from a third - floor window, breaking his leg, and killed himself with his last bullet as ministry guards closed in.

El Airiny, 47, died in an ambulance on his way to the Egyptian military hospital. He was named acting president of the republic last month.

Police identified the assassin as Abdul Wahab el Washaly, a former employee of the information ministry. A ministry spokesman said the gunman had called on El Airiny and asked whether he could return to his job.

El Airiny had ordered El Swashaly jailed after he wrote an anti - Soviet article in a weekly newspaper three weeks ago. He was released three days ago.

Saigon Pledges Election

SAIGON (UPI) — Chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday dramatically closed a Vietnamese political congress by signing an official decree proclaiming that an elected civilian form of government would be set up in three to five months.

Van Thieu acted after the government's hand-picked political convention upheld Buddhist demands for an elected national assembly but called for an immediate end to agitation and demonstrations.

As the congress wound up its sessions, shouting and jeering Buddhist students barricaded themselves in their high school and urged other students to join them in a nationwide boycott of

Attacks Step Up In Capital

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists, stepping up their attacks in Saigon, Thursday hurled hand grenades at military and police stations, staged gun battles in the streets and stabbed an American.

The U.S. Air Force said the first B52 attack on North Viet Nam set off a massive mountain landslide that sealed off the strategic Mu Gia Pass on the Ho Chi Minh infiltration supply line.

Court Orders Braves Back to Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Atlanta Braves must return to Milwaukee unless the National League agrees by May 16 to give the Wisconsin city a 1967 expansion franchise, a Wisconsin circuit judge ruled Wednesday night.

Judge Elmer W. Roller's order came in a decision in which he held that the Braves and National League violated Wisconsin's anti-trust laws by stripping Milwaukee of its major league team.

Roller said, "The refusal of the National League and the failure of the American League to issue a franchise to Milwaukee County . . . was a concerted refusal to deal in restraint of trade and commerce within the State of Wisconsin."

The ruling, which is virtually certain to be appealed, comes a day after the Braves opened their 1966 National League season in Atlanta before 50,000 fans Tuesday night.

In New York, a statement of comment issued on behalf of baseball commissioner William D. Eckert by a spokesman was withdrawn, and the commissioner said, "I have no comment now. I will take it under advisement and make a comment tomorrow."

Famed Sea Devil Von Luckner Dies

MALMOE, Sweden (AP)—Count Felix von Luckner, famous German Sea Devil of the First World War, died here Wednesday. He was 84.

Von Luckner commanded a speedy German commerce raider which, disguised as an old sailing vessel, took a heavy toll of Allied shipping but not a single life. The Sea Devil always made sure the crews—and even their pets—were safe before he scuttled their ships.

NOBILITY

The German naval hero had lived in Sweden since he married Ingeborg Vonengstroem, a wealthy owner of woolen mills, in 1924 except for a period during the Second World War when he was in Germany.

Von Luckner, descendant of a noble German family, ran away to sea when he was 13.

He combined both gallantry and daring in sending 14 Allied ships worth $25,000,000 to the bottom.

won him more admiration than enmity. At one time he carried enough captive skippers to form a "captain's club." Another time the Seeadler had as many as 144 cats.

"I broke the British blockade with a clear conscience," he said after the First World War. "No mother, wife, child or father lost a tear."

ROAMED SEAS

In his British-built and specially - equipped sailing vessel-auxiliary cruiser, von Luckner roamed the Atlantic and Pacific masquerading as captain of a Norwegian freighter. A 64-man crew, 27 of whom spoke American, helped to deceive the British before the Seeadler was wrecked by a tidal wave on a south sea coral reef in 1917.

Von Luckner was captured by the British after he and several crew members sailed a lifeboat for 48 days to the Fiji Islands where they had hoped to seize another ship.

Between the world wars, he conducted cruises and made lecture tours in several coun-

Move Gains Momentum

City May Quit Health Board

By A. H. MURPHY

A strong movement to have Victoria pull out of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health has been gathering momentum at City Hall in the past two days.

Senior officials and city aldermen say they are "fed up" with some of the tactics of the board and its officials, and are ready to break up an agreement of five years' standing.

(Also See Page 25)

Qualified observers say that if the city withdraws from participation in metro health services the board will almost surely founder, as the city is the principal contributor to its costs.

Ald. Lily Wilson, city council's representative on the board of health, said Wednesday she was "angry and very disturbed" over an exchange of letters between the board chairman, Central Saanich Reeve R. Gordon Lee, and provincial Health Minister Martin.

SALARY HIKE

The letters referred to a request for a $2,300 increase in salary for senior medical officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, made early in 1965 and never acted upon by the city.

In his letter, Reeve Lee said that the bid for the increase was predicated on the fact that when the metro board was formed in 1961, the salary of the senior medical officer was to be the same as that of a divisional director in the provincial health service.

LOST MONEY

And so, because no action was taken by the city in 1965, the letter added, Dr. Whitbread received $1,220 a month instead of $1,415—the salary of a divisional director.

"The senior medical health officer has lost $195 per month over the past year and in spite of discussions and efforts with the Victoria city council, no ac-

Inquiry In Camera

OTTAWA (CP) — The judicial inquiry by Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells into the George Victor Spence security case got under way at a closed hearing here Wednesday night.

'Grits Thirsting For Political Vengeance'

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative leader John Diefenbaker Wednesday night accused the government of thirsting for "political vengeance" at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry.

A few days before the inquiry resumes here, Mr. Diefenbaker uncorked his anger over the inquiry, which has been established by order-in-council, without the approval of parliament.

'PUNISHMENT'

The inquiry, to be conducted by Mr Justice Wishart Spence, had seen set up to reveal what took place more than five years ago.

"The purpose is one of political vengeance, to punish me or anyone associated with me for daring to take a stand against the government on the Spencer case," he charged.

RESUMES

Two members of the government had stated this, he said, "and the course being followed is one by way of getting even."

COUNSEL

Both have criticized the first sitting. They will be represented by counsel at next Monday's sitting.

The inquiry will examine the charges of Justice Minister Lucien Cardin that Mr. Diefenbaker mishandled the case of Gerda Munsinger.

MINISTERS

Mrs. Munsinger, according to Mr. Cardin, was a beautiful security risk involved with two or more Conservative cabinet ministers.

Mr. Cardin reported that she was dead but recently she has been traced, much alive, to Munich, Germany.

On nationwide television Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday night labeled the inquiry a vehicle for "star chamber" justice.

"What about this commission?" he asked.

Truscott Decision Today?

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal cabinet may decide the fate of Steven Truscott today.

Solicitor General Larry Pennell is expected to submit his report on the Truscott case, with his recommendations, to Prime Minister Pearson and cabinet this morning.

In 1956, Steven Truscott, then 14, was sentenced to hang for the murder of 12-year-old Lynn Harper near Clinton, Ont. His sentence was commuted and he spent the past seven years in prison.

REVIEW

Freelance writer Isabel Lebourdais recently published a book maintaining the boy's innocence and demanding a royal commission into the case. Several MPs and thousands of citizens have joined the chorus for a new look at the case.

Wednesday night, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker told a national television audience that Truscott must have the opportunity of having his case reviewed.

Doc Forbes' Latest Job

Tattoo Artist Needles B.C. Lobster Industry

By JACK MOORE

It's part of an attempt by the federal fisheries department to nurture the tasty crustaceans in Pacific waters—the fifth attempt since 1896.

* * *

Fisheries Scientists Wednesday brought two lady lobsters, imported from New Brunswick, to the Vancouver studio of Doc Forbes, British Columbia's leading tattoo artist, who for many years had a shop in Victoria.

They were brought to Vancouver from Barkley Sound, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where the latest lobster-raising attempt is taking place.

All the other attempts failed, and nobody seems to know why. The lobsters, instead of taking up housekeeping and producing more lobsters, just disappeared.

One of the difficulties in keeping the latest little group of lobsters in order, however, is lack of identification. One lobster looks pretty much like another, so the marine biologists decided to mark them.

* * *

Tags or leg bands would do, they decided. They kept coming off or getting waterlogged or being ripped off by other lobsters.

So they're trying Doc Forbes' needle.

Fisheries officials hope the lobsters will multiply, because epicurean tastes have made the lobster the most valuable single marine species in Canada.

Last year, the lobster industry was worth more than the landed value of all Pacific salmon combined.

Post Office Yields Haul

ST. FELICIEN, Que. (CP)—Post office officials discovered Wednesday thieves broke into the post office in this community 160 miles north of Quebec City overnight, getting away with between $60,000 and $75,000.

A spokesman for the Quebec Provincial Police, which is investigating the theft, said the money was taken from two of five postal sacks.

ion has been taken on their part," the letter states. It asks immediate action to rectify this previous injustice and discrimination" against Dr. Whitbread.

REJECTED

The appeal was rejected by Mr. Martin, who said in his reply that he knew of no requirement stating that the salary of the senior medical officer must be at parity with the provincial scale.

PARITY

The minister added that in discussions with city representatives it had been stated that the department view was that there should be parity, but that was as far as he could go.

"I have no desire to become involved in a matter of internal administration between the city and the Metropolitan Board of Health," the letter stated, adding that his department would not "dictate to the city the salary paid employees."

CITY SCALE

Ald. Wilson knew of no agreement about parity with provincial medical health service wage scale.

"The agreement was that the salary of the senior medical health officer would be on a level with that of city department heads, not the provincial government," said Ald. Wilson.

DISCUSSION

Ald. Wilson conferred with city officials Wednesday morning about the possibility of the city withdrawing from the board.

Ald. Michael Griffin said he had been under the impression that the board of health was the creature of the city, its chief source of support, but this apparently was not true.

NO BARRIER

"The way the board acts, one wonders who is the parent and who is the child," he said.

City Manager Dennis Young said that so far as he knew, there would be no barrier to withdrawal by the city from the board.

"The agreement between the city and the metropolitan board is not legal. It is impossible for two such organizations to formulate a binding agreement. We could pull out and provide our own service for our own people," Mr. Young said.

ESTIMATES

City officials said that because of a very complex system of federal and provincial grants, it was almost impossible to estimate the total budget of the board of health, but it was certain that with a contribution of $79,200 in 1965, the city was paying the lion's share.

Salary for the senior medical officer of health in 1965 was $14,640, exclusive of allowances and fringe benefits which brought it up to more than $16,000.

In the 1966 estimates, Dr. Whitbread is asking a salary of $18,000. Benefits and allowances would bring this to close to $20,000.

Prior to 1961, when the metropolitan board of health was formed, there were three administrative bodies in the district. The Union Board of Health took care of Victoria and Esquimalt. The Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit was operated as a division by the provincial government, and Oak Bay, with a part-time medical officer of health and one nurse, had its own health unit.

India Claims Border Raided

NEW DELHI (AP)—A Pakistani band crossed into West Bengal Saturday and raided a police post at the village of Gosainpur, Indian government sources said Tuesday. They said 60 Pakistanis armed with clubs made the raid, assaulted three policemen, freed a Pakistani accused of crossing the border illegally and seized rifles and ammunities from the post.

Many Stresses Contribute In Post-Partum Depression

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a nervous breakdown after the birth of my first child and the doctors called it post-partum depression. A book on the subject suggests thyroid for it, sometimes accompanied by shock treatments. Would you discuss? — E.S.

Thyroid is frequently helpful in post-partum depression. Shock therapy is not usually needed and is not quite as effective in this type of depression as in others.

Such depression, or emotional illness, occurs in varying degrees of seriousness. From 4,000 to 5,000 women a year require treatment for it.

Post-partum depression is a peculiar type of mental condition. All seems well until the baby is born. Then the mother may unaccountably become irritable, upset by little things, morose, lose her appetite, become very tired. She is disinterested in her role as mother.

SLOW GLANDS

Why this occurs is not clear. It is understandable that fatigue may result from the stress of childbirth. It also has been found that in these cases the function of the thyroid, adrenals, and other hormonal glands has slowed down.

Yet it is not correct to think that childbirth is wholly responsible. It doesn't happen to all women. Other stresses may be at work and probably are.

Psychiatrists find such elements as a woman's hostility to being a woman; of disappointment at having a girl instead of a boy or vice versa; a feeling of loss of freedom — or, many forces at work within the patient's mind.

Treatment embodies the use of thyroid in controlled dosage; ample rest and sleep; psychotherapy to help the woman understand the forces which are bothering her, often without her realizing, at first, what she resents about her life.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything be done for skin that was badly sunburned and did not return to its original color but stayed pink? — K.S.

Soviet Envoy in Tokyo

U.S. Accused of Kidnap Attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American diplomat in Tokyo is accused by the U.S.S.R. of faking a heart attack to lure a Soviet diplomat into an apartment where an attempt could be made to kidnap him.

The state department confirmed Wednesday that a Soviet protest accusing the United States of the unsuccessful kidnap attempt has been received.

The department press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. embassy in Moscow received the note "which is their version of the alleged incident in Tokyo involving allegedly a secretary of the Soviet embassy."

The first word of the attempt to kidnap Georgi Pokrovsky, first secretary of the Soviet embassy in Tokyo, was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass. It said the attempt was made by "American intelligence agencies" but gave no details.

* * *

Information available here said the Soviet note gave this version:

An unidentifiable American diplomat moved into the apartment building in which Pokrovsky lived and fostered an acquaintanceship with him.

* * *

Then one day when the two were just outside the apartment building, the American suddenly acted as if he had a heart attack and asked Pokrovsky to help him to his apartment.

Once they got to the American's apartment, some other Americans tried to seize Pokrovsky, but he struggled free.

NATO Fans Cold War

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Georges Pompidou said Wednesday France decided to withdraw from NATO's integrated military system because the system helped perpetuate the cold war.

Pompidou added that the day will come when the U.S. will understand the French move, which, he emphasized, "in no way changes our sentiments toward the American people."

The French premier, opening a three-day debate in the National Assembly on the government's policies on NATO and other issues, said France intends Western Europe to be the partner — not the adversary—of Eastern Europe.

FEARS INVOLVEMENT

He also reiterated French statements that NATO's integrated military organization could drag France into a war not its own.

The future of Europe and world peace depends on rapprochement between East and West Europe and France "feels that she is contributing to the dissipation of the cold war climate which has weighed incessantly on Europe for 20 years."

CLOSER CONTACT

France hopes the economic, social and political evolution of Eastern Europe would daily bring it closer to France "in eliminating divergencies and multiplying points of contact."

Pompidou denied France is changing sides in withdrawing from NATO.

President de Gaulle's visit to Russia in June "does not represent some kind of change of alliances or some kind of threat against our European or American allies," he said.

Americans Cut Off At Shrine

PARIS (UPI) — The French government has refused to allow the Invalides national shrine to be used this year for annual ceremonies honoring Americans killed in the liberation of Paris in the Second World War.

As a result, the commemoration service, which had been held for 20 years at the Invalides, will have to be transferred to a U.S. military cemetery in the suburbs of Suresnes, organizer Marcelle Thomas said.

Navy Phasing Out Landlubber Herd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After 55 years in the dairy business, the U.S. Navy is mustering out its cows.

It was in 1911 that the naval academy, faced with a typhoid epidemic, bought the 876-acre farm at Gambrills, Md., to assure its midshipmen safe milk.

But recently, the General Accounting Office told the Navy it could save $84,000 a year by selling the farm and buying commercial milk.

So the Navy said it would study ways to "phase out" the 377 cows, four bulls and 262 calves.

Turmoil in Viet Nam Could End U.S. Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senators suggested the possibility Wednesday that the current political turmoil in South Viet Nam could lead to U.S. withdrawal from the war.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R.-Ky., a former ambassador to India, said that if the people of South Viet Nam do not want to continue the war, the United States should not continue it for them."

And in another Senate speech, Sen. Stephen Young, D.-Ohio, declared:

"If the Saigon military junta is over thrown, and the new regime says 'Americans go home,' there is no alternative. Otherwise, it would be evident before the world that our armed forces have supplanted the French colonial power as aggressors."

Young said the claim of Secretary of State Rusk, Defence Secretary McNamara and others "that we are there on invitation of the government would be rejected. We should then get out on their invitation."

Offshore Hopes Grow

RECENT submarine discoveries of oil and natural gas in many parts of the world have raised considerably the hopes that similar finds will be made within the next year or two off the shores of Vancouver Island.

Oil is produced off the coast of California and in the Gulf of Mexico. To the north it has been found in Cooke Inlet off the coast of Alaska, and in each case the wells have proved as good if not better than those in many leading dry land oil and gas fields.

The latest underwater discovery has been made off the east coast of Britain. It lies about 40 miles off the fishing town of Lowestoft and is about 100 miles southeast of the first British well discovered last year off the Humber estuary.

It would seem that Britain may have another massive field such as has been discovered in the North Sea off the coast of the Netherlands.

It is interesting to note that the new North Sea well is partly owned by the Shell group of companies, for it is the Canadian subsidiary of Shell which is now preparing to drill off the coast of Vancouver Island and it is for this company that the Victoria Machinery Depot is now building an $8,000,000 offshore drilling rig.

Shell has done considerable instrument exploration work on its B.C. offshore reservations, and its chief officers are extremely hopeful that the costly venture will turn out to be successful.

A strike of oil or gas would of course precipitate action on the federal-provincial hassle over ownership of offshore minerals. This problem is still in the process of litigation, and most of the companies now working off the shores of Canada have taken the precaution of registering their rights both with the federal and the appropriate provincial governments.

If oil is discovered it will, of course, be readily accessible to the world markets, but if the find is natural gas, the closest customer will be Vancouver Island, which up to now has no piped supply of this modern-type of energy fuel. The near presence of a natural gas supply would be a tremendous boost to industry in these parts and particularly to the fast-growing pulp, paper and sawmilling industries, to whom cheap power would be an added incentive.

Shell hopes to start its drilling program sometime this summer.

In Absentia

THE two subjects that recently rocked Parliament as well as the nation at large and forced the government to set up judicial inquiries to get to the root of things seem destined to cause the latter to be largely vitiated by default.

The unexpected death in Vancouver of Victor Spencer, for example, catapults an element into his case not foreseen and the circumstances surrounding his demise, not yet clear, add to the nuances attending his situation. Police authorities seem satisfied he died of natural causes but there are conflicting statements as to his habits, and factors pertaining to his death that still await explanation.

The major effect of his death, of course, as it bears on the crux of the matter, the inquiry into his connections, if any, with Soviet espionage circles, is that the principal figure of the case is no longer available to give evidence. It has been stated that friends may wish to supply information and there are police and other files that can be produced but in a real sense the analogy of a trial in absentia comes into focus.

With the deceased to be no longer there to hear any evidence against him, or in opposite vein in his favor, and offer his own rebuttal or confirmation as the instance might have been, the substance of the inquiry is greatly reduced.

Something of the kind will attend the other inquiry, that of the alleged involvement of former cabinet ministers with the German model, Gerda Munsinger, itself an outcome of the demand in Parliament for the Spencer inquiry, if Mrs. Munsinger carries out her stated intention not to appear in Canada for examination.

Here also documentary files exist for scrutiny, but absence of the chief character of the drama and what is bound to be hearsay evidence even if given under oath cannot but lessen the scope of inquiry that otherwise would have been possible.

It is a strange and certainly unexpected development that both these inquiries should be forced to proceed without the presence of the individuals who caused them to be invoked.

A Vital Survey

THE scourge of tuberculosis has mercifully been lessened by medical advances during the past few decades, but it still remains a disease of vital public concern and a continuous threat to human health. There are 20,000 known cases of TB in British Columbia and new infections are on the increase—700 cases last year.

The health authorities concerned point out that if these statistics were applied to smallpox, polio, or any other infectious disease, incidence on this scale would be termed an epidemic.

This is why what is called Operation Doorstep, a massive skin test and chest X-ray survey, will take place in Victoria as elsewhere from now until the end of May. Clinics will be within doorstep reach of every resident, and it is hoped to screen at least 70 per cent of the local population as a safety measure.

The survey presents an opportunity to everyone to take this free skin test and chest X-ray and thus gain assurance that all is well or otherwise enable remedial steps to be taken in the early stages of infection.

Tuberculosis is no respector of persons or of age groups. It may come upon older people as well as the young. That is why for instance one entire week will be given to testing those of mature age in a clinic at the Senior Citizens' Centre in Centennial Square.

There is an another aspect to Operation Doorstep. These examinations also show up other physical defects of which people may be unaware, and lead to curative action being taken before it is too late to be wholly effective. On all grounds it is in the best interests of Victorians to respond in large numbers to the invitation to take these tests, so valuable to the health and welfare of all.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

YOU think we are living in a wonderful age? Well, as Al Jolson was wont to say, you ain't seen nothin' yet.

Actually you and I won't see it, but our successors would.

A century hence, predicts a UCLA professor, the world could be filled with geniuses copies of great men who have gone before. And who have the prescience, and the ego, to ensure that their bodies are mummified after they have left their mortal coil.

I don't follow the technique of the business, it's as far above my head as the sputniks which orbit the globe every 90 minutes, but it has to do not with reincarnation but reconstruction.

In a process that will be routine perhaps 100 years hence, says the professor, the genetic codes or patterns preserved in the tissue of mummies could be copied and placed in fertilized egg cells.

* * *

King Tut of ancient Egyptian fame could be reproduced from his present day mummy, for example, which would certainly be enough to stop the flow of the Nile. Imagine a hundred or two Pharoahs, or even half-a-dozen, suddenly appearing on the Cairo scene.

Another instance would be if Mozart's body had been mummified. Thousands of Mozarts could be turned out, the professor points out, all of them I suppose, composing Magic Flutes.

I don't know if the world, even at its advanced stage of a hundred years hence, could stand such superabundance.

There's a story told of Churchill being asked once if he was ready to meet his Maker, to which he replied that he was but he wasn't sure that his Maker would be ready to meet him.

Think of the staggering possibilities.

Imagine for instance if their prototypes had been mummified and there were dozens of Mendelssohns as well as Mozarts, and Beethovens, Chopins, Bachs, et al, all busy as bees turning out their many masterpieces. Think of the sad fate of orchestras trying desperately to keep abreast of the musical tune.

And what if the present-day world were strewn with thousands of duplicate Napoleons, John A. Macdonalds, Henry the Eighths, John Knoxes, Cleopatras and Marc Antonys, Nelsons, Burnses, Robin Hoods—why should he be left out?—Saladins, Shakespeares. You can add endlessly to the list.

Or half-a-dozen Michelangelos resident in Victoria, with every construction boarding waiting to be turned into an art gallery.

* * *

One hesitates to mention living heroes but they're the chaps who if they look to their future eminence might feel inclined to end up as mummies. Visualize four Montgomerys facing six Rommels in some western desert. The military critics would be tied in knots. Or, coming closer to home, every team in the National Hockey League being staffed wholly with Bobby Hulls, Rocket Richards or Gordie Howes. What a terrifying prospect for goalkeepers. Although 'twould make titillating reading for Colonist sports fans come this time next century.

And just fancy the federal parliament of 2066 with a Pearson and a Diefenbaker of pristine vintage battling it out all over again.

No, no, I hope for the sake of posterity the professor is all wrong. A world of geniuses prolonging their stay and stirring the human porridge, as they'd be bound to do, would be altogether too much.

The UN would fall apart, supposing it was still there.

I wouldn't be here to watch all these geniuses in action, plus those of the next half-hundred years, of course, and I'm glad. If the professor is a true prophet there won't be room for lesser beings like yours truly anyway.

Ottawa Offbeat

Sad, Sordid Story Is Not Ended

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE honorable members, home now enjoying the Easter Week parliamentary recess, will be getting an earful about scandal in Ottawa.

In fact, they didn't have to wait to get home to hear about it, for constituents by the score, perhaps even the hundreds, were phoning and wiring and writing, asking, in effect, the same question that New Brunswick Conservative Gordon Fairweather of Royal, in dismay and disgust, burst out with during the uproar over Gerda Munsinger: "In God's name, what are we doing?"

Parliament, recoiling from the blast of outrage from the voters, dropped Madame Munsinger — but only for an indefinite time — and got on with the business of the budget and other things more in the real public interest.

But the respite from the Munsinger affair will be only temporary.

* * *

It took three years for the boil of scandal to come to a head, and the wound it is leaving will be long in the healing.

Those who are interested, or even doubtful, are invited to turn back the pages of this newspaper to an Ottawa Offbeat of February 13 of last year, in which the first word was dropped of a scandal bomb the Liberals were fusing to explode under the Conservatives.

It wasn't then clear what form the expose would take — the name "Munsinger" was still in the secret files — but it was scarcely confidential that it would involve what were described as Conservative "improprieties."

And it seems incredible that the Liberals not only sat on the Munsinger affair for two years after they first must have found it in the secret files when they won power in 1963, but were prepared as long ago as February of '65 to let the scandal out out of the bag.

But that's the only possible conclusion to reach in the light of the murky facts as they filtered uncertainly through Ottawa's well-holed "Secrecy Curtain" last year.

My column of February 13, '65, recounted Prime Minister Pearson's efforts to make good, with some house-cleaning, his public promise during the Rivard scandal that he wouldn't tolerate what he called a "dirty establishment."

* * *

There had been a cabinet shuffle, resignations of a few executive and special assistants to certain ministers, and the prospect of a further fumigation to rid the "Establishment" of the infection of impropriety.

Then the column continued:

"But some of the Young Turks among the Liberals, becoming impatient, aren't prepared to wait while, case after case, the stain of scandal seems to spread.

"In reprisal, they are hinting darkly of spilling the scandal beans on the Conservatives.

"They say they have cases of improprieties and indiscretions among the Conservatives in the six years they were in power which should match, and maybe more than match their own.

"And documented, too, they insist.

"The story is that they are sitting on the lid, specifically forbidden by the prime minister to pry into this can of worms.

"And the prime minister's thinking, here, they tell you, in explanation, is that if now the Liberals plaster the Conservatives as they themselves have been plastered, the Canadian voting public, already disturbed by all the talk and some evidence of political immorality, will be revolted beyond endurance.

"And if it turns out that the Conservatives in their days of power were tarred with the same scandal brush as the Liberals now in theirs, the taxpayers, outraged to the point of disowning both parties, will really have no place to go politically, with no choice or alternative between two evils.

"So the lid, if the prime minister has anything to do with it — and up to now (February 13, 1965) he has had plenty, confide his confidants — will remain tight on whatever garbage can of Conservative scandal there may be."

* * *

Well, that remained the situation through the balance of last year, including the election campaign, when there might have been the danger of the lid being pried off, and into this spring.

Then something unexpected happened . . . the Liberals, but particularly Justice Minister Lucien Cardin, got into trouble with the Conservative opposition on the Spencer security case . . . and the Quebec wing of the cabinet threatened to resign, and wreck the government in the process when the prime minister knuckled under to the Tory leader.

In surrendering to John Diefenbaker on the Spencer case, the prime minister pulled the cabinet rug out from under his Quebec justice minister, and the affair at once became a matter of Quebec's honor, with Mr. Cardin and his French Canadian colleagues through the resignation ultimatum making, in effect, the prime minister a hostage of power.

* * *

They, in fact, holding the club of threatened mass resignation over the prime minister's head, took control.

And he no longer was able to keep the lid clamped on the "garbage can" of Conservative scandal.

The initiative had passed to the justice minister — and long baited by John Diefenbaker and detesting the very name of the Conservative leader — Lucien Cardin took off the lid, reached in for the Gerda Munsinger scandal bomb and exploded it, deliberately, he told the House, to destroy what he scornfully called the "Diefenbaker myth."

But to wait, a year, for this act of vengeance!

Emperor's Decision

New Freedom For Ethiopia

By DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE

BRINGING very little notice from the outside world, Emperor Haile Selassie announced the other day that he is giving his kingdom of Ethiopia a constitutional government. It may prove to have been an historic announcement.

Under the constitution, the emperor has chosen his prime minister, but the prime minister will choose his own cabinet, responsible to him, and he and they collectively will be responsible not only to the emperor, but also to a parliament.

This is the culmination of a series of progressive moves started by the emperor immediately after his country's liberation by British, South African and British Colonial troops from the short-lived Italian occupation. The process has been drawn out over nearly a quarter of a century, and the emperor has sometimes been criticised for not moving faster. But his policy of hastening slowly has been vindicated so far by the contrast between the experience of Ethiopia and that of other African countries, where regimes have been overthrown by military revolution.

And the timing of this wise ruler has been skilful. His people have had a whole generation in which to gain experience required for making a parliamentary regime work. One may also guess that the emperor's decision to take the final step towards constitutional government now has been partly determined by current events elsewhere in Africa.

Ethiopia, too, has an army trained and equipped in the modern style, and it would be natural, though irresponsible, if some of the younger Ethiopian officers hankered after playing the dominant part in national politics that has been played by their opposite numbers in the Sudan, Nigeria and Ghana. If any such ideas have been running through Ethiopian military heads, the possibility of a military revolution in Ethiopia, by contagion from other African countries, has now been forestalled. For the effect would be to deprive the people of the self-government that the emperor has just granted. This would not be a popular program for a military junta to offer to the people; and the Ethiopian people would have the means of asserting itself if its will were to be flouted. Every Ethiopian peasant is a potential soldier, and the landscape is a labyrinth of natural fortresses. It would be an impossible task for the army to impose on the people a regime to which they were hostile.

The professional army is a tremendous power in African and Asian countries that have recently emerged from a period — in some cases, a long period — of colonial rule. The sudden abdication of a colonial power leaves a political vacuum in the emancipated country. In such circumstances, the national army, trained by the colonial authorities in the last phase of their rule, may be the most effective institution remaining, and then the army may feel that it is the defunct colonial regime's lawful heir.

The situation in Ethiopia is very different. The country is exceptional among African nations in having maintained its original independence continuously. The Italian occupation lasted for no more than six years — far too short a period to set any lasting mark on the country. The indigenous institution of national monarchy is age-old here (Haile Selassie's dynasty claims descent from the son of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba), and has been fortunate in having been represented by two outstanding personalities.

The first of these was the Emperor Menelik, who was the founder of modern Ethiopia; the second is Menelik's kinsman, the reigning emperor, who has carried on Menelik's work and has developed it further. In Ethiopia the political background is not a foreign colonial regime; it is a national monarchy that has voluntarily and deliberately made the transition from absolutism to constitutionalism. On the new constitutional basis, the crown is still a going concern. In Ethiopia there is no political vacuum; and the heir to the crown's former autocratic powers is not the army; it is the people represented in a parliament.

The Ethiopian people now has its chance of governing itself constitutionally on modern lines. Of course, a chance is not a certainty. Parliamentary government is a difficult system to work. To be made to work successfully, it requires a large number of honest, experienced and public-spirited citizens. There are too few of these, even in those countries in which parliamentary institutions have been a native growth.

In Ethiopia the first stage in the practice of parliamentary government is not going to be easy. All the same, the latest chapter of Ethiopia's political history gives ground for hope that the new chapter, now inaugurated, will turn out happily. At any rate, Ethiopia is embarking on constitutional government with much better prospects of success than some of her African neighbors had. It is important that Ethiopia should make an unmistakeable success of parliamentary government, and this not only for her own sake, but for the sake of Africa as a whole. If she succeeds she will have been a pathfinder for other countries in the continent.

Today the dominant non-African minorities in South Africa and Rhodesia, and the colonial regime in the Portuguese possessions in Africa, are seeking to justify their unjust and illiberal domination over subject African majorities by claiming that African peoples are incapable of governing themselves. This pretension is hollow. The ruling minorities have taken care not to give their African fellow-countrymen the opportunity of gaining experience in public affairs. If an African country now makes a success of parliamentary self-government, the slur on the political capacity of Africans will be given the lie, and this might perhaps make the dominant minorities' position finally untenable.

Thus, the next chapter of Ethiopia's constitutional history may be decisive for the destiny of the whole of Africa.

"Most Loyal Friend"

THIS is for the teenagers in the car that came racing down Moss Street on Sunday between 8 and 9 p.m., running over my dog, Mutt, and not even stopping to offer help. It could have been a child.

To you he was only a dog, but to me he was the most loyal friend I had. Everywhere I went he was with me whenever possible. When I came home from school he was always waiting for me with a happy greeting. It won't be much fun going anywhere without Mutt but I have a lot of happy memories of him.

Mutt had a lot of friends around here so we'll all be on the lookout for your car from now on. We called the police, and luckily they were just leaving our house when another speeding car of teenagers went speeding by and they got the licence and went after them.

This is not referring to all teenagers, just unthoughtful ones like you fellows. Even though Mutt had to die he may have helped make our street a little safer for all the kids and pets. I sure hope so anyways.

I would like to thank the motorcycle policeman who came to our assistance and also the Murphy family on Moss Street who helped me with Mutt when he got hit.

Canada First

I wish the members of parliament at Ottawa would get down to business and stop the bickering of party politics, vote-catching methods, and pay more attention of what is best for Canada.

Why all this fuss about Quebec and bilingualism, suggesting the civil service be bilingual; in other words, one must speak French or you are out.

Language, religion and politics do not mix. Two weeks ago there were language riots in Belgium, India and Pakistan. Look what is going on in Saigon. We don't want it to happen here. Do we?

Salesman's Lot

The recent statement made in the press indicating that Victoria is 23 years ahead of Vancouver in the formation of a union for automobile salesmen, is something which I feel requires clarification.

To my knowledge and experience as a car salesman in Victoria during the past seven years, no certification of salesmen exists, other than insurance coverage whilst driving a company car, no union is specifically functioning to include car salesmen, and attempts in the past to bring this about have only resulted in veiled threats of intimidation by certain employers to those employees who have had the temerity to be interested.

There is no doubt a minority group of established senior salesmen who have no interest in unions, make good money, have the run of the mill, pick and choose their hours of work on the floor, and generally have licence to purloin customers from a new man with a benign blessing from the management.

With certain dealerships it is the responsibility of the salesman to deal with complaints from a customer, with little or no backing from the management, and if the customer is sufficiently awkward to insist on replacement of some defect, then the salesman suffers by paying a substantial amount from his commission to meet costs of repair.

A recent publication graphically portrayed the car salesman as a man one step removed from a police line-up, and a con artist left over from a passing carnival. The turnover of salesmen has the unsettling effect of presenting a poor image to the public, and whilst it is possible to hire men without any regard for their ability or qualifications, and leave them to their own devices for a couple of months on starvation wages, then surely the need for improvement in conditions is obvious.

A TASTE OF HONEY

Cause for Concern

Premier Robarts of Ontario has promised to invigorate his government's supervision over trust companies. Will that be good enough?

Last July, he criticized the failure of the federal government to bring under general control financial institutions whose activities come close to banking. The premier noted that under the British North America Act the whole question of control of banking is the federal government's responsibility.

He went on to say that the problem was dealt with extensively in the 1964 report of the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance and its recommendations were that the federal government should bring under its control these various financial institutions.

It must be obvious to anyone that is following the findings of the Hughes Royal Commission, and is aware of British Mortgage and Trust's huge losses in dealing with Atlantic Acceptance and its subsidiary units, including a $1,660,000 unsecured loan, that this matter warrants concern.

The office staff of British Mortgage and other shareholders who were unaware of the full extent of the loss watched their share value shrink from $30 to $2.50.

The Fathers of Confederation and the Royal Commission on Banking might have envisaged closer scrutiny and better discipline under federal supervision.

Fringe Benefits

As we approach another Easter
And view with pride on Beacon
Hill
The beauty in the daffodil,
Landscaped in her shady bed,
Trees in blossom overhead.
Everywhere a scene and treasure,
With 'older folks perfect pleasure,
'Tis Easter. April, all in one,
And a million daffodils in the sun.

Warped Humor

If a group of bystanders at a fire wants to sing the "Batman" theme song while a fireman risks his life climbing up a ladder into a burning building, that is within the rights of the lame-brained mob. But when their ridicule turns to obstruction and then to actual combat with police at the scene, it is another matter.

These things have happened at two fires recently in Ottawa — one at Armstrong Street last week and an earlier one on Dalhousie Street. Some charges were laid by police, and there ought to be many more in future if there are recurrences of this sort of sick-minded behavior.

No Sign of Solution

Rhodesia Ruled By Ignorance, Wishful Thinking

By LORD REAY, from London

It is uncomfortable in the way that it is uncomfortable to go to a party given by someone you dislike. Also, one is nervous of the reaction of people under emotional strain to the provocative appearance of a British citizen.

Less trivially, it is uncomfortable because there is—among people of every interest—a rare degree of wishful thinking, and it is deeply depressing because there is no sign of any solution whatever consonant with the repeated assurances given by the British government to the world that Rhodesia would not be allowed to get away with UDI, unless the regime is reduced by force.

Fact and illusion have been hard to separate in the Rhodesian situation.

Throughout the winter it has been possible for people with a claim to information about the Rhodesian economy to make predictions that include the extremes of optimism or pessimism.

But it is in Rhodesia itself that illusion is to be found in its full abundance. It is most pathetic among the powerless liberals—the famous and the less famous—who believe that the judges will ultimately find against the regime; or that a further weakening of the economy will either stimulate elements of the public to demonstrations of protest against Smith's policy, or will strengthen the "moderate" element of the government, and enable Smith to detach himself from the extremists.

If the judges do find against the regime, they can be replaced, and in any event it looks suspiciously as though they are procrastinating their judgment on the grounds that it will be easier tomorrow than today to decide if the regime has acquired a de facto legality.

Trading By Barter

Since Rhodesia is now in effect trading by barter, the collapse of her currency would not mean the collapse of her remaining trade.

The African nationalist leaders in Zambia no less give the appearance of living in a dream world. They refuse to discuss the likelihood of an African insurrection, but their claims to be able to organize wide and successful sabotage are not corroborated by the decreasing incidence of internal disturbances.

But it is the dream world of the Rhodesian front that is the most important and the most frightening. A senior minister made the emphatic claim to me that the regime is supported by the Africans—a proposition that is entirely meaningless when any expression of opposition is known to be dangerous and when the Africans have never been offered a political choice.

And another senior minister—reported to be among the most sensible of the regime—claimed that sanctions are actually helpful and will continue to be helpful to the country's economy; a wretchedly irresponsible opinion to hold when the sophisticated parts of the economy are running down both because of an absence of imported materials and because of the loss of external markets.

Finally there is among all in Rhodesia, except for the very smallest minority, the deep, ineradicable conviction that the rest of Africa is a nightmare.

Revulsion against African rule ranges from the mild reasoning of some members of the white "opposition": "Look at the stock thefts in Kenya—we don't want them here," to the hysterical extreme of the minister of information's claim that institutions of the West—including the churches and the BBC—have been infiltrated by Communists under a long-term plan conceived in the Kremlin at the end of the war.

Ignorance Fostered

Ignorance is clearly responsible for much of the universal unreality of everyone's thinking. Because of censorship and the government's refusal to publish statistics, no one can know what is happening elsewhere in the country or to the enonomy or what other people are thinking or planning.

Nor is it difficult for a Rhodesian in Salisbury to choose an opinion that flatters his sense of security.

More dangerously, it is unclear how well informed the Smith government is. One of Salisbury's senior commercial bankers said he strongly doubted if Smith, who sits at the apex of a cumbersome hierarchy of committees established to deal with the economic emergency, understood himself what was happening to the economy.

Certain tendencies are, however, recognizable, and they are all unpleasant. The government is becoming, no doubt in part due to its increased material and emotional dependence on South Africa, more segregationist.

African schools are being cleared from European residential areas, where hitherto it had been a convenience to European employers to have them: hotels are being refused multiracial licenses.

The logic of persuasion by discomfort—which is the design of sanctions—does not seem to be the logic of Rhodesia. The adamant illusions, the ignorance, the prejudices, and the terrible irresponsibility in government circles alone—all these make the prospect of a negotiated settlement in Rhodesia at the present time a fantasy.

Drastic Decree Sets Precedent

By LOUIS B. FLEMING, from United Nations

The vote on Rhodesia in the Security Council last Saturday night will go into law books, if not history books, as a milestone in international relations.

U.S. ambassador, Arthur Goldberg, with the background of a lawyer and judge, told the council that it was establishing a rule of international law.

By its action the council appointed Britain as its agent to use its navy, aircraft and all other military resources to bar shipping of any nation from carrying oil bound for Rhodesia through the port of Beira in the Portuguese colony of Mozambique.

* * *

If a ship is sunk in defiance of the British action, the owners will have no remedy against Britain but can seek action only against the United Nations itself through the World Court.

No nation ever has been given this authority.

Furthermore, Portugal was made subject to international law to the extent that it may not use Beira either to receive or trans-ship petroleum for Rhodesia.

No nation in all history has had its sovereignty similarly restrained in time of peace.

* * *

Implicit in this first application of force by the Securty Council are further steps not only against Rhodesia but also against South Africa.

Now that Beira has been sealed, the only source of petroleum for Rhodesia is by tank trucks from South Africa.

International law will not be the same again, and neither may Rhodesia and South Africa.

Johnson in Dark on Buddhism

By CARL T. ROWAN

It was a bad week for President Johnson.

The problem that could establish him as a great president or tarnish his record beyond redemption — the Viet Nam war — took a turn for the worse.

Johnson found that, despite the presence of 230,000 U.S. military men in Viet Nam and an expenditure there of some $20,000,000 a day, the U.S. was almost hopeless in the face of Vietnamese internal strife.

* * *

And he made it clear to his advisers that he didn't like being swept along by events over which he had no control.

But the painful fact that President Johnson has to face is that he has no advisers who know anything about the Buddhists. After 12 years of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, after the expenditure of billions of dollars and the loss of hundreds of lives, no one could say with certainty who are the key Buddhists and what they really stand for.

One presidential aide said the point is not lost upon the president that he has experts around who can tell him the shape of de Gaulle's toenails; who can name the favorite dish of the most obscure West German official; who know much more about Britain than of their own country — but no one who can speak with any authority about all or any segment of the world's 162,000,000 Buddhists.

* * *

It was in the midst of this presidential lack of information that one of his counsellors mentioned that the United States really knows too little about the entire continents of Asia and Africa — "the places where most of our troubles will arise for the next 50 years."

That comment reportedly had its impact on Johnson, many of whose advisers are almost totally European-oriented and who himself has sometimes shied away from Asian and African problems.

Subsequent remarks probably will ensure that the state department, the central intelligence agency or some governmental unit turns up some Buddhism experts — soon.

* * *

Beyond this, some administration officials are now pushing for some real long-range thinking about a U.S. Asian policy.

They talk in terms of a triangle formed by China, Japan and Southeast Asia. They see the world's most populous country (China), the world's fourth biggest industrial complex (Japan) and an area that holds not only vast supplies of tin, rubber, oil and food grains but also the fifth most populous country in the world (Indonesia).

When administration thinkers note how close China had come to making Indonesia a satellite even while gobbling up Southeast Asia, they conclude that Japan would have been placed in such an economic squeeze that she soon would have had to yield to China's demands.

The result would have been a combination that would dwarf the power of the Soviet Union, equal that of Europe and almost equal that of the United States.

The presumption, within the circles discussing this possibility, is that somehow the U.S. is going to muster up the will and the knowledge to develop something other than hit-or-miss crisis policies for Asia — and perhaps Africa.

Immigration

Plugs For Holes

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislative measures to end large-scale evasion of normal immigration procedures are expected after the Commons resumes sitting Tuesday.

They may include limits on the discretionary powers of the immigration minister and increased authority for the Immigration Appeal Board, which rules on disputed cases.

The object is to stop the flow of would-be immigrants who have been using relaxed visa requirements to enter the country as visitors since early 1964. Once in, they stay.

20,000 ALIENS

There are an estimated 20,000 aliens who have entered Canada in this way now living and working in the country, about half in the Toronto - Hamilton area. They have no legal status.

About 13,000 have applied for permits as landed immigrants but the law makes no provisions for such an inundation of back-door immigration, officials say.

CLARIFY SITUATION

"We have to clarify this situation," Immigration Minister Marchand said in a television interview March 21. "That doesn't mean we are going to deport the 20,000.

"Far from that; I think we are going to do our best to keep them here, but it has to be straightened out."

WANT PRACTICE ENDED

If it isn't, concerned officials say more immigrants may be encouraged to enter by the back-door method than through normal channels.

Officials say 99 per cent of the 20,000 who are here now are deportable and many would never have got into Canada through normal channels.

The influx makes nonsense of Canada's policy of selective immigration, one top-ranking official says. It opens a route for a small selection of criminals or subversive elements to enter Canada, he adds.

Divorces Set Record

OTTAWA (CP) — A record 1,941 divorces were granted during 1965 by the provincial and territorial divorce courts and the Parliament of Canada, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

The figure for 1964 was 8,623. There were increases in the Maritime provinces, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Divorces granted in Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta accounted for four out of five of the total in 1965.

The bureau also reported the divorce rate has been climbing steadily since 1960. The rate—the number of divorces for each 100,000 populatit—was 36 i 1961, 4.8 in 1964, and 45.7 last year, the highest since 1948 when it was 54.4.

Divorce by province: (1964 figures in parentheses)

Newfoundland 3 (7); Prince Edward Island 16 (5); Nova Scotia 323 (315); New Brunswick 237 (210); Quebec 226 (834); Ontario 4,054 (3,508); Manitoba 443 (418); Saskatchewan 312 (315); Alberta 1,348 (1,389); British Columbia 1,961 wick 237 (21); 8Quebec 8226 —%½(: Ontarit 4,054 (3,508); Ma itoba 443 (418); Saskatche3 wand 312(315); Alberta 1,348 (1,389); British Columbia 1 ,961 (1.596); Yukon 12 (24); Northwest Territories 6 (2).

The high 1964 totals reflect the breaking of a 1962 parliamentary bottleneck, when the Commons passed no bills of divorce for Newfoundland and Quebec.

Tiny Brain Dissected

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russian scientists carried out a brain operation on a tadpole, Tass news agency reported Wednesday. Tass said they "removed a part of the so-called end brain of a tadpole and observed 30 days after the operation how it was restored."

Alberta Passes Law for Research Dogs

EDMONTON (CP) — A controversial section of the proposed Universities Act concerning the use of dogs for medical research was approved by the legislature Wednesday.

Some members said it was unfair both to dog owners and municipalities.

The section, amended twice, prohibits any university from buying dogs for research. Instead it states that municipalities with dog pounds shall make animals available to the medical faculty on request if they have not been claimed within 10 days and otherwise would be destroyed.

Originally the section said the municipality must make unclaimed animals available "within a reasonable time" and there was no rule against the university buying animals.

Cornelia Wood (SC, Stoney Plain) asked if Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross would consider setting up a provincial organization to clear claims for lost dogs before they are sent to the university.

Mrs. Wood said many owners might not be able to trace a lost pet within the stipulated time.

Dr. Ross said the amendment would benefit dog owners since most pounds now keep animals only a few days before destroying them.

Dr. S. G. Geldart (SC, Edmonton West), a University of Alberta faculty member, said the university's main problem in securing animals was that many were stolen, then sold to the campus for experiments.

MINER CREDITED

The phrase, "The 20th century belongs to Canada," is thought to have been coined by an unknown Klondike miner.

"I will say no more than this because it will begin on Monday: such a commission has never before been set up in British history nor in Canada.

"Never since 1641, when the star chamber was abolished, has there been a commission like this."

Mr. Diefenbaker adopted as his own the views of a newspaper editorial which charged that the terms of reference of the inquiry were wholly improper.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that when he was prime minister, he refused at any time to look at the records of the previous Liberal government "because the British tradition is that no government looks back on the records of another."

He said that the Tory demand for an inquiry into the case of spy - suspect George Victor Spencer, now dead, had annoyed Justice Minister Cardin "no end."

classes. They later disbanded into smaller groups.

Authoritative sources said earlier that Ky had stiffened in his determination not to surrender to Buddhist demands for the capitulation of his military regime and was ready to use all the force necessary to remain in power.

Ky said the decree proved that the military had no aspirations to power, but he said if the elected government did not do its job properly he would not hesitate to overthrow it.

At least seven of the 10 generals of the ruling military junta attended he final session of congress, which, ending its three-day meeting, passed a 10-point resolution aimed at solving the political crisis threatening to topple the government.

'TRAITORS'

It was still too early to tell whether the dissident Buddhists would accept the resolution, which included a proposal that the government adopt a decree calling for general elections within four months.

In Hue, hot spot of student agitation, Buddhist youths and university students have branded the delegates to the convention as "traitors."

They charged that the convention was a "trick" to divert the drive for an elected civilian government.

OFF-LIMITS

American authorities ordered the entire city of Saigon off-limits to U.S. servicemen and U.S. government civilian employees as the Buddhists planned a massive demonstration in the city.

All military drivers were warned to keep weapons out of sight and to drive no faster than 15 miles per hour to prevent even a minor traffic accident from being blown into a possible major incident.

everything he wanted on Viet Nam and does not appear concerned at a more routine legislative harvest so far.

On the economy, the president marks time in judging whether to raise taxes, cut spending or both to ease inflationary pressures. Now he professes to see price increases slowing, especially in foods, and there are fewer voices saying a tax increase is inevitable.

* * *

The Republicans, meanwhile, with plenty of room to pick up seats in the House of Representatives and Senate, are cautious about seeking to capitalize yet on inflation or the war for November's elections. Traditionally, they should score gains—but they have a long way to go.

There are signs the liberals remain disenchanted with Johnson, and labor, but where else can they go. Even Senator Robert Kennedy, now darling of the liberals, basically takes little issue with most Johnsonian policy and it is assumed he won't be available until 1972 at the earliest.

* * *

Foreign affairs observers complain Johnson hasn't gone abroad—except to Canada and Mexico on short hops. The president's answer seems to be that if world leaders want to see him they can come to Washington. They do.

Americans find little fault with the U.S. attitude to France and President de Gaulle over NATO. To most, de Gaulle is motivated by anti-Americanism.

Even with the press, that profession once called Washington's fourth branch of government after the executive, legislative and judicial, an uneasy truce exists, although not much love ever is going to be lost either way.

'Municipal Burden Will Oust Socreds'

Taxpayers Weary, Says MLA

* * *

The downfall of the present government of British Columbia will be its failure to take the increasing financial burden from the backs of municipal taxpayers, Alan Macfarlane, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, said Wednesday.

He told a meeting of the Victoria Chapter, Certified General Accountants Association of B.C. that in federal-provincial consultations, the municipalities had been completely forgotten.

THIRD FORGOTTEN

"We have increasing exchanges on the prime minister-premiers level, between ministers, and between top civil servants, but the third level of government — the municipality — is forgotten," he said.

"Citizens are being called on to provide more and more services through their municipal taxes. We get the same statement each year that something will be done about easing the burden at the provincial government level, but nothing is done," he said.

"Unless something is done soon, it is at this level that the present government will be defeated," he added.

Turning to hospital and health services Mr. Macfarlane said far more could be done by the provincial government than was being done.

CHRONIC CARE

In the field of chronic care, there were only 403 beds out of 3,700 throughout the province that were available to the chronically ill for $1 a day.

Most people had to pay between $300 and $400 a month for care in private beds.

Mr. Macfarlane estimated that these privately owned beds could be purchased by the provincial government for $37,000,000.

"For exactly the same sum as the government handed over to the B.C. Ferry authority so that it would not have to bear its interest charges," he said.

FINANCING AUTHORITY

Mr. Macfarlane suggested that a B.C. capital financing authority should be set up to raise money for construction of hospitals.

"We have other Crown corporations in the province - why shouldn't we have this one?" he said.

"We have a road-building, bridge - building, dam - building government," he said. "We must push that government until it turns its attention to improving hospital and educational services.

New Drag Strip Opposed

Racehorses, laying hens, frying chickens, cows, mink, sheep and people are all going to be irritated by a proposed drag strip at Mill Bay, according to a Duncan insurance adjuster.

John Bateson, who owns property adjoining the proposed strip, said a dozen householders in the area have expressed opposition.

The drag strip has been planned on the 130-acre site of the former Deeks-McBride gravel pit, now owned by Mike Stogrin of Duncan and three silent partners, who aim to operate under the name of Duncan International Raceways.

A Duncan lawyer, Fred S. Green, has been retained by the objectors.

Mr. Green said Wednesday night he will see "the necessary government officials" and "will know more in a week or so" what can be done.

"I am totally opposed to the drag strip as is everyone now living on property adjacent to it," said Mr. Bateson. "We have people in this area with laying hens and some who are raising frying chickens and mink. There are also dairy and sheep farmers and I raise racehorses. They all depend for their living on these enterprises. All these will suffer from the noise."

He also said he foresaw the depreciation of property values.

Naturalist Hired Again

Naturalist Freeman King will spin his yarns of Goldstream Park plants and wildlife again this year, it was announced Wednesday. At almost the same time, Victoria Natural History Society reported its Freeman F. King Scholarship Fund was only $150 short of its $5,000 goal.

The old-timer who has guided hundreds of people through the park has been rehired by the provincial parks branch for the summer season.

His employment was confirmed Wednesday by a cabinet order. Parks branch officials later said his knowledge of nature and service to the public contributed substantially to the popularity of the park to people of all ages.

Mr. King will start giving guided trips along a nature trail in Goldstream Park early in June.

Twin Saved

Foetus Given Blood

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Blood transfusions given to twins before birth, believed to be the first intrauterine transfusion of twins in medical history, was reported Wednesday by the University of Oklahoma Medical Centre.

One of the babies was born alive, the other stillborn. The centre said the surviving baby boy, Warren David Archer, was making steady progress in the premature nursery, six weeks after birth.

The transfusions were administered within the womb to combat severe RH factor anemia, it was reported.

OTHERS LOST

Seven other children were lost by the mother, Mrs. Robert Archer, 27-year-old wife of an air force sergeant here. The couple has one other child, a healthy eight-year-old.

Physicians said Mrs. Archer lost the children because of spontaneous abortion, or stillbirth, thought to have resulted from the same problem — erythroblastosis, a disease caused by RH blood factor incompatibility.

CHILD HEALTHY

One of the first successful intrauterine transfusions in the United States was performed February, 1965, by doctors in the medical centre's department of gynaecology and obstetrics. The child, Mary Wolfkiel, was one year old Feb. 18 and is in excellent health.

The transfusions of each twin was done Jan. 28 when the mother was 27 weeks pregnant. A second transfusion of each baby was completed Feb. 15.

CALLAGHAN TO BE TOUGH

The British budget will be presented on May 3, and the Labor government with its greatly increased majority in the House is expected to make it a tough one. The prediction is that Chancellor James Callaghan will make proposals aimed at reducing Britain's balance of payments difficulties and at repaying foreign loans borrowed to offset pressure on the pound sterling.

A new $800,000 steel warehouse fitted with the most efficient and modern handling is being built for Yarrows on Esquimalt Road, as part of the company's program of modernizing its facilities.

'Patriotic Spy' Won't Be Heard

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

Spencer Probe Opens Today

* * *

But the record of Parliament shows that he has been painted more as a villain than a hero.

NOT CALLED

Wednesday night, Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, who is conducting the inquiry, said he would not be calling the second man.

"He isn't connected with this at all," he explained.

What is known about the "good spy?"

After a press release by the Department of External Affairs announced that two Russians had been booted out and two Canadians were involved in the case, Conservative leader Diefenbaker asked in the Commons:

'SOLD OUT'

"Will the prime minister say what is going to be done about prosecuting the wrongdoers within your own country who, for illicit gain and greed, would sell out their country?"

Initially, Mr. Pearson replied that the Canadians involved had "co-operated with the police in an effective way in bringing this matter to a head and no action is at this time being taken against them."

Mr. Diefenbaker pressed for the names of men "who would sell out their country in this way."

PATRIOTIC

The next day, after pondering the questions, Mr. Pearson amplified his reply.

He separated the two Canadians.

One of them, presumably the "good guy," co-operated conscientiously from the beginning with the security authorities, Mr. Pearson said.

"Far from being motivated by 'illicit gain and greed,' this conscientious and patriotic Canadian reported to the security authorities the 'very first approach made to him'."

PRAISWORTHY

Thereafter, he worked under the direction of the security authorities in his dealings with the Russians.

The "good guy" had acted in a way to be praised, not censured, the prime minister added.

NO WRONGDOING

"Certainly, there can be no question of prosecution for wrongdoing in this case," Mr. Pearson said. "Quite the contrary."

In the other case (clearly the case of George Victor Spencer) the circumstances—"unfortunately"—were different.

The man had not been confronted by the RCMP until one week before, then he began to give the police some useful information.

PAID OFF

According to the press release, the "good guy"—a naturalized Canadian—was paid thousands of dollars to provide technical information in the electronics field related to the defence industry.

It also was alleged he compromised other Canadians, including female employees of the government, with the object of securing their assistance in obtaining access to classified information.

For this purpose, he was given "specialized photographic training to assist him in these tasks."

Fights Break Out As 10,000 Quit Montreal Projects

MONTREAL (CP) — About 10,000 construction workers struck Wednesday. Some violence was reported.

Some 25,000 other construction workers, members of a union affiliated with the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC), declined to join the walkout.

A fight took place on Sherbrooke Street West after a car carrying four workers was sandwiched between two other cars.

In another incident, 75 workers were told to go home by four "hefty" strangers. The 75 did so.

Shutdown projects included: The Montreal subway system, the new court house, the headquarters of the Quebec Provincial Police, the Place Bonaventure hotel-and-convention hall complex and the CPR's new hotel and office centre.

WOULDN'T JOIN

Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, said QFL-affiliated unions did not join the strike, because a decision to accept a management offer of $1.20 in hourly pay increases for skilled and $1.05 for unskilled workers "was accepted last weekend in principle by the joint QFL - CNTU negotiating committee."

The union asked for $1.50.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Firemen just stood around Tuesday night unable to save a family dwelling as flames engulfed it.

The house — a straw and grass affair—was strickly for the birds, located inside a glass globe of a street lamp attached to a hydro pole.

Fireman Al Langlois said someone had smashed a hole in the lamp last year and with the bulb within unbroken it proved to be an ideal home for heat-loving birds.

As the nest grew bigger it began to encircle the light bulb and Tuesday night it burst into flames.

Firemen were unable to extinguish the miniature blaze for fear of shorting electrical circuits and it burned for almost an hour as firemen and passersby watched helplessly.

Australians To Recruit Air Experts

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—An Australian recruiting team will arrive in Ottawa April 18 looking for 50 young "decision-makers" to go to Australia.

The young Canadians are wanted to join Australia's air traffic control service.

In Ottawa, a transport department official said the Australian government had consulted Canada about the recruiting plan and there were no objections here to it. However, the Australians were told they might have difficulty signing up the number sought.

"What two ideas are more inseparable than Beer and Britannia?"

So said the noted writer, Sydney Smith in the early 19th century. Today, many still believe that good beer is a British art. It's certainly a British tradition. After all, Charrington Toby was first brewed over two hundred years ago, in 1757. Only recently have the Charringtons allowed Toby's recipe to leave the country. Now you may enjoy Toby in British Columbia . . . for it was to Carling that Charringtons entrusted the Toby recipe. Have a Toby!

Leafs Fly Past Seals For Playoff Opener

By JIM TANG

Victoria Maple Leafs are probably the best club in the Western Hockey League when they are right, and that's the way they were at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as they cooled off San Francisco Seals, 6-3, in the first game of their best-of-seven semi-final.

Seals came into the series opener riding a streak which had produced 22 points in their last 13 scheduled games and put them in the playoffs by one point. They were well beaten last night but they still left the impression that they can cope with anything but the best from the Victoria club.

But they didn't handle what the Leafs produced last night after a sharp-looking start which had most of the 3,412 fans a bit worried.

SMART PASSING

Passing smartly, the Seals had the edge in the early going with the Leafs appearing a bit on the tight side and getting into early difficulties when Sandy Hucul was whistled down for holding Ron Schock before the game was a minute old.

Wayne Connelly just managed to get the deflection of Schock's passout across the goal-line before Hucul returned and the Seals had themselves the lead.

TOOK CONTROL

Gradually settling down after the clubs had returned to six-a-side, the Leafs steadily assumed control after Lou Jankowski's alertness produced the tying goal in the eighth minute of play.

Jankowski had taken a sharply-angled backhander and goalkeeper Bob Gray, on his knees, was trying to smother the puck when Jankowski wheeled back and slammed it into the netting.

REF SAW IT

Seals protested that the whistle should have gone but referee Lloyd Gilmour had the puck in sight and ruled the goal stood.

And that was it for the Seals last night. Led by the Milan Marcettta-Bob Barlow-Andy Hebenton line, which played standout hockey both ways, the Leafs took charge with two quick scoring bursts.

Only 25 seconds after Jankowski had rapped in the tying goal, Marcetta won the draw from a faceoff to the right of Gray, got the puck back to Barlow and moved to the [illegible] edge of the crease to slide in the return pass.

Then it was Marcetta and Hebenton, with goals 17 seconds apart, who tore it for the Seals.

ROLLING PUCK

Quick passes from Fred Hucul and Barlow gave Marcetta a break on the left side. He cut in smartly just in front of the crease and backhanded as Gray went down. On the first play from the face-off, Hebenton swept up to grab a rolling puck after Gray had stopped Marcetta's shot and promptly fired it home on the short side.

George Swarbrick, with a booming 45-footer from the right side late in the opening period, kept the Seals dangerous — but just for a while.

Getting the puck near the left point on a power play, he moved in and faked a slap shot. When the defence cleared the view for Gray, Hucul moved in closer, faked again and then flipped the puck into the far side as Gray went down.

FROM CORNER

From there, the Leafs played it cozy. They continued the fore-checking which effectively stopped the Seal passing game after the opening exchanges and there was always at least one forward back to help out the defence when the Seals did manage to break out over the red line.

LAST GESTURE

Connelly managed to get a third puck past ex-teammate John Henderson on a fine play with coach Charlie Burns but it was no more than a last defiant gesture.

When the votes were in at the end of the 60 minutes, the game award went to Marcetta. But it could have gone to Barlow, who set up three goals and did some exceptional back-checking; to the hard-working Hebenton or to practically any Leaf who saw action. When they are a team the Leafs are tough, and a team they were last night as they made it 10 in a row on home ice.

AGAIN SATURDAY

Second game of the series is billed here Saturday night. Then the action shifts to San Francisco for games Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

That last one is 'if necesary,' and it's quite liable to be.

Seals Protest Loss Over Goalie Ruling

Manager Bud Poile of the San Francisco Seals said during last night's Western Hockey League semi-final at Memorial Arena that he had sent a telegram to league-president Al Leader protesting the game, lost to Victoria Maple Leafs.

Poile's protest was based on the fact that his club was forced to use rookie-goalkeeper Bob Gray as a replacement for the injured Jack McCartan.

"All the other playoff clubs are allowed to use professionals but we have to use an amateur," he said.

Poile claimed that in case of injury to Jack Henderson of Victoria or Dave Kelly of Portland that the affected club would be permitted to use standby-goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier.

"Victoria has amateur Gary Holland, Vancouver has amateur Ken Broderick and Portland has amateur Rick Charron as their second goalkeepers but if they lost their pro they'd be able to use Pelletier," Poile claimed. "I don't see why we can't when we lost McCartan."

McCartan was injured before the season ended and the league ruling was that the Seals would have to play the other goalkeeper on their list of playoff eligibles. That was Gray.

Canucks Blast Buckaroos, 8-4

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks slammed in four unanswered goals in the second period to whip Portland Buckaroos 8-4 and jump to a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Hockey League semi-final series Wednesday night.

Playing before 3,810 fans, the Canucks, third-place finishers in regular league play, outskated the first-place Buckaroos in the last two periods after the two clubs battled to a 3-3 deadlock in the first period.

Canucks were led by Billy McNeill and Brian Hextall who fired in two goals each, while Wayne Larkin, Dunc McCallum, Phil Maloney and Ron Mathews rounded out the Canuck scoring.

TWO GOALS

Canucks, who had only put five goals past netminder Dave Kelly in any previous game, bombed the Portland net with 34 shots.

Gilles Villemure in the Vancouver nets was called on to make 31 saves, many of them from point-blank range.

Blades Rookie Best

SEATTLE (UPI)—Leftwinger Bill Orban of the Los Angeles Blades Wednesday was named the top rookie in the Western Hockey League.

Of a possible 918 votes cast by the six teams in the league, Orban received 258 to edge Earl Heiskala of the Seattle Totems by only nine votes. Votes are awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices. Teammate Bob Schmautz finished in third place with 229 votes.

Orban is the son of a former hockey player who gained prominence by helping to write the now famous Royal Canadian Air Force physical fitness Five B-X manual.

The complete voting for the league rookie award was as follows: Orban, Los Angeles, 258; Heiskala, Seattle, 249; Bobby Schmautz, Los Angeles, 229; Dave Parenteau, Victoria, 102; Stan Gilbertson, San Francisco, 44; Doug Favell, San Francisco, 29. This totals 911 votes.

A second and a third place vote from Victoria and three third place votes from San Francisco were left blank for a total of seven unrecorded voting points, bringing the over-all total to 918 votes. Orban will receive a cheque for $300 and an attractive trophy from the league.

Rochester Defeats Quebec

(From AP, CP)

Rochester, Cleveland and Springfield emerged victorious in the opening games of their American Hockey League playoffs Wednesday.

At Quebec, 9,209 fans looked incredulously as Larry Jeffrey, Gerry Ehman and Jim Pappin scored in the third period for Rochester to erase a 1-0 Quebec lead, engineered by Bill Sutherland. Jim Morrison scored the other Quebec goal, with Rochester winning 3-2, and leading the best-of-seven semi-final 1-0.

In the other best-of-five quarter-final, Bob Courcy scored twice to pace the Barons to a 5-2 conquest of Pittsburgh Hornets.

FIGHT DELAYED

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The fight for the world flyweight crown between champion Horacio Accavallo of Argentina and Japan's Hiroyuki Ebihara has been postponed from June 4 to July 8 so the champion will have more time to train.

Sandy Looks Rusty

Koufax Gone by Fifth Inning

Sandy Koufax has got the money, but the question now is how will he buy back the 32 days of spring training he lost due to salary negotiations.

Making his National League debut against Houston Astros in Los Angeles Wednesday, last year's 26-game winner lasted only three innings as the Astros edged the world champions, 7-6.

Koufax, a holdout for 32 days during spring training, was rocked for five runs and five hits in the first three innings. He departed after John Bateman led off the fourth with a triple.

ERROR TOO

Sandy, who finally settled with the Dodgers for a reported $115,000, contributed to his own downfall when he fumbled Jim Wynn's grounder in the third inning. Shortly afterward Joe Morgan hit a three-run homer.

In other NL games, Bob Bolin pitched San Francisco Giants to a 4-0 shutout over Chicago Cubs; Willie Stargell ruined Atlanta for the second consecutive time, smashing a home run and a single as Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Braves 6-0; and pinch hitter John Herrnstein batted in the winner in the 12th inning to lead Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-2 squeaker over St. Louis Cardinals.

KEY HIT

Dodgers and Astros were tied 6-6 after eight innings, Houston winning it on Rusty Staub's run-scoring single in the ninth.

The Giants got a four-hitter from Bob Bolin, who struck out nine and walked none against the Cubs. San Francisco spoiled the debut of Ernie Broglio with a single run in the opening inning and three more in the third. Once a 21-game winner, Broglio was only 1-6 last year following arm surgery. He allowed six hits.

HERO AGAIN

Stargell, who was Pirates' star in Tuesday's extra-inning victory over the Braves, drove in Gene Alley with a single in the first inning and hit a homer with Alley on base in the third. That was more than enough for Pirates' star hurler Vernon Law, who four-hit the Braves.

The Atlanta attendance suddenly shrank, with 50,671 attending Tuesday's opener, but only 12,721 coming out Wednesday.

COMES HOME

In St. Louis, Rich Allen singled with two out, stole second and came home with the winner as Herrnstein singled, pinch hitting for Roger Craig.

The Twins, who finished in the second division in major league baseball's warm-up session, won their second game in as many American League starts here Wednesday by thumping Kansas City 5-3.

The big blow for the Twins, defending AL champions, was Tony Oliva's three-run homer in the eighth.

With two out and Minnesota trailing 3-2, Zoilo Versalles and Sandy Valdespino singled. Oliva followed by smashing pitcher Paul Lindblad's one-strike ball 420 feet to right centre.

In Boston, Baltimore's Brooks and Frank Robinson hit back-to-back first-inning home runs, and young Jim Palmer cracked a two-run blast in support of his five-hitter.

Braves Returning Home?

had been closeted in his chambers since 9 a.m. EST, Tuesday completing the decision, declared that the National League an the Braves "shall be, and they are hereby restrained and enjoined from playing the home championship schedule of the . . . Braves in any city or place other than in the County of Milwaukee."

The order shall be stayed if the defendants submit a written plan for expansion by noon May 16 that would give Milwaukee major league baseball in 1967.

Roller's decision was a complete victory for Wisconsin, which had sought the Braves' return in the absence of any agreement to expand in time to give Milwaukee a franchise in 1967.

"I'd have to read the whole decision and talk to the attorneys before making any statement," Warren C. Giles, president of the National League said in Cincinnati.

Giles denied that baseball had made any last moment offers to avert the ruling in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit.

Judge Roller levied a $55,000 fine against the defendants—$5,000 each on the league and the 10 members' clubs—and ordered them to pay costs. The latter item may run into hundreds of thousands of dollars for the trial and months of preliminary manoeuvres, including taking scores of depositions.

Before the disclosure of the decision, Judge Roller came from his chambers and told reporters baseball had offered to settle the suit "before and during" the trial.

Russia's Olympic Vote Won't Go to Munich

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Konstantin Andrianov, Soviet Olympic committee chairman, indicated Wednesday the Soviet Union would refuse to accept Munich, West Germany, as a site for the 1972 Olympic Games.

Writing in the newspaper Soviet Sport, Andrianov said that in West Germany "There are no conditions for the normal course of the games."

"It is difficult to believe that all will be well in Munich when even now the West German police are tearing emblems from the tracksuits of East German sportsmen, forbidding them to fly their flag or play their national anthem," he said.

Andrianov hinted that the Soviet Union would support the candidacy of Madrid, Spain, as the two other candidates, Montreal and Detroit, are outside Europe and if they were chosen it would be likely that Europe would have no Olympics until 1976 or 1980.

Shadows Don't Scare Bobby But He Admits to Irritation

By JERRY GLADMAN

DETROIT (CP)—Bobby Hull isn't afraid of shadows. He just doesn't like them.

And the type of shadows that bother the muscular Chicago Black Hawks' star are those on opposing hockey teams who cling to him, get in his way, shove him, trip him, hook him and generally keep him from scoring.

"I'd like to be able to play like everyone else does. Sure, there have been shadows for other players, but they didn't do it every game. I don't think there's ever been another guy they did it to as much, every game."

YOUNG SHADOW

This year's shadow in the Hawks' best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final against Detroit Red Wings, is 23-year-old Bryan Watson, a Red Wing utility man who has been sticking to Hull like glue for two games.

Watson carried out his role superbly Tuesday night as he held Hull to a single assist in Chicago's 2-1 victory over the Wings which gave the Hawks a 2-1 edge in the series.

Watson will likely draw the assignment of tailing Hull tonight when the clubs clash here in the fourth game.

KNEE TARGET

The 195 - pound Hull complained about the coverage provided him in Tuesday's game. He said he was hit in the left knee, which he injured in the first game of the series and has had wrapped in a pressure bandage.

SAYS HIT OFTEN

"I don't know when I got it, I was hit so many times. I thought they had me in the first period when Leo Boivin (Detroit defenceman) and that little . . . Watson hit me along the boards."

"I don't mind a guy going up and down with you, but let him keep his mind on the offensive game, too. That's when you could get your breaks, go in two and three on one, and get the odd goal that way. It doesn't give you a chance to do what you like to do, want to do—get the puck and go with it," Hull said.

However, Watson did have his mind on the offensive game in Tuesday's action as he accounted for the only Detroit goal, seconds after he was wrestled to the ice by Hull.

ABEL SATISFIED

Detroit coach Sid Abel expressed satisfaction with Watson's close coverage of Hull.

"He played well. I didn't have him on much against Hull late in the game. We needed the offensive players in there."

There was no indication of panic by either Abel or his players after the loss.

"They've played well here all year. We had a lot of chances early, but we let them off the hook in the second period. They were rougher. We stopped hitting and let them take it away from us," said Abel.

HAWKS HURTING

The Wings came through the rugged - checking battle unscathed. But coach Bill Reay had two new names added to the Chicago injury list.

Chico Maki, who played on a line with Hull and Stan Mikita, suffered a sprained right knee and possible torn ligaments in a collision with defenceman Bill Gadsby. He was listed as a doubtful starter tonight.

The other casualty was defenceman Elmer (Moose) Vasko, who was cut by Norm Ullman's skate and took 10 stitches on his right thigh. He was limping after the game and also is a question mark tonight.

The fifth game of the series will be played in Chicago Sunday afternoon. A sixth game, if necessary, will be played here and a seventh game back in Chicago.

CALL UP HELP

The Hawks called up four reserves Wednesday from their St. Louis farm club of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Hawks called up wingers Oscar Gaudet and Dennis Hull, defenceman John Misszuk and goaltender Denis DeJordy from St. Louis.

Hull, a younger brother of Chicago star Bobby Hull, was with the Hawks last season.

Gaudet, a resident of St. Joseph, N.B., tied for the goal-scoring lead in the CPHL during the regular schedule with Paul Andrea of Minnesota Rangers, both with 37.

Rookie, Dropout Help Open PCL's Season

By JACK HEWINS

Associated Press

SEATTLE— The two newest members of the Pacific Coast Baseball League—a freshman and a returning dropout—will get together in Phoenix, Ariz., Friday for one of the six opening games of he 1966 season.

Oklahoma City, defending Eastern Division pennant winner and league champion, will open at home against the Denver Bears. Indianapolis will be at San Diego, Vancouver at Hawaii, Seattle at Portland and Spokane at Tacoma. Portland is the Western Division's pennant defender.

The Phoenix team which left the loop in 1959 after two poorly-attended seasons is coming back in an aura of optimism. Phoenix won the pennant in 1958 and was next-to-last in attendance. In 1959 the Phoenix Giants were first in the standings, last in attendance and the next year became the Tacoma Giants.

NEW PARK

The club will play in a new park—the Phoenix Municipal Stadium, built three years ago primarily for spring training games featuring the parent San Francisco Giants. In what the operators hope is a reflection of new Phoenix feeling, advance ticket sales are well above last year's spring sales at Tacoma.

Tulsa is the real newcomer to the Tripple-A coast league—stepping up from the Texas League. The Oilers—a farm affiliate of the St. Louis Cardinals—were in the Texas loop for more than 30 seasons.

The team is managed by Charlie Metro, familiar to the PCL as Vancouver's manager in the late '50s. He was head coach of the Chicago Cubs in 1962.

ROCK LEAVES

Manager Bill Werle went from Tacoma to Phoenix along with the franchise and Les Peden took charge at Tacoma when the Chicago Cubs gained control there. Bowing out of the league were Salt Lake City and Little Rock.

Spokane's Indians will hit the 1966 trail with a new chief, the parent Los Angeles Dodgers promoting Roy Hartfield from pennant winning Albuquerque of the Texas League. Mickey Vernon takes over the Vancouver Mounties after a season as coach at St. Louis.

Although his team left the league, Frank Joseph Lucchesi didn't. He managed Arkansas for three seasons, winning the divisional pennant in 1964, and now has taken the post of field pilot at San Diego. This Philadelphia affiliate plays in the league's Eastern Division.

IN OKLAHOMA

Mel McGaha, Kansas City manager in the early part of 1965, will direct the defending champion Oklahoma City 89ers for the Houston ownership. Les Moss, after taking a season off to scout on special assignment for the White Sox, returns to manage Indianapolis for his Chicago employers.

Denver once again will be under direction of Calvin Coolidge Ermer. Denver, Phoenix and Tulsa are Eastern Division clubs.

Although it plays in an elderly park with a capacity of only 4,500, Tulsa has topped 200,000 attendance for several seasons—a total that would have put the Oilers among the PCL leaders in recent years. Seating capacity of the new Phoenix park is rated at 7,900.

Jack, Arnie Favored Pair

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's been either Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus in the winner's circle for the past four years and the same pair dominate speculation as the 14th annual Tournament of Champions golf spectacle gets under way today.

The $100,000 Tournament of Champions may prove anti-climactic after Monday's finale in the Masters, but there is still a slight matter of $20,000 awaiting the winner when the 72-hole play concludes Sunday.

United Beaten

BELGRADE (AP) — Partiza, soccer champion of Yugoslavia, Wednesday beat Manchester United of the English League, 2-0, in their first of two semi-final matches of the European Champions Cup tournament. The two teams will play a return match in Manchester, April 20.

Punch Growling; Blake Delighted

TORONTO (CP) — Coach George (Punch) Imlach was in a fighting mood Wednesday and promised his Toronto Maple Leafs are prepared to be the same way tonight to stay alive in their Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"It'll be no skirmish," Imlach said after running his club through a brief workout in preparation for the fourth game in the best - of - seven series against Montreal Canadiens starting at 5 p.m. PST.

Tonight's Toronto - Montreal game may be seen over channels 2 and 6 at 5:30 p.m., according to the CBC.

Noting that the Leafs are down 3-0, Imlach lashed out at Leafs' inability to put together three good periods of hockey so far in the series and said some of them just weren't working.

"The best hockey players on any club are the guys who work the hardest."

CAN BE DONE

Can you still beat the Canadiens, he was asked?

"Why not?" he replied. "Give me one reason why I can't come back."

"I can't see where the Canadiens are playing exceptionally well," Imlach explained. "The skirmishes are over. The battle is just beginning and we're going to be in a lot of battles yet."

Imlach was unable to explain his team's second and third-period collapse against the Canadiens. "They were like a boxer who burns himself out early in the fight and then gets hurt and hasn't anything left."

"The goaltending hasn't been sharp because they haven't been able to play enough all year," said Imlach.

Montreal coach Toe Blake is happy with his team's effort to date.

"I think we're playing better than last year," he admitted. Montreal ousted Toronto in six games then.

"It's the same team, but a few of the younger players are playing better," Blake analyzed.

PLAY SICKENED HIM

Imlach, still recovering from influenza that struck him, assistant coach Frank (King) Clancy and goaltender Johnny Bower last weekend, said Leafs' performance in their 5-2 loss Tuesday made him sick all over again.

He sent three Leafs — forwards Eddie Shack, Frank Mahovlich and Brit Selby—to the dressing room early in Monday's practice.

"If they don't want to work, get off the ice," Imlach said. "Maybe they think they're saving it for the game. We'll wait and see."

DENIED QUOTE

He denied a statement attributed to him Tuesday night that the Leafs looked tired in the game because they are worked too hard in practice.

Blake didn't think forward Henri Richard, who missed Tuesday's game with twisted ligaments in his right knee, will play.

"In the position he's in, I don't think he'd help us."

Blake feels his team is going better in the semi-finals this year than last when the Habs eliminated the Leafs in six games. He credited his younger players and singled out John Ferguson for special mention.

BELTED SHACK

Ferguson helped the Montreal cause Tuesday by slowing up Shack with a shattering check in the second period. But Blake wasn't inclined to write Shack off too quickly.

"I thought there were a lot of guys on the Leafs who died before Shack did. It was a hard check but I thought Shack made a lot of good rushes after that, more than a lot of other guys."

Imlach said he didn't contemplate lineup changes, so Bower will be in goal again. Terry Sawchuk was in the nets in the first two games.

Imlach said his third line of Selby, Ron Ellis and Pete Stemkowski tightened up Tuesday.

"When your third line does that and you can't put out your fourth line because you've got to try and hold your defence together, you've got a bit of a problem."

CHARRINGTON TOBY BEER...
NOTED FOR ITS BRITISH GOOD TASTE

The British are noted for good taste. And so is British beer. Does this mean that Charrington Toby has MORE good taste than Canadian brews? No. It simply means that British brewers like Charrington omit a great deal of the fizz inherent in Canadian beer. And when interfering fizz is removed, you get full flavour. THIS is how Charrington Toby achieves good taste: less gas . . . fuller flavour. Have a Toby!

Golf Tour In Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a handful of Ontario golf pros will follow a Canadian professional golf tour this year.

The newspaper says the tour will include provincial open tournaments in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec and the Millar event in Toronto.

Clay's Next Bout

Cooper Next Month

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—An attorney for Cassius Clay's Louisville sponsoring group said Wednesday there is a good chance the heavyweight champion will fight Henry Cooper in London next month.

Gordon B. Davidson said arrangements for the fight might be completed within 10 days. The date of the fight likely would be May 21, Davidson said.

Permission for Clay to fight must be cleared with his draft board. As of now Clay is expected to be called to active duty in late May.

The Clay - Cooper fight could be held in the outdoor stadium of Arsenal, a soccer club in England, which said earlier Wednesday its stadium would be available for the bout.

British promoter Harry Levene said he would guarantee Clay $280,000 to defend his title against Cooper, the British champion.

B.C. Airlines Amphibian

Weather Blamed In Fatal Crash

Heavy weather is the new theory on the cause of a four-death crash Monday of a B.C. Airlines plane.

Loggers at camps near Creasy Bay, scene of the accident, reported to RCMP the day had been marked by heavy snow and hailstorms.

ICE PELLETS

Dead are Victoria pilot Jim McLellan, 25, based at Port Hardy; Joseph O. Haas, 35; George McBryer, 50; and Garry Bell, 35, all of the Vancouver area.

The pilot's body was flown to Victoria, Wednesday, where funeral arrangements will be made by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan H. McLellan of 2836 Inez. He leaves his wife, Carole, in Port Hardy.

The B.C. Airlines' aircraft was discovered partly submerged near the shore.

NUMBERS MAKE BOGGLE

There are more molecules in a glass of water than there are glasses of water in the world's oceans.

Fifty Entries Likely

A race with an unknown starting time will be held between Vancouver and Ladysmith Saturday.

The seventh annual predicted log race is expected to pull in about 50 entries from the mainland and Vancouver Island.

During the running of the race use of watches and clocks is prohibited. The object is to bring the yacht in to each check point as close to predicted time as possible.

Skippers well practised in predicted log racing cut the margin of running error down to as little as 1.5 per cent.

Skippers work their courses and speeds from the finish point of the race backwards to the start to plot strategy.

This year's race will finish at Manana Lodge with a dinner and prize giving at 6:30 p.m.

Whale Swam Inland

Lasso, Rifle End Trip

Pokey Will Never Return Home

CHARLES CITY, Va. (AP) —Pokey the whale will never return home. A brief bit of freedom ended Wednesday night when he was shot 10 times with silver tipped bullets.

Whether Pokey, a 3,000 pound infant of the piked whale species, is actually dead probably won't be determined until today.

The 30-foot mammal was discovered stranded on a mud flat near this James River village Monday by fisherman Norman C. Haynes. The U.S. coast guard said the whale's 70-mile inland voyage was "unprecedented."

Pokey's hide was badly lacerated and he evidently had been used for target practice as more than 25 bullet wounds were visible. A marine biologist said he was dying.

Tuesday, however, a young boatman scratched Pokey's stomach with a pole and the ticklish mammal flipped his flukes and headed full speed downstream.

But today Pokey was spotted again in mid-river, acting not a bit unhealthy as he swished his tail and blew waterspouts.

Haynes apparently decided, however, he had had enough of Pokey. He lassooed the whale around the tail, tied him to a tree on shore and his son, Bernard, then fired 10 silver-tipped bullets into Pokey.

South African Pays $211,000 in Ransom

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP-AP)—A Johannesburg millionaire has paid a ransom equivalent to $211,000 to kidnappers for the return of his wife and their 20-month-old son, police reported Wednesday.

Commissioner Gen. Johannes Keevy declined to disclose the name of the white family involved, but it was reported several persons have been charged with the March 30 kidnapping and will appear in court Friday.

SUSPECT KILLED

Police also said a man being questioned in Johannesburg broke away from his interrogators Wednesday and leaped to his death from the 12th floor of an apartment block.

He was said to be one of four white men and two white women rounded up in Johannesburg and Cape Town in an intensive hunt by security branch detectives after the mother and child were handed back March 31.

UNPRECEDENTED

Brig. H. J. Van Den Bergh, chief of the police security branch, told a press conference the case in unprecedented in South Africa's history and compared it with the 1932 Lindbergh kidnapping in the United States—with the difference that the Lindbergh baby was murdered.

Washington Warming To Peking?

LONDON (AP)—Senior diplomatic officials here reported Wednesday night the United States has told China that Washington is ready to discuss a normalization of relations and seating of a Peking delegation in the United Nations.

First Chinese reaction was to rebuff the American initiative and raise Peking's price to include U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam and a global disarmament agreement, the officials said.

WARSAW

The reported American feeler and Chinese response were said to have taken place at exchanges in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador John A. Gronouski and Chinese envoy Wang Kuo-chung. A qualified American authority here said he could neither confirm nor deny the report.

In Washington, Robert J. McCloskey, U.S. state department press officer, said:

"There is absolutely no truth to this report."

New Road Leads to Lake

The parks branch has completed a mile-long road on which the public can now travel to remote Matheson Lake provincial park west of Victoria.

The park entrance road connects with Rocky Point Road about one-quarter of a mile east of the military arsenal. It leads in to the lake and an undeveloped picnic area.

"Outdoor enthusiasts have been asking for this road for a long time," said a parks branch official.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

Chemical Kills Algae

TORONTO (CP) — A chemical created to eliminate water weeds and algae has undergone successful tests by biologists of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, a spokesman says. The chemical presents no hazard to fish, animals or humans if directions are followed, the spokesman said.

TORONTO (CP) — The greatest threat to the Christian world is the vanishing Protestant, a Roman Catholic educationist says.

Dr. John T. McIlhone, director of English schools for the Montreal Catholic School Commission, Tuesday told the annual meeting of the English Catholic Education Association of Ontario there are not enough Protestants left in the world.

"The dearth, the almost complete disappearance of sincere, believing, church-going, church-thinking Protestants is today the greatest problem that faces the Christian world and especially the Catholic world," he said.

Dr. McIlhone said denominational schools are necessary. Those who oppose them and wish to establish neutral schools "are attempting to place the Protestant, Catholic or Jewish denominations in confessional schools by a new religion, the second largest in America, secular humanism."

He described secular humanism as an insidious cancer that must be contained.

"The most difficult task for the Catholic hierarchy and clergy in the future will be to convince their own people that the Catholic school has a place in the context of contemporary society," he said.

"Sixty years ago no Catholic would have thought of deploring the disappearance of the Protestant. At this time, all sects regarded each other with distrust, but there was one thing which they had in common—their assessment of values. Protestant, Catholic and Jew generally agreed on the great lines to be accepted universally as determining what was right and what was wrong.

Today such is not the case.

"One has only to follow the history of religion in the public schools in the United States and the gradual weakening of religion in the public schools in Canada to recognize the debilitating power of this new religion."

Minors Claim Protection

Youths Hoax, Attack Man

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five youths assaulted a storekeeper here Tuesday night after telling him he could not legally resist their attack because they were minors.

Jimmy Lai, 32, told police the scuffle started when the youths ordered him to pick a coin off the floor of his store and he refused.

Mr. Lai said he was dragged over the counter and punched in the face. The glass door in the store was broken by the youths when they left.

"They told me there was nothing I could do to them because they were under 18," said Mr. Lai. "They said they could hit me and nobody would do anything about it."

Police later arrested two youths, aged 17 and 18.

Industry Spokesman Says

Legislation Would Slow Car Safety Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The automobile industry boasted Wednesday that it has made tremendous strides in safety. It warned that proposed federal legislation would slow down that progress.

Roy Abernethy, president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said a co-operative effort between the industry, the federal government and the states was preferable to "arbitrary" authority exercised by Washington.

Abernethy, who is also president of American Motors Corporation, utilized the biannual meeting of the national highway users conference to respond to mounting criticism in and out of congress directed against the industry for its alleged failure to stress safety in the cars.

The conference is made up of groups with a stake in highway development. Among its members are the car, oil, rubber and trucking industries as well as motor clubs representing passenger car drivers.

WILLING TO LISTEN

Abernethy told a luncheon gathering that his industry fully accepted the idea that the vehicles it manufactures could be made safer and that it was willing to listen to constructive criticism.

"We not only are doing something about the new criticism of automobile safety," he said, "but we've been doing something about automobile safety for as long as we have been in business."

In 1930, he said, 15 Americans were killed for every 100,000,000 miles of vehicle travel. In 1965, Abernethy added, there were five fatalities for the 100,000,000 miles.

Birthplace Of Song To Vanish

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — The fraternity house birthplace of the song, The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi., is to be torn down. It is at Albion College here where all fraternities will be housed next fall in six new buildings now nearing completion. The old house was built in 1914.

Location of Prostitute

Court Changes Kidnap Verdict

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The U.S. court of criminal appeals reversed itself Wednesday and decided the location of a prostitute constitutes "a valuable thing."

In doing so, the court threw out an earlier opinion reversing the conviction of Charles Raymond Oden and upheld the 18-year prison sentence given Oden for kidnapping.

* * *

The court on Jan. 19 had reversed the kidnapping conviction on grounds the location of a prostitute is not necessarily a "valuable thing" under the law.

Oden was charged with kidnapping Charlie Williams, a bell captain at a Marshall, Tex. hotel. The court said Oden brought a woman to the hotel to practice prostitution. After she left, Oden kidnapped the bellhop in an effort to make him tell where the prostitute had gone.

* * *

The charge was filed under a statute which makes it a capital offense to abduct someone for the purpose of extorting "money or other valuable thing."

* * *

Judge W. T. McDonald set aside the January decision and affirmed the conviction Wednesday, ruling "the information as to the whereabouts of the prostitute was, under the facts in this case, 'a valuable thing' and evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction."

Judge W. A. Morrison, who dissented in the January reversal, dissented again on the new ruling.

1965: year of accomplishment

1965: Air Canada achieves new records; continues to improve and expand services, while sharing in the economic health of the Nation.

Air Canada—an enterprise totally owned by Canadians—has grown to become the world's ninth largest commercial airline. Continuing the pace of development it commenced 28 years ago, Air Canada was by the end of 1965 operating over 42,343 route miles—linking Canada with the United States, the British Isles, continental Europe, and the Caribbean.

MORE AND MORE DOLLARS

With its 78 aircraft flying more people, mail and cargo than at any time in the past, revenues in 1965 were the greatest in Air Canada's history.

While its operating revenues reached $250 million, the Company also experienced increases in operating expenses which totalled more than $237 million. Depreciation and amortization charges alone increased by four and a half million, to reach over $32 million.

Air Canada achieved a net income of $3,989,960, from which it paid an increased dividend of $4 per share on the common stock of the Company.

MORE AND MORE PASSENGERS

Almost three-quarters of Air Canada's scheduled passenger traffic is carried within North America. In 1965, this traffic increased by 17%, as the airline introduced additional services on most major domestic routes. Within North America alone, the Company flew 378 million more passenger miles than it had in 1964. Behind these figures lies an increasing Canadian awareness of the value of air transport for business, personal and vacation travel.

More passengers than ever before travelled on the airline's other routes, as well. Scheduled trans-Atlantic passenger traffic increased by 33%, while the routes to Florida, Bermuda, the Bahamas and the Caribbean showed a 36% growth.

In all, Air Canada carried 4,753,395 passengers on scheduled and charter services, earning nearly 210 million dollars in revenues from this activity alone.

MORE MAIL AND CARGO

The airline started flying inter-city mail on an "all up" basis back in 1951. No other country offers air mail service for one ounce letter mail within its borders for only five cents per letter—and Air Canada is proud to participate in one of the best mail services in the world, for the benefit of all Canadians.

Air Freight has had a significant impact on the distribution and procurement programs of many Canadian companies, large and small. More and more businesses are realizing the tremendous advantages offered by air freight in their overall marketing plans. In 1965, for the fourth successive year, there was a marked expansion in Air Canada's commodity traffic. Air Freight increased by 36%, to 56 million ton miles, while Air Express rose 27%.

MORE AND MORE AIRCRAFT

Air Canada will take delivery of 24 new jets in 1966 and 1967. Eight of these new aircraft will be received by July, 1966. Cash generated during 1964 and 1965 will be used to meet new aircraft payments in 1966, the fourth successive year in which no borrowing will be required to meet capital expenditures.

A total of 18 new DC-9 inter-city jets are included in the aircraft on order. Almost half of the airframe of the DC-9 is being built in Canada, providing employment for more than 4,000 highly skilled Canadians. Six of these DC-9s will be delivered in 1966, the remainder in 1967. (The other aircraft on order are two DC-8s for delivery in 1966 and four more scheduled for 1967.)

OUTLOOK FOR 1966

In 1966, due principally to the introduction of new aircraft, the airline will be able to offer substantial improvement in capacity, scheduling and non-stop services. New North American and international routes will be flown.

An automatic passenger name record system will be in operation, in conjunction with the airline's present electronic reservations system, to give increasingly efficient service to the flying public. All of these new facilities will be required to meet the anticipated growth of passenger and cargo traffic.

Throughout 1966, maintenance of the highest possible standards of service, consistent with economic reality, will remain the principal aim of the airline.

Two Young Eskimo Men Face Trial for Woman's Murder in Far North

SPENCE BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — Two young Eskimo men were to be arrainged here Thursday on a joint charge of capital murder in the fatal shooting of an Eskimo woman.

The woman, Soosee, about 40, allegedly was shot July 15 during an attempt to drive her away from a nomadic Eskimo band of which she was a member.

Members of the band claim the woman was mentally ill and her actions — damaging tents and throwing rocks — threatened the welfare of the entire band.

Charged with Soosee's murder are Isochee Shooyok, about 21, and Alyaoot, also about 21, the woman's son.

Soosee was the wife of the headman of the band of about 20 Eskimos hunting and living under primitive conditions in this remote, desolate area.

Soosee was shot at Fort Ross, 172 miles north of here on Boothia Peninsula which juts out into the Arctic Ocean far to the north of the Manitoba-Ontario border and divides the Arctic mainland coast approximately into western and eastern halves.

A jury of six, including some Eskimos, is to be chosen from communities in this part of the Arctic, including Cambridge Bay to the southwest on Victoria Island.

Conducting the trial will be Judge John H. Sissons of the Northwest Territories Territorial Court. The Eskimos call Judge Sissons Erkoktoyee, which means "the man who listens."

When RCMP first heard about Soosee's death two months after it occurred, they charged Shooyok with capital murder. A preliminary hearing was held and he was committed for trial. Subsequently, a stay of proceedings was entered and a joint charge was laid against Shooyok and Alyaoot.

The two men have not been in custody.

New Boeing Jetliner with present-day plane below

Pan Am Orders Air Giants

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways Wednesday ordered 25 new 490-passenger jet airliners at a cost of $525,000,000 from the Boeing Co.

The new-type plane will be known as the Boeing 747. Its seating capacity will be 2½ times that of existing aircraft.

A Pan Am spokesman said that use of the huge planes is expected to cut air fares drastically.

The order includes 23 passenger planes and two all-cargo craft.

IN THREE YEARS

Deliveries of the sub-sonic craft will begin in September, 1969. It is not to be confused with a supersonic—or faster-than-sound—aircraft on which Boeing and Lockheed Aircraft have submitted plans to the U.S. government.

Pan Am said the 747 will have greater speed than present jet airliners, which can attain 620 miles an hour.

The plane will have a licensed gross weight of 680,000 pounds, more than twice that of the largest long-range jet transports now in service.

FAN-JET ENGINE

It will be powered by a new type fan-jet engine built by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft. Each will deliver 41,000 pounds of thrust, almost twice the power of any jet engine now in airline service.

The 747 will be able to carry 490 passengers in thrift class or 378 in mixed - economy and first-class configuration.

Air Dealings Of LBJ's Pal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse, (D, Ore.), Wednesday demanded a public senate airing of allegations against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, (D, Conn.), to avoid any repetition of the "whitewash" charges levelled in the Bobby Baker case.

Dodd, a close friend and supporter of President Johnson, has been accused by newspaper columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson of carrying out assignments for a registered foreign agent. They also charged that Dodd pocketed campaign contributions for his private use.

In the first mention of the Dodd affair on the senate floor, Morse advocated a full-scale public hearing with witnesses testifying under oath, if necessary, to settle questions raised by Pearson and Anderson.

SECRET INQUIRY

The six-member senate ethics committee, created after the Bobby Baker inquiry, has been studying the charges against Dodd in strict secrecy since late February. The FBI is also investigating — both at Dodd's request.

If a public report is not forthcoming, Morse said, the American public is not likely to forget that the senate dawdled over the Baker case for more than two years. Baker subsequently was indicted by a federal grand jury on nine charges, including income tax evasion.

Union Contract Talks Continue As Pickets Close More Mines

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Soft coal miners trickled back to work in parts of the Midwest and South, but rebellious roving pickets spread through Eastern Kentucky Wednesday, closing non-union mines in the third day of a mass coal strike.

The latest mine closings came as union and management officials resumed contract talks in Washington in an attempt to end the wildcat walkout which has cut off much of the nation's soft coal production.

In Washington, the negotiators met for nearly three hours and decided to confer again, probably Thursday.

POLICE ALERT

A United Mine Workers spokesman said there was "every reason to believe that we'll wrap this up before the weekend so the men can go back to work Monday." But a management spokesman indicated the talks were not going that smoothly.

About 700 roving pickets appeared in four Kentucky counties. State police, alerted for possible violence, arrested three persons at a picket blockade in Pike County.

'Systematic Rape' Of Bottom Fish

SEATTLE (AP) — The Congress of American Fishermen called Wednesday for action by Congress and the federal government to halt "a systematic rape" by the Russians of west coast bottom fish resources.

W. G. Saletic, CAF president, said "immediate action is imperative."

"The 75-ship Russian fleet already operating off our coast is expected to swell to more than 200 before the year is out," he said.

"This tremendous fleet, with 10 times the capabilities of the entire American west coast trawl fleet, is working the spawning grounds and taking immature fish. It will destroy the resource if not controlled."

Saletic said the government must seek a negotiated agreement with the Russian, Japanese and other "intruders" limiting the size of their fleets and controlling fishing practices.

Saletic also said the Russian fishing vessels should be inspected for ballistic missile firing capabilities.

Most cars are built to be traded.
This one is built to be kept.

It's easy to tell which kind of car you now own.

If it's two years old and looks four years old because the new models have come out . . . if it has 30,000 miles on it and you're planning to get rid of it to save repair bills . . . you have a car that's built to be traded. You also have yourself on a treadmill. One new car after another after another after another.

That's what we mean about Volvo being a car that's built to be kept. A Volvo won't wear out just as your payment book runs out.

Volvos are built so strong they're driven an average of eleven years in Sweden where there are no speed limits on the highways, where there are over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads.

Here in North America Volvos are gaining a reputation that is best summed up by what Car & Driver magazine recently wrote, "Volvo is not the prettiest car known to man, nor is it the fastest. But it may be the strongest . . . possibly the toughest vehicle anywhere this side of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds (that's where the U.S. Government tests tanks) and there is a growing legion of happy owners who will be glad to verify the point."

Volvo Canadian owners will be glad to verify something else: Volvo out-accelerates every other compact in its class, delivers over 30 miles to the gallon, even with automatic transmission.

One more thing your Volvo Canadian will do. It will age gracefully.

We don't change its looks every year to remind your neighbors that you haven't bought a new car recently.

Of course, they'll probably catch on anyhow. After all, you've got to do something with all the money that used to go for car payments.

And how are you going to hide a trip to Europe, or a cottage at the lake, or a new addition on the house?

Teachers

Court Halts Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Superior Court granted an interim injunction Wednesday restraining 2,300 provinciall-employed technical teachers from continuing a strike they began Tuesday and ordering them to return to work.

The injuction was sought by the department of justice.

Judge William Morin said it will remain in force until April 25 when he will hear the case for an interlocutory injunction.

IMPASSE

The teachers, employed in 100 technical, trade and normal schools across the province, took strike action Tuesday as negotiations with the provincial government about higher pay, with status of their union and time off for its officers to carry out union business, reached an impasse.

In Montreal, officials of the Quebec Government Teachers' Union (CNTR) were not immediately available for comment on the granting of the injunction.

The strike has given an extended Easter holiday to 30,000 students who were to return to their classes Tuesday.

INJUNCTION

The teachers had threatened to strike March 16, but the government obtained an injunction to prevent the walkout then.

March 21, the Quebec Labor Relations Board ruled that the teachers perform an "essential service" and under the law such persons employed by the government are not permitted to strike.

Semester System Success

VANCOUVER (CP) — Simon Fraser University's new tri-semester system is succeeding beyond initial expectations, says Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, SFU president.

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan said in an interview Wednesday the system—three terms fitted into a single year—is working well. He said enrolment in the summer term, the anticipated weak link in the three, has reached the 800 - mark, 300 more students than expected.

"It is complete and utter nonsense to say that the system is showing signs of collapse," he said, commenting on eastern reports that the system is failing.

"It's working very successfully and we anticipate it will continue to do so."

He said officials at the new university in suburban Burnaby did not anticipate a summer enrolment anywhere close to the levels reached in the autumn and winter terms, 2,800 and 2,500 students respectively.

Jones Case Decision Deferred

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal Wednesday reserved decision on an action seeking reversal of a recent Supreme Court decision dismissing a slander action against Premier Bennett.

The suit was launched by George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. government's purchasing commission, following a speech the premier made to a Social Credit meeting.

Mr. Jones' lawyer, Tom Berger, argued that remarks made by the premier were calculated to disparage Mr. Jones and were defamatory.

The remarks followed Mr. Jones' involuntary retirement from the commission in March, 1965, under special legislation which paid his salary and full pension rights up to January, 1966.

IWA, Company Settle Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — A dispute between the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) and Canadian Forest Products over weekend shifts at the company's New Westminster plant has been settled. The dispute arose over a company proposal to start weekend shifts which the union said would violate its collective agreement.

Artists? Sort of, think Judi, Linda and Elaine

* * *

Panels Acquire Third Dimension

A grubby threesome busied itself Wednesday putting the first three-dimensional painting on Victoria's much talked about wall.

Goo flew as a healthy lathering of papier mache was stuck to the plyboard panel with a walloping helping of the stuff lathered into the artist's clothing, eyes and hair.

* * *

Having (or throwing) the proverbial ball were Esquimalt high school art student Elaine Chernoff, 17, of 251 Esquimalt, and her two "technicians," classmates Linda Bergin, 17, of 767 Wilson, and Judi Horrigan, 18, of 755 Wilson.

* * *

"The mind — the real mind — is Elaine," said Linda seriously, inadvertently wiping a gob of plaster muck across her cheek.

The "painting," one of scores which have now appeared on the wall surrounding the site of the new proverbial museum, is unfinished but progressing.

* * *

The work is of a woman and she must measure at least a handsome 40, despite the flatness of her back.

The three girls made a start on the panel on Tuesday, covering it with plastic sheeting to keep it from overnight dampness.

* * *

When they returned Wednesday, someone had tweeked off the dear lady's papier mache nose.

Victoria vandals, despite evidence of their courtesy in at least signing some of their desecrations with probably fictitious names, have been a trifle rampant since the big paint-in started.

* * *

Bruce Woodward, company manager, pointed out the bird doesn't have to be a bluebird.

Contest sponsors, suddenly doing a quick count of panels and eager artists, have found it necessary to ask painters to sign their works and place their names and addresses somewhere on their panels.

* * *

This will aid in identifying contest winners.

Meanwhile there came rumblings from another quarter.

At least one well-known Victoria artist has set to loud criticism of the fence.

"Let's not call them artists!" thundered landscapist Robert Wood.

"If I gave you a hammer and a bucket of nails, would that make you a carpenter?

"No, sir! The trouble with art today is that we've lost craftsmanship and this is proved when we can see a university (of B.C.) professor come to town and hang so-called plastic art in our gallery." ,

* * *

'Call Them Amateurs' Says Artist

* * *

He didn't like it.

It lets the whole side down—for John Q Public "will see these kids and think they're really artists."

* * *

Mr. Wood has a lot to say on the subject.

"No — I think it's great. If their mentality is such, then go to it and paint on a fence.

"But let's call it by its rightful name—let's call it an amateur show and label it as being only amateur. For kids. Let's put an age limit on it.

* * *

"Then if kids want to come and paint on a fence, and be judged by qualified and respected craftsmen, then fine. I'm all for it. We could provide scholarships. I'd even give free lessons to a winner if he showed promise."

Art student Elaine heard of Mr. Wood's views, and didn't particularly want to comment.

"He has a point, I guess," she said seriously.

Delinquency Panel Told:

Trustees Have Obligation To Educate 'Force-Outs'

School boards are facing a test of their obligation to provide an education for students forced out of the school.

This was the opinion of Dr. Charles Gregory, provincial director of mental health centres, expressed in a panel on juvenile delinquency Wednesday.

FORCE OUTS

He was discussing school drop-outs and what he termed "force-outs"—students for whom there is no place in the school system. A typical force-out would be a student too disturbing for the rest of the class because of a personality problem.

"I have never seen the legality of this challenged," Dr. Gregory said.

LEGAL OBLIGATION

"School boards have a legal obligation to provide them with an education, and I feel it's only a matter of time until it is tested."

On the panel, assembled by the Family and Children's Service, were: Dr. Gregory; Donald Bingham, provincial superintendent of child welfare; Mary Sinclair, social worker with the Family and Children's Service; Rocksborough Smith, director of correction and chief probabation officer of B.C.; district magistrate William Ostler; W. T. Lawson, supervisor of group homes with the Family and Children's Service.

OVER-RESEARCHED

Mr. Lawson brought the strongest audience reaction when he declared the subject of juvenile delinquency has been "researched to death."

"What we do not need is more research," he said. "There are already piles of research on the subject and nobody in his right mind would bother reading any more.

"What we need is action. Everyone knows there are certain things that need to be done."

He said the province needs an informed electorate to convince politicians it would vote for policies of action.

"Politicians understand votes," he said.

THREE THINGS

Three things must be done, he said:

● Find the potential delinquent before the trouble starts;

● Involve the entire community — "It's much too important a problem to be left to professionals";

● Provide something constructive for them to do.

JAIL NOT ANSWER

Magistrate Ostler told the panel the answer to the problem after a juvenile reaches court is not found in punitive measures.

"Incarceration is not the answer in the first instance at all," he said. "Probation should always be tried — it has everything to gain and nothing to lose."

GET-TOUGH POLICY

He said many persons today are demanding a get-tough policy from the courts.

"People are increasingly demanding back-to-the-woodshed policy, a return of the stocks, the ducking stool and the whipping post.

NO SOLUTION

"It's easy to understand the anxiety, frustration and annoyance of the public," he said. "But when you ask these people what should be done with the delinquent when he returns from incarceration they say, 'Let's change the subject.'"

Work Starting Next Month On Warehouse

Construction will begin early in May on an $800,000 steel warehouse for Yarrows Ltd., at Esquimalt and Canteen Roads.

First announcement of the plans was made by the firm's general manager, John Wallace, last September, but no date was set to begin construction.

The shed will be capable of storing $1,500,000 worth of steel and will introduce a completely new concept in storage, with stock on shelves or bars less than 11 inches apart and up to 22 feet high.

NEW CRANE

A custom-built stacker crane, the first of its kind in Western Canada, will be used to store and bring out stock.

The crane operates on the principle of a fork lift, and through storage on shelves, no one piece will have to be moved to get at another. Another advantage to the system is that it needs about a sixth of the floor space normally required.

The building will contain two storage bays, one 90 feet wide with two 10-ton overhead cranes, the other 70 feet wide and equipped with a 10-ton overhead crane and the stacker crane. The machinery is valued at $250,000.

Measuring 366 by 160 by 40 feet high, the building will use steel trusses to provide a clear span interior.

Dominion Bridge has the $290,000 contract to erect a building of prefabricated steel sections, with work to begin early in May.

With the modern machinery, one man will be able to put together an order of steel. A company spokesman said Wednesday the new machinery lent itself to computer adaptation.

OTHER EQUIPMENT

There are 26 persons employed in the steel servicing operation. Mr. Wallace said no staff changes were contemplated.

Steel from the warehouse will be shipped to satellite warehouses at Nanaimo and Campbell River. The company is considering further expansion.

The building will also house steel-working equipment, such as cutting machinery, which enable the orders to be handled in a "one-stop operation."

A company spokesman said the trend in ordering steel was for the customer to ask for custom-cut stock rather than the stock sizes sold in the past.

Plumbers Get Scouts' Thanks

Three members of the Plumbers' and Pipe-fitters' Union Local 324, who recently did some volunteer plumbing work at the Boy Scouts of Canada Camp Barnard in Sooke, have been thanked by Scout headquarters officials.

The plumbers worked on the Camp Warden's house at the camp.

In the letter of appreciation to the union, Scout officials say that the three members did "more than they were asked to do" in getting the job done.

Boy Describes Fist Fight With Accused

A 15-year-old Mount Newton High School student told a preliminary hearing Wednesday he was in a fight Feb. 10 with Francis Wollaston, the youth who is charged with capital murder in the death of Linda Crocker.

The 16-year-old Wollaston, 734 Sea Drive, was charged only hours after Linda's body was found on a path above Woodward Drive in Brentwood in the late afternoon of Feb. 10.

"He challenged me to a fight," the witness said. "I picked the time and place."

FIGHT 'GOT DIRTY'

There were about three minutes of fist fighting and the "fight got dirty," the boy said.

"I got kicked in the groin two or three times and he kneed me in the side," Robert said.

A woman then came down the drive and that broke up the fight, court was told.

NEITHER CUT

Neither of the fighters was cut during the scrap, the witness said.

He told prosecutor Louis Lindholm that Wollaston was quite calm when the fight started and then seemed to get angry.

"He was cussing when the fight broke up," he said. "He wanted to fight again."

DENIES CLAIM

Robert Conconi told defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie that Wollaston claimed Conconi had said he could beat Wollaston in a fight.

"I never said that," the witness said.

Asked about Wollaston's reputation at the school, Robert said: "He had his friends. He seemed to be a loudmouth about what he had done. I had seen the lead-up to one fight at the Memorial Arena."

WENT HOME

The witness said he went home after the fight — which had begun immediately after school finished — and did not see Wollaston again that day.

Mrs. Georgine Davidson said she was taking her daughter to music lessons Feb. 10 and drove along Woodward Drive between 4:48 p.m. and 5 p.m.

RIDING BICYCLE

Both were going in the same direction and Linda was nearing the top of the path, she said.

Mrs. Davidson told Mr. McKenzie that Wollaston seemed to be pedalling normally and that Linda was alone.

Mayor Awarded $2,500 Raise

Mayor Toone was awarded a $2,500 raise Wednesday but not without a word of caution from a new alderman about rising administrative costs.

"I have to admit the mayor does a great deal of work at City Hall, but I think it's time we took a hard look at administrative costs. We must ask if it is necessary that he work full time," said Ald. Percy Frampton.

At $7,500, the mayor was getting just $900 more than a first class constable, said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who spearheaded the move to give Mayor Toone more money.

Until passage of the bylaw Wednesday, the mayor was getting $5,000 salary and $2,500 allowance. He will now get $7,500 salary and $2,500 allowance. This is the maximum allowable in a city of Victoria's size.

Aldermen get $2,500 annually.

Two boys, aged 13 and 10, pleaded guilty in juvenile court Wednesday to breaking into the Woolco store at Town and Country, overnight Saturday. They had been located Tuesday in Vancouver.

People who give up smoking in their early 40s have twice as good a chance of escaping lung cancer, says the president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Dr. H. M. Edmison, chief radiologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said Wednesday that schools should begin a continuing program to warn of the danger of smoking.

In Victoria the Canadian Cancer Society is seeking $85,000 in its annual fund drive. It has raised more than $30,000.

The body of a woman found floating in the water off Dallas Road near Beacon Hill Park Tuesday was identified Wednesday as that of Mrs. Beatrix Williams, of suite 3, 101 Menzies.

Body was identified by Mrs. Peter Campbell, 2712 Prior, a friend of the dead woman.

Bear, Cub Awakened

Bears were the last thing on Gerhart Hansen's mind as he toppled a six-foot-thick tree Wednesday near the headwaters of the Jordan River.

But when the giant trunk hit the ground, it split open, and through a hole about half-way up popped a female bear and one cub.

Pensions To Be Aired

Speaking on the pension plan will be Conservative MP George Chatterton.

Although the meeting is intended mainly for farmers, all members of the public are invited. There will be a question and answer session.

Same Standards Without Victoria

'Health Board Won't Fold'

Comments ranging from "inevitable," to "its the city's business," greeted the news Wednesday that Victoria was planning to pull out of the Metropolitan Board of Health.

City Hall observers felt if the step was taken it would mean collapse of the board as the city pays most of the supporting cost.

* * *

"It is problematical what effect Victoria's withdrawal would have," he said. "In my opinion health services in the Greater Victoria area would still be carried on in the same high standards."

Reeve Lee added the city was welcome to do as it pleased. He said under governing rules an, municipality withdrawing from the board was called on to give six months notice.

"I am not crying panic to any such threat," he said.

* * *

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said the feeling in the city hall did not surprise him.

"It has been a distinct possibility for some time. The Metropolitan Board of Health is quite probably the most awkward intermunicipal body in existence today," he said.

He added the board had been formed in good faith in an attempt to the standardize health program but there were a number of built-in effects one being inequality in per capita health costs.

Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt pay $2 a head while Saanich, Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney pay about 40 cents a head.

* * *

"It is also a matter of record that the senior medical health officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread is quite often at loggerheads with one or more of the member municipalities. Much of this difficulty arises from the fact that it is sometimes forgotten that the board is not nor should be an autonomous and independent body. It is the creation of the municipalities and the school districts that make up its membership," he said.

* * *

He said if the board does break up it will have to be replaced and from experience in the past few years it could not help but improve.

Esquimalt Reeve Ray T. Bryant said the situation looks serious but added he was reserving comment until he had time to give the possibilities further study.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A girl friend of mine who is 19 plans to be married in the Spring. Last week she and her fiance went shopping for furniture. They bought a bedroom set with twin beds—but only after a bitter argument.

I asked her why she insisted on twin beds when her fiance made it plain he wanted a double bed. She said, "I have slept alone for 19 years and I just can't sleep with anyone."

Will you please tell me what is wrong with a girl who wouldn't even TRY a double bed to please her fiance? — INTERESTED THIRD PARTY

Dear Party: What difference would it make to you if they slept on an ironing board? When it comes to beds, Dearie, three is REALLY a crowd.

If this girl wrote to me I'd tell her about twin beds with a single head board, but since she hasn't asked for my advice, I'm keeping my nose out of it. I think it could be wise if you did the same.

Dear Ann Landers: A man I have been going with has a habit that embarrasses me to death.

When we dine out and the waiter brings the check this gentleman makes a big production of changing his glasses, getting out his pen and adding up the bill. If he finds a mistake he points it out to the waiter with the air of a man who has just foiled a bank robbery.

Is it worth the few dollars he saves? (He has yet to find a mistake which gives the restaurant more and himself less.) What is your opinion? Frankly I find it uncouth. — TOO CRITICAL

Dear Too: Machines make mistakes and so do people. There is nothing uncouth about adding up a bill before you pay it. If you don't check YOUR bills before you pay them, you aren't very bright.

It is not good manners, however, to make a big flap when a mistake is discovered. You could ask him to soft peddle the large act.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I am secretary to the sweetest, kindest boss who ever lived. His wife is a neurotic hag who drives both the boss and me crazy with her countless telephone calls.

Yesterday she phoned to tell him the egg man didn't show up, the vacuum sweeper broke down, his mother wrote an unfriendly letter, and she lost a filling from her tooth.

This morning she asked me to call him out of a conference to tell him that the garbage man didn't collect the trash and her bridge club is coming and what should she do.

I think the biggest favor I could do my boss would be to drop his wife a line and explain nicely that her frequent interruptions are a nuisance and to please call him only when it is urgent.

Will you back me up? — FED EDNA

Dear Edna: No, It is not your place to tell the boss' wife anything. When he gets fed up with her calls he'll let her know. Until then (which may be never) keep your lip zipped.

Beaton-Smith

Harrison Honeymoon

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Aidan's church recently when Lynda Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Smith, Gordon Head Road, became the bride of Mr. Donald Neil Beaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Leslie Beaton of College Drive, Saskatoon.

Rev. A. G. McLeod and Rev. J. Lyn Clerihue performed the marriage service for the afternoon ceremony. Mrs. Vera Barclay was organist for the double-ring service.

The lace bodice of the gown had a scalloped neckline and featured elbow-length bell fiesta sleeves with a gathered lace frill. A lace headpiece, made by the bride, concealed orange blossoms worn by her mother and sister at their weddings and held a waist-length illusion net veil edged with matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias, and roses intermingled with sapphire blue net.

Miss Smith had five attendants, her sister, Mrs. Ronald Smith, her cousin Miss Sandra Smith, the groom's cousin, Miss Donna Janes and Mrs. Robert Rogers. They were gowned alike in sapphire blue velvet with matching chiffon full-length sleeves, and wore gifts of pearls. They carried white gladiolus.

Little flower girl, Bernadette Griffin wore a frock of white flocked nylon and a headband of tiny white flowers. She carried a nosegay of sapphire-blue cornflowers.

Mr. Gary Reinstein was best man with Mr. Robert Rogers, Mr. John Acres and Mr. Norman Smith, all cousins of the bride, as ushers.

For a reception in St. Aidan's lower auditorium, Mr. R. J. McInnes gave the toast. Mrs. W. G. Hill, Miss Carol Hayward and Mrs. G. Brown, members of the choir, sang during the affair.

Leaving on a honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs, the new Mrs. Beaton wore a two-piece turquoise suit with imported lace blouse and matching topcoat. She chose a white petal hat and wore a red rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaton will reside at 3038 Washington Avenue.

Veiled Women of Libya Shielded by Husbands

Life in Libya where women are veiled from male eyes poses some odd problems for husbands, said Agnes Newton Keith, distinguished author, speaking to women of the Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

The author of Land Below the Wind, Barefoot in the Palace, and now Children of Allah, told a packed audience something of her observations after living in Libya with her husband, Harry Keith who was nine years a UN advisor there.

Since the women are not only veiled, but cannot go out to shop, the husbands must buy all the clothes, purchase food and attend to a variety of small details. One result is that the children in the family often look oddly alike, since the father will buy one bolt of cloth to dress the whole family.

RARELY VISIT DOCTOR

Even more unusual is the fact that a woman is rarely allowed to visit a doctor when she is sick. The husband goes and describes the symptons. If a child is sick, he often stays home to look after it, even with five or six women in the household, since he feels he is the only one who can handle the doctor's instructions.

The one legitimate reason a woman, even after marriage, can use to go out, is to teach school. This is fully condoned by society and the husbands in particular. Even so, the husband will drive his wife to the door, and call for her again at the end of the day.

SENT TO SCHOOLS

Mrs. Keith noted that Libyan girls had been sent to schools for the past eight years. The country was very wealthy with vast oil resources under government control, in fact the country had more money than it actually knew how to spend.

Lybia, she said was under-populated and under-educated but a new educational program was underway aimed at the new generation.

HORIZONS WIDENING

"Horizons are widening in Libya," said Mrs. Keith, and much of this is due to the vague discontent of the scholarship students who have studied abroad."

In a question period Mrs. Keith was asked how Libyan men meet their future wives, if the women never go out.

The author replied that marriages are arranged through consultation between the female relatives. Family connections and money, were among the main considerations regarding a good match, she said.

Successful Sale

UNION BAY — Success was the word to describe the Thrift and Rummage Sale put on by the Evening Circle, United Church Women in the Community Hall.

A good crowd was on hand to enjoy dessert at 6 p.m., and were welcomed by Mrs. Ed Sawchuck.

Business was brisk at the various stalls. Daphne Hamilton and Myrtle Adamson had the fish pond, and Ann Pratt looked after the heaped rummage table.

A "dress-up" table for children was a successful novelty. Janette Geldt and her helpers had packed bags with dress-up articles for young ladies, such as long dresses, jewelry, high heels and hats.

Hilda Keenan sold books, Queenie Remple was in charge of the White Elephant stall. Lois Nelson and Muriel Peters looked after sale of hot dogs, and Emily Peters was in charge of home cooking.

Helping in the kitchen were Mrs. L. Magnone, Mrs. Keenan, Sr., and Mrs. Kingery.

"It was a most successful and happy event," said Mrs. Sawchuck: "we were also able to send our surplus clothing to the Welfare and Missionary Supply, Vancouver."

Salt Spring Island

Joint Party For Friends

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — Three young ladies from Salt Spring Island celebrated their combined birthdays after 18 years of wonderful friendship, companionship and happy home lives. They are the Misses Ronda Lee, Jayney French and Diane Hobday.

The three girls were born within a few minutes of each other on April 10, 1948, at the old Lady Minto Hospital on the hill.

They have been celebrating their birthdays together from their first year. Now approaching graduation year from various schools, the girls are not sure where they may be by their next anniversary.

* * *

"We will get together whenever we can each year on April 10 or close to that date but we may be too far apart," says Diane Hobday.

She is graduating from Claremont High in Victoria this year and hopes next year to attend university.

She is interested in bookkeeping and a career in that category seems indicated.

Jayney French is nearly through a course in hairdressing. She left school to take up this profession, working at the Dutch Beauty Salon in Ganges where she hopes to complete her course by August.

Ronda Lee is studying to be a secretary and during the last few years, before she entered the higher grades in the Ganges High School, won seven trophies in the PTA gardening contests, one a year for seven years.

* * *

A green thumb must fit somewhere in a secretary's career even if Ronda ends up with a flower box on a window ledge.

Just in case their careers bring separations, the girls decided to have a bang-up party in the Fulford Hall Saturday night. Their invited guest list numbered around 50 friends, relations and immediate families.

Industry Plan Protested

Woodworkers Feel Sunday Day of Rest

Working on Sunday disrupts family life and very few members of the IWA work on the traditional day of rest, Edwin Haw, secretary of IWA Local 1-118, said Wednesday.

Mr. Haw was commenting on a decision of the First Christian Reformed Church on Vancouver Island who have come out against the lumber industry working on Sundays.

"Sunday is traditionally and generally the day of rest, and there are only very few of our members who do overtime then," said Mr. Haw.

The Victoria branch of the church has issued an open letter to the forest industry and to the provincial government and the "British Columbia population."

SUNDAY RULE

The letter says acceptance of the Sunday working rule would mean that all those employed in the industry would be required to work on Sundays.

The letter says that abolishing this special character of Sunday would become disastrous for B.C. citizens.

VIOLATE ORDER

"It will violate a direct creation order of God; it will make regular worship services impossible; it will further disrupt family life, the foundation of society, and will finally lead to desecration of life itself," says the letter.

"Thus we will incur upon ourselves the punishment for those who disregard a living and a righteous God," the letter added.

LAND IS MINORITY

City Girl Going To Bavaria

DAFENY HORNE

Dafeny Horne, a fourth-year languages student at the University of Victoria, has won a two-month summer scholarship to the Goethe Institute in the Bavarian Alps. Miss Horne, 2088 Brighton Avenue, will study German culture and language, and visit Frankfurt, Berlin and Munich.

IWA 'Could Have Asked Lot More'

If forest employers think the IWA is asking for "the whole pie" in its 1966 contract demands, "they should know that we could have asked for a hell of a lot more," IWA Local 1-118 secretary Edwin Haw said Wednesday.

Mr. Haw was commenting on a statement issued by the forest industry in which it was claimed that the IWA was not asking for a bigger bite of the pie, but the whole pie.

He said negotiations were in the second day of conciliation. He had heard nothing on progress of the talks.

Renewal Plan Drafted

First draft of the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal scheme will be presented to Mayor Toone and aldermen for study by Monday, city planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh said Wednesday.

Mr. Greenhalgh, who says he is three staffers short in his Department of Planning and Community Development, has been working long hours to get the plan in shape.

REMOVE HOUSING

It involves removal of substandard housing in the district, relocation of North Ward School, road-widening, landscaping and construction of low-cost housing.

Boundaries of the project run from Blanshard to Kings, from Kings east almost to Quadra, and thence north to Hillside, with Rose Street forming the western boundary.

Mr. Greenhalgh said the department is looking for an economist, a physical planner and a draftsman.

St. George Fetches $616,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Gallery has acquired a tiny 15th century painting recently sold at auction for $616,000, the Washington Post said Tuesday night. The painting, measuring six by four inches, is generally attributed to the Flemish artist Hubert Van Eyck and portrays St. George slaying the dragon. A Sotheby's official described the painting as "one of the most important works of the 15th century."

Wave-Lashed Liner in Calmer Seas

NEW YORK (AP)—With three persons dead from injuries suffered when a huge wave struck the ship Tuesday, the Italian luxury liner Michelangelo steamed on behind schedule for New York Wednesday in improved weather.

She is expected to arrive Saturday with 775 passengers. She was due Thursday.

* * *

The Italian Line headquarters at Genoa said the dead were passengers John Steinbach, 58, Chicago insurance executive, and Werner Berndt, businessman from Hamburg, West Germany, and an Italian crew member, Desiderio Ferrari. Eleven others were injured.

Reported in critical condition with a suspected skull fracture was Fritz Glarner of Huntington, N.Y. another American, Joseph Badger, 67, of Camden, Me. suffered fractured ribs.

* * *

Slightly injured were Mrs. Werner Berndt, 60, Berndt's wife, and Mrs. Silvia Borini of Naples. The other seven injured, all Italian crew members, suffered fractures, skull concussions, cuts and bruises.

Umberto Nordio, director of the Italian Line, said at Genoa the wave hit the 44,000-ton liner Tuesday as it was about to leave a fierce storm zone.

It twisted metal inside and outside the ship and smashed windows and furnishings in cabins.

Nordio said reports from the ship said the wave was no less than 33 feet high and perhaps four times higher than that. He said the ship's captain, Giuseppe Soletti, radioed an estimate Wednesday morning of 132 feet, which would be a record since the highest previously -recorded wave was 112 feet registered by a U.S. Navy ship in the Pacific in 1933.

* * *

A technician for the lines left for New York by air to supervise repair when the ship docks. The company said it did not know how long the Michelangelo would be delayed before making the return trip to Italy.

* * *

The sleek, 900-foot-long vessel, pride of the Italian Lines, left Genoa April 6 for New York. It ran into the storm two days from its destination and, said Nordio, was about to enter calmer seas when the wave hit.

Soletti said he was on the bridge when the wave hit. Steinbach and Berndt, he said, were in their first-class cabins. Both men died of head injuries, the company reported.

* * *

Meanwhile, the U.S. Coast Guard renewed a search for the five seamen washed overboard from the British freighter Chuscal 600 miles off Newfoundland. A coast guard spokesman said about 15 ships in the area also were asked to be on the watch.

Shakeup Due in Britain

Secret Service Slips

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's secret service is in for a big overhaul following several serious intelligence failures, the London Daily Express reported Wednesday.

The newspaper said the secret service people have been caught napping several times during the last few months, and this has seriously embarrassed Prime Minister Wilson.

DUE TO RETIRE

It said the director general of the secret service — known only as "C" for security reasons — is due to retire this year in any case and consideration was being given to reducing the retirement age from 60 to 55.

The story listed the following intelligence slip ups:

- The secret service had no idea of what was coming when Singapore suddenly broke away from Malaysia eight months ago.
- Prime Minister Wilson was in Nigeria two days before the coup there and the assassination of Nigerian leaders, including federal Premier Sir Abubakar Balewa. The secret service was not tipped off.
- There was no advance warnings when Ghana's president Kwame Nkrumah was deposed.

Pet Fish in Throat Suffocates Baby

BOMBAY, India (UPI)—Five-months-old Francis Joseph died when a pet fish jumped from a bowl into his throat while he was lying on the floor and choked him as his mother struggled to remove it.

Doctors said the child's death Tuesday was due to "suffocation caused by a fish getting stuck in the child's throat.

TV Report

Catholic Wealth Colossal

LONDON (UPI) — A controversial television report screened by Britain's Independent Television Tuesday night claimed that the wealth of the Roman Catholic church is "beyond valuation."

The 108-acre Vatican City in Rome is the most valuable piece of real estate owned by the church, the ITV "World Tomorrow" report said.

It estimated the value of the Sistine Chapel inside the Vatican to £400,000,000 ($1,120,000,009).

The report was screened with a week's delay after 50 words were cut from the script and a commentary by a Catholic spokesman, Monsignor Bruce Kent of the Westminster diocese was added.

Snow, Cold Keep Grip On Europe

LONDON (AP) — Snow and cold winds kept Europe in the grip of winter Wednesday.

In London, the 42-degree cold made it one of the coldest mid-April days in 25 years.

ROADS CHAOTIC

In southern Sweden it was the coldest spring on record since 1867.

Much of northern West Germany was covered with one to three inches of snow.

Red River

Dikes Pass Tests

WINNIPEG (CP) — Hastily constructed dikes passed the endurance test of cresting flood water in southern Manitoba Wednesday and forecasters predicted the swollen Red River will lose more of its wallop before it reaches Winnipeg Saturday.

The downward revision of the anticipated Winnipeg crest—now expected Saturday at 26.5 feet above average winter ice level—was the second in three days and chopped another foot from the forecast maximum. Dikes have been raised to 30 feet around Greater Winnipeg and only the flood-prone Elm Park area in suburban St. Vital has cause for concern.

SEEPAGE PROBLEM

Agriculture Minister George Hutton told a flood briefing: "We are sure the precautionary measures we have taken in Winnipeg are adequate. The chief problem will be maintaining the Elm Park dike. The water will not top it but we have to watch for seepage and the like."

Seepage is also the main concern at Emerson, 60 miles south of Winnipeg where the river crested Tuesday, and at St. Jean Baptiste and Morris, between Winnipeg and Emerson, where a peak is expected by today.

Local problems have been quickly pinpointed and defensive action taken at both Emerson and Morris, where dikes are well above the maximum river level expected, but it is an uphill fight at St. Jean.

Mr. Hutton said he is impressed by the efforts at the tiny community of 500 where dikes hold back up to 15 feet of water.

"I'd have to say the job they've done was 20 per cent material and 80 per cent pure guts—that's the only term that can describe the effort that has gone on there."

SOGGY DIKES

Flood co - ordinator George Bonnefoy said crews are continuing to reinforce the soggy dikes, which are only six inches above the crest level. "We're optimistic, we think we've got it licked."

Frequent breaks in the dike are keeping both volunteers and military personnel on their toes. Three motor boats were lost in 24 hours, sinking under the load of sandbags being ferried to the weakening dikes. No one was injured.

Federal Aid Certain

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday after a 90-minute meeting with Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin he is certain the federal government is prepared to share in the cost of controlling the Red River flood.

Mr. Sharp promised a "very sympathetic" view when he takes the matter before the federal cabinet, probably today.

He said there would be an announcement in a "very short time."

HOTEL LUNCHEON

The finance minister and Industry Minister Drury heard Mr. Roblin's request for federal financial assistance at a luncheon meeting in the premier's hotel suite.

Mr. Roblin, who flew to Ottawa Tuesday, left Ottawa Wednesday afternoon for Winnipeg.

Mr. Roblin, who met Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday, expressed satisfaction at the hearing given by the federal government.

He said no accurate estimate of flood-fighting costs can be made until the Red River reaches its crest, probably this weekend. But he was "afraid it's a multi-million-dollar proposition."

* * *

Manitoba May Vote

WINNIPEG (CP) — The improved Red River flood outlook brought predictions of a Manitoba election in early June.

The flood situation was one of the factors delaying an election-date decision by Premier Duff Roblin. Political sources said the Conservative government would have held off the election until autumn.

The Conservatives came to power in Manitoba in 1958 and the last provincial election was Dec. 14, 1962.

Standing in the 57-seat House: Conservatives 36, Liberals 13, New Democratic Party 5 and Social Credit 1. There are two vacancies, seats that had been held by the NDP.

Capetown Worried

LONDON (LAT) — South Africa has expressed concern to Britain over the United Nations resolution dealing with oil for Rhodesia, although she has been "less petulant" than Portugal in the matter, government sources said Wednesday.

South African officials here and in Capetown called, at their own initiative, on British diplomats in recent days. Details of the exchanges were not disclosed.

There is considerable interest here in the South African reaction since many believe that she holds the key to Rhodesia's future. Without her help, or at least strict neutrality, the economic sanctions against Britain's white-led breakaway colony appear insufficient to bring down the rebels.

* * *

South Africa and Portuguese Mozambique refused to comply with the voluntary sanctions asked by the United Nations in December against Rhodesia. Contiguous with land-locked Rhodesia, both have permitted oil and other goods to get into and out of that country.

In fact, there are reports that some Rhodesian products are reaching their normal world markets, despite the boycott, under South African aegis.

The new UN resolution, introduced by Britain to stop oil for Rhodesia via Mozambique, opens the door to sanctions against Portugal and South Africa if those nations fail to abide by its mandatory terms.

* * *

South Africa, unlike Portugal, has not underrated the importance of pressure from black-led African states. South Africa, as the only avowedly white nation in Africa, feels more vulnerable.

Sources here believe that South Africa will revert to a "selfish" policy of looking out primarily for itself now that her elections are over and in view of the dangers posed by the UN resolution.

* * *

There appears to be little on the official record to justify this hope, however.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd could stem the flow of "private" oil tankers to Rhodesia by road and frown on the aid given by South African businessmen to the rebels in one form or another.

Britain, with heavy investments and sales in South Africa, has often opposed attempts to impose sanctions against South Africa when black-led African states called for them. Given the Rhodesian crisis, however, Wilson may move in this direction, or at least threaten to do so to make South Africa give less help to the rebels.

* * *

Texan Oils Relations With Smith

DALLAS (UPI)—W. Barney Johnson, who disapproves of the oil embargo against Rhodesia, mailed a quart of oil Wednesday to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

"I just decided to do it as a protest," he said. "I'm not anti-British or anti-UN, I'm pro-Rhodesia, I think, I'd like to see everyone who feels the same as I do send a quart, too."

Tankers Fuel Up Guessing Game

BEIRA, Mozambique (Reuters)—Two tankers which have caused an international furore by carrying oil apparently destined for Britain's breakaway African colony of Rhodesia have kept up the guessing game about their next moves.

The Greek - registered Manuela, diverted from here by an armed boarding party from a Royal Navy frigate Sunday, pulled into harbor at the South African port of Durban Wednesday after lying offshore for 36 hours.

It was not known immediately whether she will discharge her 15,000 tons of crude oil there.

Irish Protestants Set Collision Course In Weekend Parade

DUBLIN (UPI) — Fears of a weekend clash in Northern Ireland were voiced Wednesday as Protestant extremists set a collision course with a planned Republican rally to honor the men of the 1916 rebellion.

Under the leadership of Rev. Ian Paisley, whose extreme anti-Catholic views have taken him on protest pilgrimages to Rome, London and other capitals, Protestants announced that they would march Sunday in a "Thanksgiving service for the 1916 rebels."

They planned their march to cut across a giant nationalist parade scheduled to assemble in Casement Park in Belfast to hold a commemoration ceremony for the executed leaders of the Easter rising.

Timetables for the two parades showed the Protestant marchers were scheduled to move off just 30 minutes after the start of the Republican demonstration. The route selected by Paisley would intersect the baseline of the Republican parade.

Under the title of the "Ulster Defence Committee" of which Paisley is chairman, the Protestant group called for a huge turnout to register their "lawful disgust at the 1916 celebrations in Ulster."

Thousands of southern Republicans were expected to pour across the border separating the 26 counties from the partitioned six northeastern partitioned six northeastern counties.

HIGHLIGHT

The Republican rally was the highlight of the Nationalist commemoration ceremonies of the 50th anniversary of the 1916 Easter rising.

The protestant move came as Irishmen in the republic were congratulating themselves on the trouble-free ceremonies which had marked the celebrations.

Seven-Mile Ice Jam No Threat to Smithers

SMITHERS (CP) — Village officials said Wednesday a new seven-mile ice jam choking the Bulkley River above Smithers is expected to pose no serious threat to this beleaguered community in north central British Columbia.

Engineers reported water is flowing beneath the ice and they now hope the jam will melt gradually. It was earlier believed that the jam, located near the small settlement of Quick, might thunder down the river against the remains of the Bulkley River bridge here.

This riverside community of 3,200, where a state of emergency was declared Tuesday night, has been hit by a chain of catastrophies.

A $40,000 fire destroyed the village pumping station Good Friday, then an ice jam ripped out the bridge. Shifting quicksand fractured the village sewer system and the ice - dammed river temporarily flooded the makeshift pumphouse.

A 150-foot channel has been cut through the first ice jam and water is running freely enough to widen the channel further.

Two pumps, one borrowed from Prince George, are providing enough water pressure to meet limited domestic demands and fight fires if necessary—though residents still have to boil their water because the village chlorinator continues to freeze in the cold weather.

The sewer system break, which backed sewage into dozens of homes, was expected to be repaired Wednesday. Engineers worked to bypass the underground break with a 400-foot section of eight - inch pipe.

Village commissioner Joe MacDonald said Smithers' first need is money to meet the substantial expenditures involved in repairing the systems.

He said the state of emergency declaration gives the village power to borrow funds without having to go to the ratepayers for approval.

The next step is to repair the 145-foot section of bridge carried away Good Friday. Pile-driving has been started to support sections of bailey bridge.

A 40 - mile detour around Smithers, mid - point of the 500-mile northern trans - provincial highway between Prince George and Prince Rupert, was still in operation.

YOU BOUGHT YOURSELF A FLY-CASTING OUTFIT?—I NEVER KNEW YOU WERE INTERESTED IN FISHING, CY!
MY COMPANY MAY DECIDE TO GO INTO THAT FIELD SOME DAY, JAN!—THEN I'LL NEED TO KNOW A REEL FROM A CREEL!
YOU TIED THAT KNOT WITH ALL THE SKILL OF A SURGEON, DEAR!
IT'S THE SAME KNOT I USE TO—TO HANG YOUR CLOTHES-LINE—ONLY SMALLER!
NOW WHY DON'T YOU STOP TALKING TO ME AND GO START DINNER!—I WANT TO PRACTICE A FEW CASTS BEFORE DARK!
SURE, CY!... I'LL NOT BOTHER YOU ANY MORE!

MORRISONS
ON DOUGLAS!

Morrison's Theme for April And Every Month!

USED CARS FOR SALE—CHEAP!

What does it take to make a GOOD DEAL for YOU? Hoopla? Claims and counter claims? Singers, Actors and the like? WE THINK NOT! What makes a deal GOOD for you is the condition of the car you buy . . . the size of the price you pay . . . the kind of trade-in allowance you get. This is why we don't cloud the issue with a lot of themes, smoke signals and clever thoughts . . . but instead use the simple (and most honest) Advertising Appeal of all . . . "USED CARS FOR SALE . . . CHEAP! After all, isn't that what you're interested in?

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	4♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Club king

The first card you play from dummy frequently determines whether or not you are going to make your contract. Declarer overcame an unfriendly layout of the E-W cards on this deal because he stopped to think in a situation which didn't seem to need any thought at all.

In these competitive times, it isn't only what you bid that counts — it's the way you bid it. And although most pairs would have no trouble landing in the normal four heart spot on the N-S cards, quite a few would get there by a round-aboute route that might give the non-vulnerable E-W pair a chance to locate a cheap save in a minor. But since N-S were playing the Big Club, North knew from South's failure to open one club that slam could not be there, and his direct raise to four hearts shut out any interference.

With a loser in each of the black suits, the game seemed to depend on not losing two diamond tricks, plus the extra chance of establishing dummy's fourth spade for a diamond pitch. But careful handling was needed to make the most of these chances and on the lead of the club king, declarer had to time the play precisely.

Declarer ducked the opening lead—a key play—and won the trump shift in his hand. He led the club jack and ducked again when West covered with the queen. When West again exited with a trump declarer won in dummy, pitched a spade on dummy's club ace and played three rounds of spades, ruffing the third. On the 3-3 spade break, declarer had no more problems, for dummy still had a trump entry and South easily got rid of a diamond loser.

Note that unless declarer ducks the first two rounds of clubs, he cannot establish dummy's fourth spade without letting East on lead. And if East gets the lead, his diamond return will sink the contract.

Surplus Apples Dumped

HAMILTON (CP)—Thirty per cent of the Canadian apple crop was deliberately destroyed as surplus in 1965 although $3,121,000 worth of fresh apples were imported from the United States, a convention was told Tuesday.

Douglas Williams, chairman of the Ontario Food Council, told the convention of the Ontario Institute of Professional Agrologists 98,000 pounds of dried apples were also imported in the first six months of the year alone.

Mr. Williams, speaking in a panel discussion, said that between Jan. 1 and July 31 last year Canada imported $84,000,000 worth of fresh and processed fruits and vegetables "which can be produced right here in this country."

Hunt for Rattlers Highlights U.S. Snakefest

OKEENE, Okla. (UPI) — Deadly, cold-eyed rattlesnakes and stout-hearted hunters with forked sticks and gunny sacks meet head on this weekend at Okeene's 27th annual rattlesnake hunt.

The three-day hunt through the Gypsum Hills starts with a dance Friday night and ends Sunday with an auction of prize snakes valued for their venom and "delicious" meat.

Warm weather is a key to the hunt's success. It brings out both snakes and hunters.

10,000 POUNDS

"If we have good weather we will probably see about 20,000 people," said Mrs. J. E. Gernert, editor of the Okeene Record.

Mrs. Gernert said she did not know the record for people, but the apparent snake record was set in 1962 with the collection of 10,000 pounds of rattlers.

A truck will bring in the snakes alive and a few of the high-booted hunters are expected to receive membership in the White Fang Society—an honor reserved for those who can prove a snake got in the first lick. Four hunters joined the select group last year in a tribute to Okeene doctors who are specialists in the treatment of snake bites.

The hunt is sponsored by the Okeene Jaycees and features, in addition to the actual poking under rocks, selection of Miss Snake Charmer, a liars award, a midway for fun and games, and "tasty deep-fat fried rattlesnake steak."

Trophies and prizes will be awarded for the longest and second longest snakes. A special $100 award will be given the hunter who brings in a special branded snake released just before the hunt.

Mrs. Gernert said the ABC television network would send crews to Okeene Friday to begin filming the hunt to be broadcast later in the year.

Hearing Soon On Liner Fire

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A hearing will open here Monday in an attempt to determine the cause of the fire that swept the Norwegian cruise ship Viking Princess in the Caribbean last Friday.

"The hearing is expected to last several days and several persons capable of contributing information to determine the cause of the fire will be called upon to testify," said Erik B. Botolfsen a director of Berge Sigvald Bergensen, owner of the vessel.

Chamber Week

Special Events Squeezed Out

Because of their involvement in organization of the Spring Flower Festival, Victoria Chamber of Commerce will not be making any special arrangements to mark national Chamber of Commerce Week next week.

Prelude to the week, however, will be a visit today by R. H. Keefler, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce who will address a joint meeting of the chamber and the Rotary Club at noon in the Empress.

"For the past two or three years, the national chamber week has come at about the same time as the festival, and all our work has been concentrated on the city celebrations," said chamber manager Earl Dicknoether.

CHANGE DATE

"We hope this will change next year if plans to alter the date of festival are carried through," he added.

Tuesday, Mr. Keefler released the text of a message from Prime Minister Pearson, in which Mr. Pearson said governments at all levels valued the effective work being done by boards of trade and chambers of commerce in helping to strengthen their local communities, their provinces and their nation.

Fresh Turkeys to Vanish

Sometime this year, federal legislation will be brought in that will make it virtually impossible to buy an unfrozen turkey.

So says one of Victoria's leading meat market managers, Jack Stuart.

NEW REGULATIONS

"Under the new regulations, all turkeys bought in meat markets will be eviscerated and frozen," he said.

Mr. Sturart said he believed the legislation would be put into action sometime this year.

'GREATEST SHAME'

"And it'll be the greatest shame in the world."

Mr. Stuart said that with the New York style of preparing turkeys — selling them uncleaned — the birds were sure to be fresh-killed and hung properly.

"The muscles and tendons settle properly, and the bird is properly tenderized," said Mr. Stuart.

NO IMPROVEMENT

"To my mind, freezing has never improved anything yet, as far as I know."

The move will be made in the interests of sanitation, Mr. Stuart said, but he said that in his opinion the old method is "just as sanitary, probably more so."

STAND TO SUFFER

"They'll have to sell out to processing plants where government inspectors will be installed to see to everything.

"This means that if I, as a buyer, obtain my poultry from a certain farm, I'll no longer be able to be sure that I'm actually getting that certain farmer's birds," he said.

New York turkeys, he said, are fresh, and allow for the individual meat market to process according to the wish of the customer.

ALL WILL BE GONE

All this will be gone with the frozen, cleaned birds.

"And the system of packaging them won't necessarily be as sanitary as the way we're doing things now."

Ice-Age Bones Or Whale?

The Provincial Museum will get a collection of huge bones, one of them 12 feet long, that were unearthed in a gravel pit near Queen Charlotte City.

The bones could be the remains of an ice-age mastodon or mammoth, or possibly a whale, museum curator Dr. Clifford Carl said Wednesday.

"Until we see the bones and identify them, we won't know what they are," said Dr. Carl.

Medicare Pledge Asked

VANCOUVER (UPI) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said Wednesday one of the first things he'll do when parliament reconvenes next week, will be to press Prime Minister Pearson for a "promised" statement on the government's plans for medicare.

"Before the Easter recess, I asked Mr. Pearson to outline two things. Firstly, if the government planned to abide by the four principles of medicare as outlined in the Hall Royal Commission on medicare. And secondly, if it would go ahead regardless of the number of provinces that indicated participation," Mr. Douglas said.

Mr. Douglas said Mr. Pearson would not make a statement on the matter before the recess, but he promised to make one shortly after it.

Six provinces already have indicated participation in the proposed "universal" program (Quebec, B.C., Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.) But Mr. Douglas fears the government might hedge when it comes time for formal declarations.

Lettuce Loves Lime

By M. V. CHESNUT

In yesterday's column I told you something about the free seeds I have for you — seeds of Buttercrunch lettuce, a new and particularly tasty variety developed at Cornell University. I offered to send a packet containing approximately 200 of these precious seeds to any of my gardening friends who would like to try them out, and for your convenience, you'll find an order coupon at the foot of this column.

* * *

Before we get started on how to grow this exciting new lettuce, I would like to clear up one point in connection with this coupon business. Judging by my mail, a lot of folks seem to think these free seeds are for regular Colonist subscribers only, and if you don't have a coupon to prove you take the paper, you can't have any seeds.

This isn't the idea at all. We'd like to make friends with non-subscribers too, and we'll send our free seeds to anyone who loves gardening, whether or not you take the Colonist. You don't need a coupon — a letter or note asking for the seeds will serve just as well. The coupon is inserted purely for the convenience of folks who don't want to be bothered writing a letter.

Now that you get the picture, I'd like to ask you to do me a favor and spread the word among your friends and neighbors who may not be subscribers and therefore wouldn't know about these free seed offers. Tell them they too can have a free packet of this gourmet lettuce, with or without a Colonist coupon.

* * *

In return, all I ask is that you supply the stamp and envelope to carry your free seeds back to you; in other words, be sure to enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope in your letter. When it arrives, our Colonist girls will open your letter, take out your self-addressed envelope, slip in a packet of seeds, lick it shut, and mail it right back to you.

There are two ways of growing lettuce. You can sow your seeds indoors or under glass in early March, transplanting the young plants to the open garden in April, or you can sow your seeds directly into the open garden rows starting in April and making small successive sowings every few weeks throughout the summer to maintain a continuous supply.

Personally, I always sow my lettuce seeds directly in the rows, thinning the seedlings as they come up to allow each plant plenty of elbow room for proper development.

Like nearly all the leafy vegetables, lettuce is a lime lover. In preparing the soil for a row of lettuce, therefore, it is a good practice to put down a fairly heavy dressing of garden lime, about one cupful per running yard of row. Apply it in a strip about eight inches wide, and do not dig the lime in deeply, for lettuce is a shallow-rooted plant; just scratch it in lightly with the rake.

Because lettuce should never be allowed to go short of moisture, it is a good idea to dig in bulky organic material of some kind to act as a sponge, retaining moisture within range of the shallow roots. Old rotted manure is ideal for this purpose, or you can substitute peat moss plus a scattering of chemical fertilizer.

* * *

I don't think many Victorians realize the extent to which alpine and rock gardening is practiced here. Certainly the annual exhibition staged by the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society is the biggest and most extensive flower show of its kind on the whole North American continent. This exhibition, which is open tomorrow and Saturday, will display more than 500 living plants, some of them so rare as to be collector's items:

This rock garden show is staged in the gymnasium of Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall on Vancouver Street. It will be open to the public from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Admission is 50 cents and children accompanied by their parents are admitted free.

ART BUCHWALD Strikes Out Johnson

Why Hubert Played Ball

WASHINGTON — Vice-President Hubert Humphrey threw out the first ball of the baseball season at D.C. Stadium Monday. How and why the vice-president was chosen for this important task can now be revealed.

The vice-president was home when he received a call from the president.

"Hubert, I'm sorry to bother you."

"Oh, that's all right, Mr. President. Muriel and I were just going over the plans for our new $750,000 house."

"Fine. Hubert, I have a job that I can only entrust to you."

"You want me to go back to Viet Nam and talk to the Buddhists?"

"No, Hubert. It's trickier than that. I want you to go out to D.C. Stadium and throw out the first ball of the baseball season. Are you up to it?"

* * *

"Yes, sir, Mr. President. Does that mean you're not going?"

"That's right. If I go out there and throw out the first ball, that means I'll commit myself to the Washington Senators team, and after Hawaii I'm not about to commit myself to anybody."

"I think you're wise, sir. If Washington loses, you can always blame it on me."

"There's a couple of things, Hubert. Where were you going to throw the ball?"

"Where do you want me to throw it, sir?"

"Throw it towards first base."

"That's exactly where I thought I'd throw it."

"And don't put a curve on it. If I threw it they'd expect a curve, but I think you'd look better if you threw it straight."

* * *

"I've got you, sir. What's the White House policy as far as the Washington Senators are concerned?"

"You can say we support them, that we of course would like them to win, but it isn't enough just to win. There must also be social and economic reforms for the players. We want nothing for ourselves. We just want them to be happy and to decide their own destiny without outside interference."

"That makes sense, Mr. President. I'll draft a speech to that effect."

"You'd better not make it a speech, Hubert. They're supposed to play in the afternoon and if you spoke they might be forced to play a night game."

"I guess you're right, sir."

"One more thing, Hubert. Don't offer the Washington team any financial aid. I know how you get carried away."

"I won't, sir. I learned my lesson in India."

* * *

"You can take my helicopter, Hubert, and I'll send Jack Valenti along with you. He can help you throw out the ball."

"Well, that's about it, Hubert. I'll be watching you on TV and I know you're going to make a throw that will long be remembered."

"I'll put everything I've got behind it, Mr. President."

"I'm sure you will, Hubert. I put you on the Johnson team because I knew you would always be ready to go out there and pitch."

Says DR. STUART ROSENBERG

After almost half a century of psychological emphasis upon the motivations of the unconscious it is once again becoming respectable in professional circles to talk about the need for conscious, goal-directed human choices in order to develop more significant lives.

Goal-direction functions in a man's life when he has taken the time and the trouble to sharpen his awareness of his conscious motivations.

* * *

It results in a sensitive self-awareness of conscience as a valuable and indispensable agent of moral human activity. And the possession of conscience is man's way of affirming that he is a human being, rather than serving as the chief primate in a jungle-like zoological empire.

* * *

It was conscience, of course, which annoyed Freud, no end; it came too close to being a spiritual quality. In his terminology, the super-ego acts as a psychological censor which represses our real desires by leading our ego into channels of socially-acceptable activities.

If man does have a "conscience" then it is the super-ego and nothing more—and his super-ego is buried deep down within him, far out of his reach.

He may act conscionable, but if he does, it is not because he has clearly and reasonable followed a self-determined course; it is a repressed, involuntary act governed by a "conscience" (super-ego) which acts out of fear of doing the wrong — and getting caught!

There is no doubt that many people do behave this way; what "conscience" they do have is linked to their worry about "getting the devil" — or worse, the "devil getting them."

And there is little doubt, too, that religious people are often religious, in the first instance, because it serves as a legitimate means of rejecting their own will, in the name of a higher authority.

Often such religion reduces man to abject slavery; in refusing to affirm his own powers for self-development and refinement, he barters his own conscience. And if he has "got religion" instead, he often is happy over his loss. But this kind of religion is a salve, not a prod, to conscience.

* * *

But man does possess conscience and the more he is aware of its power, the more he will emphasize and regard affirmatively the importance of his own life.

Those who deny themselves proper regard as persons may sound like saints — but they are victims of self-negation, which is a form of defeated manhood, not spiritual strength.

In fact, some even regard self-denial professed in the name of altruism, to be nothing less than selfishness dressed up in glowing subterfuges.

But this kind of self-indulgence, which is really selfishness, cannot cultivate conscience; it is too busy feeding vanity or lust to make us reach out to persons beyond.

* * *

Conscience, be it remembered, cannot grow in the soil of selfishness. It must be linked to love, if it is to make us, not angels, or animals, but men.

Paradoxically, however, selfishness is the product of too little self-regard or love, not of too much. What else could the Bible have meant when it commanded man "to love thy neighbor as thyself?"

The conscious assessment we make of ourselves, the regard we have for our moral potential, express themselves in the way our conscience would have us behave toward our neighbors. No man who hates and rejects himself as a person can love and accept his neighbor as a person.

* * *

If we do love our neighbor it is because we regard ourselves as capable of loving him. And when we recognize this capability as the product of a sharpened conscience, we demonstrate that we are not enslaved by fear of ourselves, but propelled by our love—of ourselves, and therefore of our neighbors.

Second Man Facing Habitual Tag

John Norman Lawrence Smith was sentenced Wednesday to preventive detention after he had been declared a habitual criminal, and city police announced that habitual proceedings would be instigated against another man.

Magistrate J. A. Byers signed the detention form in central magistrate's court Wednesday after he had declared Smith a habitual criminal Tuesday.

City police said proceedings would also be taken against Steven Remington, who is serving three years in Oakalla Prison for a break-in at Clark and Cordick, 2503 Douglas, Sept. 8 or 9.

Smith is the first man in Victoria to be declared a habitual criminal since 1954. That man has since been released from prison.

For a person to be declared a habitual criminal, the Crown has to prove that he has been convicted of three indictable offences for which he was liable to five years' imprisonment.

Mr. Stewart argued that after a finding of habitual criminal had been entered, the magistrate should consider whether to order preventive detention.

He said he would like to make a submission on this point.

Magistrate Byers said that the matter had been canvassed during the hearing and ruled that Mr. Stewart was not entitled to reargue the matter.

Shoplifter Remanded

Lena Kolisnyk, 647 Dupplin, pleaded guilty to theft under $50 and was remanded in custody until April 21 for a pre-sentence report.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell, store detective at Woodward's, said she saw Mrs. Kolisnyk take two pairs of slacks, six pairs of socks, four pairs of pillowcases, one transistor radio battery and a hose nozzle.

Duff said he had intended to get a cash refund, court was told.

He had been convicted on nine charges of theft over $50 in 1963, prosecutor Peter Birkett said.

Magistrate Ostler sentenced Duff to two months in jail.

Car Rental Charge

Monty Smith and Gary Warrington rented a car in Whitehorse March 11, and tried to sell it or trade it in Victoria Tuesday.

They pleaded guilty to depriving Yukon Motors of Whitehorse of the use of the car and were remanded to April 21 for a pre-sentence report.

Det. Walter Calwell said the two men rented the car March 11 for two days, and after five days panicked.

They then drove to Vancouver and Victoria and tried to sell or trade it at David Motors, 1101 Yates, Tuesday.

They later gave themselves up, Det. Calwell said. They owed $900 in rental fees.

* * *

Three windows in a parked car at Colwood were smashed by rocks March 13 and the culprits pleaded guilty to causing mischief.

They had made full restitution, Constable Peter Church said.

They told Magistrate Ostler they had been drinking and had no reason to smash the windows.

Wider Appeal

Moliere Classic Given Updating

A musical adaptation of Moliere's School for Wives which will appeal not only to adult audiences but also to children, is the hope of Vancouver composer and lyricist Marge Adelberg.

Miss Adelberg is in Victoria to see her adaptation of Hansel and Gretel at the McPherson Playhouse, and to assist in the preliminary casting of School for Wives, which will be performed by the Bastion Theatre in mid-September.

"I have updated the Moliere play by about 200 years to give it a setting in the 1890s," she said Wednesday.

"This is really my first adaptation for adult theatre, although it will most certainly be enjoyed by children. The adult rapport will be given a different meaning by the children."

"Although my work has been mainly associated with children's production, I have always tried to appeal to adults as well," she said.

"I didn't want to see adults bringing their children into the theatre and then leaving them while they went outside."

St. Matthias Production

Playboy Given Good Sendoff

By BERT BINNY

A peculiar myth that has haunted Victoria theatres for a long time was exploded last night.

With the first performance of The Playboy of the Western World, St. Matthias Little Theatre proved that opening night need not be a sort of extra dress rehearsal.

DIRECTION GOOD

It was all most entertaining; it evoked spontaneous applause and laugh after laugh. Ted Gaskell's direction, notably in the matter of positions, was consistently good. The handling of the more boisterous interludes on a small stage was masterly.

Naturally, some players were more successful than others, but there were none who could be labelled as weak or detrimental to the proceedings.

FINE PERFORMANCE

Hats are off in particular to Pam O'Neill for a fine performance as Pegeen Mike; to Bob Kimber for an outstanding Shawn Keogh and to Pat O'Neill as Old Mahon. Gladys Higgins invested the part of Widow Quinn with increased strength in the second act.

The lilt of Irish speech was maintained in good style, but there was a certain evenness in tempo which tended to decrease audience interest.

CONTROL REACTION

However, a notable feature of the whole production was the ability of the cast, especially Pam O'Neill, to control audience reaction. As Christy, Dan Christian could have been somewhat more flamboyant, but he had a long, demanding part to play.

Costuming and setting were always satisfactory.

Playboy of the Western World run every night through Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in St. Matthias' Church Hall. It's well worthwhile.

HOW TO ENJOY AN ENGLISH BEER

Many contend that English beer should be served at room temperature in a "Toby" jug. What rot! Charrington Toby beer is just as superb in a Canadian rec room as it is in an English pub: just as enjoyable in a glass or bottle as in a "Toby" jug! Serve Toby at room temperature? If you like: but don't become a secret drinker just because you like your Toby chilled. Defy the purists: enjoy Toby any way you like!

Studied Nonchalance

Not a New Tactic

Johnson Is 'Keeping His Cool'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — There are elements of studied nonchalance in President Johnson's prolonged stay at his Texas ranch and his brief informal visit today to Mexico.

In the lingo of the hipster, the president is "keeping his cool" amid a sea of troubles. He has been doing so all spring, exuding bland amiability despite threatened political disaster in South Viet Nam, France quitting NATO and domestic prices soaring.

The tactic is not a new one for the big Texan who likes to keep his options secret and who in his third year as president remains head and shoulders the dominant figure here or in the political hinterlands.

He may yet stub his toe disastrously as the late president Kennedy did in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. Opportunities certainly abound.

But President Johnson remains, by all the usual political omens, a man with a hefty edge in public support even if the initial gloss and fervor are worn. Widely loved he is not, but his political sagacity is respected.

On Viet Nam, that probably means staying on even if the regime in the south—due to current trouble or later—asks the United States to decamp.

But the president has got

Iraq's Arif Killed In Crash

LONDON (AP)—Cairo Radio, monitored here, reported today that Iraq's President Abdul Salam Mohammed Arif has been killed in an air crash.

Cairo said the source of its report was Baghdad radio.

LEFT FOR BASRA

It said the crash came as the president was leaving Al Qurnah for Basra, Iraq.

Al Qurnah is a southeastern town near Iraq's border with Iran.

OIL PORT

Basra, further to the south, is an oil port on the Shatt el Arab River and once was the centre for a big British base.

Arif assumed power in 1963. An unsuccessful attempt to overthrow him came in September, 1965, and his then prime minister, Abdul Arif Razzak was expelled from the country.

Yemeni Minister Bullet-Ridden, Assassin Dies

SAN'A, Yemen A(P) — An assassin killed Abdullah el Airiny, minister of local administration, with five shots in the head and chest Wednesday. The gunman then jumped from a third - floor window, breaking his leg, and killed himself with his last bullet as ministry guards closed in.

El Airiny, 47, died in an ambulance on his way to the Egyptian military hospital. He was acting president of the republic last month.

Police identified the assassin as Abdul Wahab el Washaly, a former employee of the information ministry. A ministry spokesman said the gunman had called on El Airiny and asked whether he could return to his job.

El Airiny had ordered El Swashaly jailed after he wrote an anti - Soviet article in a weekly newspaper three weeks ago. He was released three days ago.

Attacks Step Up In Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists, stepping up their attacks in Saigon, Thursday hurled hand grenades at military and police stations, staged gun battles in the streets and stabbed an American.

The U.S. Air Force said the first B52 attack on North Viet Nam set off a massive mountain landslide that sealed off the strategic Mu Gia Pass on the Ho Chi Minh infiltration supply line.

Saigon Pledges Election

SAIGON (UPI) — Chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday dramatically closed a Vietnamese political congress by signing an official decree proclaiming that an elected civilian form of government would be set up in three to five months.

Van Thieu acted after the government's hand-picked political convention upheld Buddhist demands for an elected national assembly but called for an immediate end to agitation and demonstrations.

As the congress wound up its sessions, shouting and jeering Buddhist students barricaded themselves in their high school and urged other students to join them in a nationwide boycott of

Court Orders Braves Back to Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Atlanta Braves must return to Milwaukee unless the National League agrees by May 16 to give the Wisconsin city a 1967 expansion franchise, a Wisconsin circuit judge ruled Wednesday night.

Judge Elmer W. Roller's order came in a decision in which he held the Braves and the National League violated Wisconsin's anti-trust laws by stripping Milwaukee of its major league team.

Roller said, "The refusal of the National League and the failure of the American League to issue a franchise to Milwaukee County . . . was a concerted refusal to deal in restraint of trade and commerce within the State of Wisconsin."

The ruling, which is virtually certain to be appealed, comes a day after the Braves opened their 1966 National League season in Atlanta before 50,000 fans Tuesday night.

In New York, a statement of comment issued on behalf of baseball commissioner William D. Eckert by a spokesman was withdrawn, and the commissioner said, "I have no comment now. I will take it under advisement and make a comment tomorrow."

Move Gains Momentum

City May Quit Health Board

By A. H. MURPHY

A strong movement to have Victoria pull out of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health has been gathering momentum at City Hall in the past two days.

Senior officials and city aldermen say they are "fed up" with some of the tactics of the board and its officials, and ready to break up an agreement of five years' standing.

MAIN CONTRIBUTOR

Qualified observers say that if the city withdraws from participation in metro health services the board will almost surely founder, as the city is the principal contributor to its costs.

Ald. Lily Wilson, city council's representative on the board of health, said Wednesday she was "angry and very disturbed" over an exchange of letters between the board chairman, Central Saanich Reeve R. Gordon Lee, and provincial Health Minister Martin.

SALARY HIKE

The letters referred to a request for a $2,300 increase in salary for senior medical officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, made early in 1965 and never acted upon by the city.

In his letter, Reeve Lee said that the bid for the increase was predicated on the fact that when the metro board was formed in 1961, the salary of the senior medical officer was to be the same as that of a divisional director in the provincial health service.

LOST MONEY

And so, because no action was taken by the city in 1965, the letter added, Dr. Whitbread received $1,220 a month instead of $1,415—the salary of a divisional director.

"The senior medical health officer has lost $195 per month over the past year and in spite of discussions and efforts with the Victoria city council, no ac-

Inquiry In Camera

OTTAWA (CP) — The judicial inquiry by Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells into the George Victor Spence security case got under way at a closed hearing here Wednesday night.

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative leader John Diefenbaker Wednesday night accused the government of thirsting for "political vengeance" at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry.

A few days before the inquiry resumes here, Mr. Diefenbaker uncorked his anger over the inquiry, which has been established by order-in-council, without the approval of parliament.

'PUNISHMENT'

The inquiry, to be conducted by Mr Justice Wishart Spence, had seen set up to reveal what took place more than five years ago.

"The purpose is one of political vengeance, to punish me or anyone associated with me for daring to take a stand against the government on the Spencer case," he charged.

RESUMES

Two members of the government had stated this, he said, "and the course being followed is one by way of getting even."

COUNSEL

Both have criticized the first sitting. They will be represented by counsel at next Monday's sitting.

The inquiry will examine the charges of Justice Minister Lucien Cardin that Mr. Diefenbaker mishandled the case of Gerda Munsinger.

MINISTERS

Mrs. Munsinger, according to Mr. Cardin, was a beautiful security risk involved with two or more Conservative cabinet ministers.

Mr. Cardin reported that she was dead but recently she has been traced, much alive, to Munich, Germany.

On nationwide television Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday night labeled the inquiry a vehicle for "star chamber" justice.

"What about this commission?" he asked.

Truscott Decision Today?

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal cabinet may decide the fate of Steven Truscott today.

Solicitor General Larry Pennell is expected to submit his report on the Truscott case, with his recommendations, to Prime Minister Pearson and cabinet this morning.

In 1956, Steven Truscott, then 14, was sentenced to hang for the murder of 12-year-old Lynn Harper near Clinton, Ont. His sentence was commuted and he spent the past seven years in prison.

REVIEW

Freelance writer Isabel Lebourdais recently published a book maintaining the boys innocence and demanding a royal commission into the case. Several MPs and thousands of citizens have joined the chorus for a new look at the case.

Wednesday night, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker told a national television audience that Truscott must have the opportunity of having his case reviewed.

Famed Sea Devil Von Luckner Dies

MALMOE, Sweden (AP)—Count Felix von Luckner, famous German Sea Devil of the First World War, died here Wednesday. He was 84.

Von Luckner commanded a speedy German commerce raider which, disguised as an old sailing vessel, took a heavy toll of Allied shipping but not a single life. The Sea Devil always made sure the crews—and even their pets—were safe before he scuttled their ships.

NOBILITY

The German naval hero had lived in Sweden since he married Ingeborg Vonengstroem, a wealthy owner of woolen mills, in 1924 except for a period during the second World War when he was in Germany.

Von Luckner, descendant of a noble German family, ran away to sea when he was 13.

He combined both gallantry and daring in sending 14 Allied ships worth $25,000,000 to the bottom.

But his exploits, as commander of the German Imperial Navy's raider, the Seeadler, won him more admiration than enmity. At one time he carried enough captive skippers to form a "captain's club." Another time the Seeadler had as many as 144 cats.

"I broke the British blockade with a clear conscience," he said after the First World War. "No mother, wife, child or father lost a tear."

ROAMED SEAS

In his British-built and specially - equipped sailing vessel-auxiliary cruiser, von Luckner roamed the Atlantic and Pacific masquerading as captain of a Norwegian freighter. A 64-man, 27 of whom spoke American, helped to deceive the British before the Seeadler was wrecked by a tidal wave on a south sea coral reef in 1917.

Von Luckner was captured by the British after he and several crew members sailed a lifeboat for 48 days to the Fiji Islands where they had hoped to seize another ship.

Between the world wars, he conducted cruises and made lecture tours in several coun-

Doc Forbes' Latest Job

Tattoo Artist Needles B.C. Lobster Industry

By JACK MOORE

It's part of an attempt by the federal fisheries department to nurture the tasty crustaceans in Pacific waters—the fifth attempt since 1896.

* * *

Fisheries Scientists Wednesday brought two lady lobsters, imported from New Brunswick, to the Vancouver studio of Doc Forbes, British Columbia's leading tattoo artist, who for many years had a shop in Victoria.

They were brought to Vancouver from Barkley Sound, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where the latest lobster-raising attempt is taking place.

All the other attempts failed, and nobody seems to know why. The lobsters, instead of taking up housekeeping and producing more lobsters, just disappeared.

One of the difficulties in keeping the latest little group of lobsters in order, however, is lack of identification. One lobster looks pretty much like another, so the marine biologists decided to mark them.

* * *

So they're trying Doc Forbes' needle.

Fisheries officials hope the lobsters will multiply, because epicurean tastes have made the lobster the most valuable single marine species in Canada.

Last year, the lobster industry was worth more than the landed value of all Pacific salmon combined.

Post Office Yields Haul

ST. FELICIEN, Que. (CP)—Post office officials discovered Wednesday thieves broke into the post office in this community 160 miles north of Quebec City overnight, getting away with between $60,000 and $75,000.

A spokesman for the Quebec Provincial Police, which is investigating the theft, said the money was taken from two of five postal sacks.

Leafs Fly Past Seals For Playoff Opener

By JIM TANG

Victoria Maple Leafs are probably the best club in the Western Hockey League when they are right, and that's the way they were at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as they cooled off San Francisco Seals, 6-3, in the first game of their best-of-seven semi-final.

Seals came into the series opener riding a streak which had produced 22 points in their last 13 scheduled games and put them in the playoffs by one point. They were well beaten last night but they still left the impression that they can cope with anything but the best from the Victoria club.

But they didn't handle what the Leafs produced last night after a sharp-looking start which had most of the 3,412 fans a bit worried.

SMART PASSING

Passing smartly, the Seals had the edge in the early going with the Leafs appearing a bit on the tight side and getting into early difficulties when Sandy Hucul was whistled down for holding Ron Schock before the game was a minute old.

TOOK CONTROL

Gradually settling down after the clubs had returned to six-a-side, the Leafs steadily assumed control after Lou Jankowski's alertness produced the tying goal in the eighth minute of play.

Jankowski had taken a sharply-angled backhander and goalkeeper Bob Gray, on his knees, was trying to smother the puck when Jankowski wheeled back and slammed it into the netting.

REF SAW IT

Seals protested that the whistle should have gone but referee Lloyd Gilmour had the puck in sight and ruled the goal stood.

And that was it for the Seals last night. Led by the Milan Marcettta - Bob Barlow - Andy Hebenton line, which played standout hockey both ways, the Leafs took charge with two quick scoring bursts.

Only 25 seconds after Jankowski had rapped in the tying goal, Marcetta won the draw from a faceoff to the right of Gray, got the puck back to Barlow and moved to the front edge of the crease to slide in the return pass.

ROLLING PUCK

Quick passes from Fred Hucul and Barlow gave Marcetta a break on the left side. He cut in smartly just in front of the crease and backhanded as Gray went down. On the first play from the face-off, Hebenton swept up to grab a rolling puck after Gray had stopped Marcetta's shot and promptly fired it home on the short side.

Getting the puck near the left point on a power play, he moved in and faked a slap shot. When the defence cleared the view for Gray, Hucul moved in closer, faked again and then flipped the puck into the far side as Gray went down.

FROM CORNER

From there, the Leafs played it cozy. They continued the forechecking which effectively stopped the Seal passing game after the opening exchanges and there was always at least one forward back to help out the defence when the Seals did manage to break out over the red line.

LAST GESTURE

Connelly managed to get a third puck past ex-teammate John Henderson on a fine play with coach Charlie Burns but it was no more than a last defiant gesture.

When the votes were in at the end of the 60 minutes, the game award went to Marcetta. But it could have gone to Barlow, who set up three goals and did some exceptional back-checking; to the hard-working Hebenton or to practically any Leaf who saw action. When they are a team the Leafs are tough, and a team they were last night as they made it 10 in a row on home ice.

AGAIN SATURDAY

Second game of the series is billed here Saturday night. Then the action shifts to San Francisco for games Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

That last one is 'if necessary,' and it's quite liable to be.

Seals Protest Loss Over Goalie Ruling

Manager Bud Poile of the San Francisco Seals said during last night's Western Hockey League semi-final at Memorial Arena that he had sent a telegram to league-president Al Leader protesting the game, lost to Victoria Maple Leafs.

Poile's protest was based on the fact that his club was forced to use rookie-goalkeeper Bob Gray as a replacement for the injured Jack McCartan.

"All the other playoff clubs are allowed to use professionals but we have to use an amateur," he said.

Poile claimed that in case of injury to Jack Henderson of Victoria or Dave Kelly of Portland that the affected club would be permitted to use standby-goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier.

"Victoria has amateur Gary Holland, Vancouver has amateur Ken Broderick and Portland has amateur Rick Charron as their second goalkeepers but if they lost their pro they'd be able to use Pelletier," Poile claimed. "I don't see why we can't when we lost McCartan."

McCartan was injured before the season ended and the league ruling was that the Seals would have to play the other goalkeeper on their list of playoff eligibles. That was Gray.

Canucks Blast Buckaroos, 8-4

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks slammed in four unanswered goals in the second period to whip Portland Buckaroos 8-4 and jump to a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Hockey League semi-final series Wednesday night.

Gilles Villemure in the Vancouver nets was called on to make 31 saves, many of them from point-blank range.

Blades Rookie Best

SEATTLE (UPI)—Leftwinger Bill Orban of the Los Angeles Blades Wednesday was named the top rookie in the Western Hockey League.

Of a possible 918 votes cast by the six teams in the league, Orban received 258 to edge Earl Heiskala of the Seattle Totems by only nine votes. Votes are awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices. Teammate Bob Schmautz finished in third place with 229 votes.

Orban is the son of a former hockey player who gained prominence by helping to write the now famous Royal Canadian Air Force physical fitness Four B-X manual.

The complete voting for the league rookie award was as follows: Orban, Los Angeles, 258; Heiskala, Seattle, 249; Bobby Schmautz, Los Angeles, 229; Dave Parenteau, Victoria, 102; Stan Gilbertson, San Francisco, 44; Doug Favell, San Francisco, 29. This totals 911 votes.

A second and a third place vote from Victoria and three third place votes from San Francisco were left blank for a total of seven unrecorded voting points, bringing the over-all total to 918 votes. Orban will receive a cheque for $300 and an attractive trophy from the league.

Sandy Looks Rusty

Koufax Gone by Fifth Inning

Sandy Koufax has got the money, but the question now is how will he buy back the 32 days of spring training he lost due to salary negotiations.

Making his National League debut against Houston Astros in Los Angeles Wednesday, last year's 26-game winner lasted only three innings as the Astros edged the world champions, 7-6.

Koufax, a holdout for 32 days during spring training, was rocked for five runs and five hits in the first three innings. He departed after John Bateman led off the fourth with a triple.

ERROR TOO

Sandy, who finally settled with the Dodgers for a reported $115,000, contributed to his own downfall when he fumbled Jim Wynn's grounder in the third inning. Shortly afterward Joe Morgan hit a three-run homer.

In other NL games, Bob Bolin pitched San Francisco Giants to a 4-0 shutout over Chicago Cubs; Willie Stargell ruined Atlanta for the second consecutive time, smashing a home run and a single as Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Braves 6-0; and pinch hitter John Herrnstein batted in he winner in the 12th inning to lead Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-2 squeaker over St. Louis Cardinals.

KEY HIT

Dodgers and Astros were tied 6-6 after eight innings, Houston winning it on Rusty Staub's run-scoring single in the ninth.

The Giants got a four-hitter from Bob Bolin, who struck out nine and walked none against the Cubs. San Francisco spoiled the debut of Ernie Broglio with a single run in the opening inning and three more in the third. Once a 21-game winner, Broglio was only 1-6 last year following arm surgery. He allowed six hits.

HERO AGAIN

Stargell, who was Pirates' star in Tuesday's extra-inning victory over the Braves, drove in Gene Alley with a single in the first inning and hit a homer with Alley on base in the third. That was more than enough for Pirates' star hurler Vernon Law, who four-hit the Braves.

The Atlanta attendance suddenly shrank, wih 50,671 attending Tuesday's opener, but only 12,721 coming out Wednesday.

COMES HOME

In St. Louis, Rich Allen singled with two out, stole second and came home with the winner as Herrnstein singled, pinch hitting for Roger Craig.

The Twins, who finished in the second division in major league baseball's warm-up session, won their second game in as many American League starts here Wednesday by thumping Kansas City 5-3.

In Boston, Baltimore's Brooks and Frank Robinson hit back-to-back first-inning home runs, and young Jim Palmer cracked a two-run blast in support of his five-hitter.

Braves Returning Home?

had been closeted in his chambers since 9 a.m. EST, Tuesday completing the decision, declared that the National League and the Braves "shall be, and they are hereby restrained and enjoined from playing the home championship schedule of the . . . Braves in any city or place other than in the County of Milwaukee."

The order shall be stayed if the defendants submit a written plan for expansion by noon May 16 that would give Milwaukee major league baseball in 1967.

Roller's decision was a complete victory for Wisconsin, which had sought the Braves' return in the absence of any agreement to expand in time to give Milwaukee a franchise in 1967.

"I'd have to read the whole decision and talk to the attorneys before making any statement," Warren C. Giles, president of the National League said in Cincinnati.

Giles denied that baseball had made any last moment offers to avert the ruling in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit.

Judge Roller levied a $55,000 fine against the defendants—$5,000 each on the league and the 10 members' clubs—and ordered them to pay costs. The latter item may run into hundreds of thousands of dollars for the trial and months of preliminary manoeuvres, including taking scores of depositions.

Before the disclosure of the decision, Judge Roller came from his chambers and told reporters baseball had offered to settle the suit "before and during" the trial.

Burnaby Second

VANCOUVER (CP)—Burnaby Villa moved into sole possession of second place in Pacific Coast Soccer League Wednesday night by defeating last-place St. Andrews 4-1.

The victory gave the Burnaby squad 26 points for the season. Victoria United has 24 points with one game left while Columbus has 23 points with three games remaining. Firefighters clinched the league title two weeks ago.

Russia's Olympic Vote Won't Go to Munich

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Konstantin Andrianov, Soviet Olympic committee chairman, indicated Wednesday the Soviet Union would refuse to accept Munich, West Germany, as a site for the 1972 Olympic Games.

Writing in the newspaper Soviet Sport, Andrianov said that in West Germany "There are no conditions for the normal course of the games."

"It is difficult to believe that all will be well in Munich when even now the West German police are tearing emblems from the tracksuits of East German sportsmen, forbidding them to fly their flag or play their national anthem," he said.

Andrianov hinted that the Soviet Union would support the candidacy of Madrid, Spain, as the two other candidates, Montreal and Detroit, are outside Europe and if they were chosen it would be likely that Europe would have no Olympics until 1976 or 1980.

B.C. Airlines Amphibian

Weather Blamed In Fatal Crash

Heavy weather is the new theory on the cause of a four-death crash Monday of a B.C. Airlines plane.

Loggers at camps near Creasy Bay, scene of the accident, reported to RCMP the day had been marked by heavy snow and hailstorms.

ICE PELLETS

Dead are Victoria pilot Jim McLellan, 25, based at Port Hardy; Joseph O. Haas, 35; George McBryer, 50; and Garry Bell, 35, all of the Vancouver area.

The pilot's body was flown to Victoria, Wednesday, where funeral arrangements will be made by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan H. McLellan of 2830 Inez. He leaves his wife, Carole, in Port Hardy.

The B.C. Airlines' aircraft was discovered partly submerged near the shore.

The site was about 10 miles south of its planned destination, RCMP said.

NUMBERS MAKE BOGGLE

There are more molecules in a glass of water than there are glasses of water in the world's oceans.

Fifty Entries Likely

A race with an unknown starting time will be held between Vancouver and Ladysmith Saturday.

The seventh annual predicted log race is expected to pull in about 50 entries from the mainland and Vancouver Island.

During the running of the race use of watches and clocks is prohibited. The object is to bring the yacht in to each check point as close to predicted time as possible.

This year's race will finish at Manana Lodge with a dinner and prize giving at 6:30 p.m.

Borneo Call

'Ham' Has Surprise

UNION BAY — An unidentified "ham" wireless operator in Qualicum bridged a gap of 16 years between a mother in Union Bay and her son in far-away Borneo on Saturday night.

The Qualicum man made contact with an operator in Borneo who identified himself as John Day, Australian Army Signal Corps, stationed in Borneo. When Day found he was talking to a Vancouver Island operator he told the Qualicum man that his mother, Mrs. Susan MacDonald, lived in Union Bay and gave him a mesage for her.

* * *

So it was that Saturday night Mrs. MacDonald answered her telephone to receive the message from the son she had not seen since 1950. She was so excited she forgot to ask the ham for his name.

Mrs. MacDonald hears regularly by mail from her son and his family, who live in Singapore, but the unusual Saturday contact was much more exciting than an ordinary letter.

Two Young Eskimo Men Face Trial for Woman's Murder in Far North

SPENCE BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — Two young Eskimo men were to be arrainged here Thursday on a joint charge of capital murder in the fatal shooting of an Eskimo woman.

The woman, Soosee, about 40, allegedly was shot July 15 during an attempt to drive her away from a nomadic Eskimo band of which she was a member.

Members of the band claim the woman was mentally ill and her actions — damaging tents and throwing rocks — threatened the welfare of the entire band.

Charged with Soosee's murder are Isochee Shooyok, about 21, and Alyaoot, also about 21, the woman's son.

Soosee was the wife of the headman of the band of about 20 Eskimos hunting and living under primitive conditions in this remote, desolate area.

Soosee was shot at Fort Ross, 172 miles north of here on Boothia Peninsula which juts out into the Arctic Ocean far to the north of the Manitoba-Ontario border and divides the Arctic mainland coast approximately into western and eastern halves.

A jury of six, including some Eskimos, is to be chosen from communities in this part of the Arctic, including Cambridge Bay to the southwest on Victoria Island.

Conducting the trial will be Judge John H. Sissons of the Northwest Territories Territorial Court. The Eskimos call Judge Sissons Erkoktoyee, which means "the man who listens."

When RCMP first heard about Soosee's death two months after it occurred, they charged Shooyok with capital murder. A preliminary hearing was held and he was committed for trial. Subsequently, a stay of proceedings was entered and a joint charge was laid against Shooyok and Alyaoot.

The two men have not been in custody.

Gold River to Get Lessons in Hexagons

Tenders have been called for a unique new $700,000 elementary school at Gold River, the instant town being created on Vancouver Island's west coast as a result of the $60,000,000 pulp mill the Tahsis Company is building nearby. The school will consist of a cluster of five buildings connected by covered walks. The three larger hexagonal buildings will each contain six pie-shaped classrooms with folding walls. Smaller hexagonal building will house offices while the fifth building is a small gymnasium.

Exhibition To Run Four Days

The VIX this year has been extended to four days, starting Aug. 17, but 4-H clubs will wind up their activities on Aug. 19 in time for the PNE, which commences Aug. 22.

Last year's experiment with a western theme proved popular and Mr. Edgington said there will be greater emphasis on the same theme this year.

Medical Care Hit By Indian Women

Cowichans Make Local Study

* * *

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Indian history is being made at Duncan by the small but energetic group of the Cowichan Indian Homemakers' Club. They not only hosted the first all-Indian organized conference for similar clubs from all over British Columbia but they also invited as special guests Indian mothers from Alberta, the Yukon and Tacoma, Wash.

The conference under the motto Our Community, What's Its Future? brought together 100 Indian women who discussed their problems in groups Wednesday. The conference ends today.

LONG WAITS

"Even if you have an appointment they make you wait until they take all the white people"—"They don't treat us the same as whites"—"I feel they dread my being there"—"Change of attitude as soom as they find out we are under Indian Affairs branch"—"I had to take my baby to a doctor in Victoria because otherwise I would have had to wait a month to see clinic at Duncan."

FEES DIFFERENT

Mrs. Thorne said at one time she had to wait four hours at the same clinic before she was looked after.

Conference members agreed the different attitude by doctors treating Indians probably is based on the fact that they receive about $100 for delivering a white baby but only $25 for an Indian baby and are paid $7 if they call at a white home and only $2 when they have to go to an Indian home.

COURTESY

Mrs. Thorne said another question asked during the interview — "Are you satisfied with separate waiting room facilities" — resulted in 40 per cent of the people concerned replying no, 36 per cent yes and 24 per cent did not know.

Asked "Are you received by the clinic staff in a pleasant, courteous way?" some of the people said "Usually quite nice"—"Most of the time, it's the doctor that bothers me," but others complained about being treated "rudely," "no attention paid" to them and they are not "appreciated."

INSURANCE

"We were concerned about this health services problem which concerns all Indians and we decided something should be done," said Mrs. Thorne.

Mrs. Thorne said out of the 60 families interviewed, 10 per cent belonged to the MSA plan but 90 per cent come under the Indian and Northern Health services.

MANY 'NOs'

Another Cowichan club member, Juanita Elliott, said "there was no complaint from the small percentage of Cowichan Indians covered by the MSA plan."

Asked if they are satisfied with the services provided by the Duncan clinic, 64 per cent out of the families concerned said no, 28 per cent answered yes and 8 per cent did not know.

EMERGENCIES

Mrs. Thorne said according to the survey 74 per cent of the people said they never received an emergency house call during the past year, 22 per cent said yes and 4 per cent did not know.

Comments on this point ranged from "one doctor finally did come out, laughed and told us we had the flu" to "yes, but not often"—and "had to call three times before he came."

DOCTOR

She said, "He had some good and some bad answers to our problems and some of the complaints were rectified immediately."

Mr. Whitman, commenting on the Cowichan women's work, said they became aware of a problem and after considering it as a group they went and carried out the job themselves withoug any outside help.

CAN HELP

He told conference participants Indian homemakers can be of tremendous help in improving conditions and they are not confined to the reserve alone but can work for the welfare of all Indians and whites.

Mr. Whitman said, "Until very recently Indians have been told for a very long time what to do and how to do it, but the time has come now when Indians are awakening to the fact they are able to handle their own affairs."

He said, "You will realize what force is within you."

He said the homemakers must be aware they can be instrumental in creating a new type of Indian who is strong and self-confident.

Centennial Party

Lake Cowichan Votes Holiday

LAKE COWICHAN—May 7 will be a holiday here. The village council Tuesday made the proclamation for a day of centennial celebrations.

All businesses, other than essential services, will be expected to close on that date.

It only comes once in 100 years, was the opinion of the members.

Sponsors of the Babe Ruth baseball league asked that ball parks be put in order, also that a full-time caretaker be employed to stop vandalism.

The necessary repairs to bleachers and fence will be made, and team managers will each be given a key to the premises.

Fire warden H. C. Halliday reported one utility pole fire in March and regular fire practices by the department.

All necessary regulations now being complied with, the village garage dump will be closed by a gate and used for the convenience of residents only.

Man Insists He Be Paid For Carcass Removal

CAMPBELL RIVER — A dead sea-lion was discussed for the fourth time at council meeting this week. The offending carcass was removed from the municipal beach in February by a local resident at a cost of $35.

Campbell River district solicitor says the district is responsible for the bill "inasmuch as a health hazard is involved." But council is reluctant to pay.

At the Feb. 22 meeting, they had the bill sent to the fisheries department, who refused to pay it.

PRINCIPLE

On March 22 council voted three to two not to accept responsibility.

Tuesday night W. M. Dierden, who paid to have the sea-lion removed, said he was a victim of circumstances created by lack of management on the part of the council, the fisheries department and the department of health.

He said it was not the money but the principle of the thing.

LETTERS

Council's only action was to instruct the clerk to write other municipalities to find out how they deal with similar situations.

Maffeo Critical

The mayor suffered a skull fracture when he fell on the ice at an inter-council curling bonspiel in Courtenay March 26.

Centennial Project

Multi-Purpose Centre Planned for Albernis

PORT ALBERNI—A new centennial project, costing approximately $677,000, has been chosen by the Alberni Valley Centennial Committee and unanimously approved by Port Alberni and Alberni city councils.

A multi-purpose activity centre to include a 25-metre swimming pool of North American competition standards and a diving pool, as well as areas for arts and crafts, teen-age and senior citizens' activities, is proposed for a 40-acre site at 10th Avenue and Wallace Street in Port Alberni.

B.C. APPROVAL

Jack Seymour, public relations chairman of the centennial group, explained the project now must have the approval of provincial centennial officials.

If this is granted, a referendum will be held May 28 seeking approval by ratepayers of the twin cities.

MAYOR PLEASED

Mayor Les Hammer expressed his pleasure that a project has been found embodying the original intent of the first centennial plan and still encompassing other areas which Port Alberni citizens felt were also needed.

"The shape of the pool has been changed for less expensive construction," the mayor said.

$550,000

Centennial committee members explained costs locally would be about $550,000, the balance to come from winter work and federal and provincial participation.

Changing the site back to the original area on 10th Avenue adjacent to the new softball and soccer park is in keeping with original city plans to maintain this area as a park.

Shooting Victim In Hospital

PORT ALBERNI—A wounded man was found at his residence here shortly after 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Charlie Matthew Lucas, 408 3rd Avenue North, is in satisfactory condition in West Coast General Hospital. Police said they believed he was shot with a .22 rifle. Their investigation is continuing.

Parents to Pay Transportation For Ill Children

COURTENAY — School trustees of District 71 Tuesday night decided that sick children — even when in school — are the responsibility of their parents.

School board policy in the past has been to send sick children home in taxis. But when money spent on cabs in the first three months of 1966 jumped to $54.65 compared with $[illegible]40 for all of 1965, the board decided to act.

If a child appears to be seriously ill, the health unit will be alerted and the public health nurse will take over.

PHONE CALL

If the child is not seriously sick, the principal will phone the child's home. If there is nobody home, the child will stay at school until bus time.

If a parent is at home, he or she must arrange to have the child picked up at no expense to the school or wait until bus time.

APPOINTMENTS

Three appointments to principalships were authorized at the regular bi-monthly meeting. Also passed were appointments of two vice-principals, one industrial department head, one janitor-foreman, eight teachers and a director of adult education. Resignations of two teachers were accepted.

A motion was passed to give the Comox Valley Arts Council use of certain school premises from July 3 to 16 for the purpose of conducting a summer school.

But negotiations will have to be made later on use of any equipment, facilities or employees, the board decided.

COLLEGE

The meeting was told the arts council expects an enrolment for the summer school of about 300 students from all over Vancouver Island.

In other business, trustees discussed a letter from the regional college advisory board which said it cannot promote a plebiscite unless a definite proposal is put before the voters.

The committee said the plebiscite must be carefully worded to avoid repetition of last year's confusion when a regional district vote was taken.

'INDEFINITE'

There appeared to be some confusion at the board meeting because some trustees thought the Marsh report brought out last year suggested a main college and a branch college be built simultaneously while others did not agree with this idea.

Referring to a concrete proposal for the voter, chairman Brian Walter said "This plebiscite is bound to be indefinite." At least one trustee was of the opinion the college advisory committee would not proceed with promotion of a college unless definite concepts were established.

Two Brothers Hear Charges

PORT ALBERNI — Millworkers Eddie Coss and Gordon Ronald Coss appeared in Port Alberni police court Wednesday morning. One of the brothers was charged with being intoxicated, the other with non-capital murder.

Police said Eddie was found unconscious in a car on a roadway Sunday evening, following a fight at his home earlier in the day to which police were called.

Construction worker Irvine McLeod, 28, was found shot to death. Another Coss brother, Walter, 24, killed himself.

Eddie Coss was fined $20 or five days in default. He indicated the fine would be paid. Minutes later, Gordon Coss, 23, charged with the non-capital murder of McLeod, took the stand.

Prosecutor Robert J. Ohs asked he be remanded one week in custody because the crown was not prepared for the preliminary hearing. Postponement was granted.

Old Man Drowns At Sea

Mr. Sye was returning home to the reserve in a boat skippered by Cosmos Frank and accompanied by four other Ahousats. When the boat docked at the reserve on Flores Island, Mr. Sye was not aboard.

The skipper immediately went in search of him and found the body floating in the water. Artificial respiration in relays failed to revive Mr. Sye.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Tofino Hospital.

Mass will be said at St. Lawrence Church in Ahousat.

Ranger Finds Lost Children

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five children, lost Tuesday afternoon in the rugged Black Mountain area near Horseshoe Bay, have been found.

Forest ranger Red Russel found the five early Wednesday morning, huddled around a fire in the dark on a rock bluff where they had halted when Diane Stuart, 13, injured her knee.

New Road Leads to Lake

The parks branch has completed a mile-long road on which the public can now travel to remote Matheson Lake provincial park west of Victoria.

The park entrance road connects with Rocky Point Road about one-quarter of a mile east of the military arsenal. It leads in to the lake and an undeveloped picnic area.

"Outdoor enthusiasts have been asking for this road for a long time," said a parks branch official.

Apointment of Pierre Prevot as catering manager has been announced by the Empress Hotel.

In the new position he will be responsible for direction of food and beverage operations in the hotel.

Studied Nonchalance

Not a New Tactic

Johnson Is 'Keeping His Cool'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — There are elements of studied nonchalance in President Johnson's prolonged stay at his Texas ranch and his brief informal visit today to Mexico.

In the lingo of the hipster, the president is "keeping his cool" amid a sea of troubles. He has been doing so all spring, exuding bland amiability despite threatened political disaster in South Viet Nam, France quitting NATO and domestic prices soaring.

The tactic is not a new one for the big Texan who likes to keep his options secret and who in his third year as president remains head and shoulders the dominant figure here or in the political hinterlands.

He may yet stub his toe disastrously as the late president Kennedy did in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. Opportunities certainly abound.

But President Johnson remains, by all the usual political omens, a man with a hefty edge in public support even if the initial gloss and fervor are worn. Widely loved he is not, but his political sagacity is respected.

On Viet Nam, that probably means staying on even if the regime in the south—due to current trouble or later—asks the United States to decamp.

But the president has got

Iraq's Arif Killed In Crash

LONDON (AP)—Cairo Radio, monitored here, reported today that Iraq's President Abdul Salam Mohammed Arif has been killed in an air crash.

Cairo said the source of its report was Baghdad radio.

It said the crash came as the president was leaving Al Qurnah for Basra, Iraq.

OIL PORT

Basra, further to the south, is an oil port on the Shatt el Arab River and once was the centre for a big British base.

Arif assumed power in 1963. An unsuccessful attempt to overthrow him came in September, 1965, and his then prime minister, Abdul Arif Razzak was expelled from the country.

Yemeni Minister Bullet-Ridden, Assassin Dies

SAN'A, Yemen A(P) — An assassin killed Abdullah el Airiny, minister of local administration, with five shots in the head and chest Wednesday. The gunman then jumped from a third - floor window, breaking his leg, and killed himself with his last bullet as ministry guards closed in.

El Airiny, 47, died in an ambulance on his way to the Egyptian military hospital. He was named acting president of the republic last month.

Police identified the assassin as Abdul Wahab el Washaly, a former employee of the information ministry. A ministry spokesman said the gunman had called on El Airiny and asked whether he could return to his job.

El Airiny had ordered El Swashaly jailed after he wrote an anti - Soviet article in a weekly newspaper three weeks ago. He was released three days ago.

Saigon Pledges Election

SAIGON (UPI) — Chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday dramatically closed a Vietnamese political congress by signing an official decree proclaiming that an elected civilian form of government would be set up in three to five months.

Van Thieu acted after the government's hand-picked political convention upheld Buddhist demands for an elected national assembly but called for an immediate end to agitation and demonstrations.

As the congress wound up its sessions, shouting and jeering Buddhist students barricaded themselves in their high school and urged other students to join them in a nationwide boycott of

Attacks Step Up In Capital

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists, stepping up their attacks in Saigon, Thursday hurled hand grenades at military and police stations, staged gun battles in the streets and stabbed an American.

The U.S. Air Force said the first B52 attack on North Viet Nam set off a massive mountain landslide that sealed off the strategic Mu Gia Pass on the Ho Chi Minh infiltration supply line.

Court Orders Braves Back to Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Atlanta Braves must return to Milwaukee unless the National League agrees by May 16 to give the Wisconsin city a 1967 expansion franchise, a Wisconsin circuit judge ruled Wednesday night.

Judge Elmer W. Roller's order came in a decision in which he held that the Braves and National League violated Wisconsin's anti-trust laws by stripping Milwaukee of its major league team.

Roller said, "The refusal of the National League and the failure of the American League to issue a franchise to Milwaukee County . . . was a concerted refusal to deal in restraint of trade and commerce within the State of Wisconsin."

The ruling, which is virtually certain to be appealed, comes a day after the Braves opened their 1966 National League season in Atlanta before 50,000 fans Tuesday night.

In New York, a statement of comment issued on behalf of baseball commissioner William D. Eckert by a spokesman was withdrawn, and the commissioner said, "I have no comment now. I will take it under advisement and make a comment tomorrow."

Famed Sea Devil Von Luckner Dies

MALMOE, Sweden (AP)—Count Felix von Luckner, famous German Sea Devil of the First World War, died here Wednesday. He was 84.

Von Luckner commanded a speedy German commerce raider which, disguised as an old sailing vessel, took a heavy toll of Allied shipping but not a single life. The Sea Devil always made sure the crews—and even their pets—were safe before he scuttled their ships.

NOBILITY

The German naval hero had lived in Sweden since he married Ingeborg Vonengstroem, a wealthy owner of woolen mills, in 1924 except for a period during the Second World War when he was in Germany.

Von Luckner, descendant of a noble German family, ran away to sea when he was 13.

He combined both gallantry and daring in sending 14 Allied ships worth $25,000,000 to the bottom.

Von Luckner

won him more admiration than enmity. At one time he carried enough captive skippers to form a "captain's club." Another time the Seeadler had as many as 144 cats.

"I broke the British blockade with a clear conscience," he said after the First World War. "No mother, wife, child or father lost a tear."

ROAMED SEAS

In his British-built and specially - equipped sailing vessel-auxiliary cruiser, von Luckner roamed the Atlantic and Pacific masquerading as captain of a Norwegian freighter. A 64-man crew, 27 of whom spoke American, helped to deceive the British before the Seeadler was wrecked by a tidal wave on a south sea coral reef in 1917.

Von Luckner was captured by the British after he and several crew members sailed a lifeboat for 48 days to the Fiji Islands where they had hoped to seize another ship.

Between the world wars, he conducted cruises and made lecture tours in several coun-

CITY ANGRY OVER BOARD

By A. H. MURPHY

A strong movement to have Victoria pull out of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health has been gathering momentum at City Hall in the past two days.

Senior officials and city aldermen say they are "fed up" with some of the tactics of the board and its officials, and are ready to break up an agreement of five years' standing.

(Also See Page 25)

Qualified observers say that if the city withdraws from participation in metro health services the board will almost surely founder, as the city is the principal contributor to its costs.

Ald. Lily Wilson, city council's representative on the board of health, said Wednesday she was "angry and very disturbed" over an exchange of letters between the board chairman, Central Saanich Reeve R. Gordon Lee, and provincial Health Minister Martin.

SALARY HIKE

The letters referred to a request for a $2,300 increase in salary for senior medical officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, made early in 1965 and never acted upon by the city.

In his letter, Reeve Lee said that the bid for the increase was predicated on the fact that when the metro board was formed in 1961, the salary of the senior medical officer was to be the same as that of a divisional director in the provincial health service.

LOST MONEY

And so, because no action was taken by the city in 1965, the letter added, Dr. Whitbread received $1,220 a month instead of $1,415—the salary of a divisional director.

"The senior medical health officer has lost $195 per month over the past year and in spite of discussions and efforts with the Victoria city council, no ac-

Inquiry In Camera

OTTAWA (CP) — The judicial inquiry by Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells into the George Victor Spence security case got under way at a closed hearing here Wednesday night.

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative leader John Diefenbaker Wednesday night accused the government of thirsting for "political vengeance" at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry.

A few days before the inquiry resumes here, Mr. Diefenbaker uncorked his anger over the inquiry, which has been established by order-in-council, without the approval of parliament.

'PUNISHMENT'

The inquiry, to be conducted by Mr Justice Wishart Spence, had seen set up to reveal what took place more than five years ago.

"The purpose is one of political vengeance, to punish me or anyone associated with me for daring to take a stand against the government on the Spencer case," he charged.

RESUMES

Two members of the government had stated this, he said, "and the course being followed is one by way of getting even."

COUNSEL

Both have criticized the first sitting. They will be represented by counsel at next Monday's sitting.

The inquiry will examine the charges of Justice Minister Lucien Cardin that Mr. Diefenbaker mishandled the case of Gerda Munsinger.

MINISTERS

Mrs. Munsinger, according to Mr. Cardin, was a beautiful security risk involved with two or more Conservative cabinet ministers.

Mr. Cardin reported that she was dead but recently she has been traced, much alive, to Munich, Germany.

On nationwide television Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday night labeled the inquiry a vehicle for "star chamber" justice.

"What about this commission?" he asked.

Truscott Decision Today?

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

Solicitor General Larry Pennell is expected to submit his report on the Truscott case, with his recommendations, to Prime Minister Pearson and cabinet this morning.

In 1956, Steven Truscott, then 14, was sentenced to hang for the murder of 12-year-old Lynn Harper near Clinton, Ont. His sentence was commuted and he spent the past seven years in prison.

REVIEW

Freelance writer Isabel Lebourdais recently published a book maintaining the boy's innocence and demanding a royal commission into the case. Several MPs and thousands of citizens have joined the chorus for a new look at the case.

Wednesday night, Conservative Leader Diefenbaker told a national television audience that Truscott must have the opportunity of having his case reviewed.

Tattoo Artist Needles B.C. Lobster Industry

By JACK MOORE

It's part of an attempt by the federal fisheries department to nurture the tasty crustaceans in Pacific waters—the fifth attempt since 1896.

Fisheries Scientists Wednesday brought two lady lobsters, imported from New Brunswick, to the Vancouver studio of Doc Forbes, British Columbia's leading tattoo artist, who for many years had a shop in Victoria.

They were brought to Vancouver from Barkley Sound, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where the latest lobster-raising attempt is taking place.

All the other attempts failed, and nobody seems to know why. The lobsters, instead of taking up housekeeping and producing more lobsters, just disappeared.

One of the difficulties in keeping the latest little group of lobsters in order, however, is lack of identification. One lobster looks pretty much like another, so the marine biologists decided to mark them.

Tags or leg bands would do, they decided. They kept coming off or getting waterlogged or being ripped off by other lobsters.

So they're trying Doc Forbes' needle.

Fisheries officials hope the lobsters will multiply, because epicurean tastes have made the lobster the most valuable single marine species in Canada.

Last year, the lobster industry was worth more than the landed value of all Pacific salmon combined.

Post Office Yields Haul

ST. FELICIEN, Que. (CP)—Post office officials discovered Wednesday thieves broke into the post office in this community 180 miles north of Quebec City overnight, getting away with between $60,000 and $75,000.

A spokesman for the Quebec Provincial Police, which is investigating the theft, said the money was taken from two of five postal sacks.
